DROUGHT CUTS INTO NATION'S FOOD SUPPLY

NO DANGER OF FAMINE, SUMMARY REVEALS

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The matter of fact language of an official government report which said the drought would "materially affect the national food supply" today told why President Roosevelt feared the situation had approached distaster proportions.

The president, however, made it plain that there was little likelihood of anything like famine conditions. He found support in the comprehensive summary issued by the department of agriculture. The report said the ravages of the angry and unclouded sun did not "mean there will be a national food shortage."

Otherwise, there were few cheerful lines in the most thorough review yet made of the loss and misery growing out of the worst recorded drought in this country's history. Approximately 30 states have felt its effect and the continued lack of rain is rapidly turning portions of the west and midwest into semblance of a desert.

Bit of Comfort

A bit of comfort, small as it was, came from the weather bureau. Forecasters reported local showers, "most of them light," in the Ohio valley and in the section northward from western Iowa and Nebraska during the last 24 hours. But there was nothing to indicate that a break in the dry spell was in sight.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated emphatically it was the government's duty to give all the aid at its command to those in distress and his aides were moving swiftly.

Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, said it would be his policy to give farmers in the stricken areas paying jobs where possible, instead of doling out relief money. Hopkins has already instituted a work relief program.

Chester C. Davis, the farm administrator, conferred with members of congress and said he felt the price paid for cattle in the drought section was a fair one.

The administration also went ahead with preparation for a request for approximately $525,000,000 for drought relief.

The report said wheat production would be low "but there are still large stocks on hand and total supplies should be ample to last until the 1935 crop becomes available."

"On the whole the most noticeable changes in the food situation during the next twelve months are likely to be decreases in the production of dairy products and eggs and excessive supply of low grade beef."

The summary added that the 16 north central and western states "in which small grains, hay, pastures and ranges have been most seriously damaged, contain about 46 percent of the nation's hay-and-pasture-consuming - animals, (horses, mules, cattle and sheep) and about 54 percent of the nation's hogs."

Insisting that the catastrophe would not mean the abandonment of production control efforts, farm officials privately said there were indications that farmers might be told to plant all their wheat acreage for the next crop and that an

FORESTS HURT BY CWA CREWS

Darling Says Unplanned Program Harmful in Many States

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6 (AP) Jay N. Darling, chief of the United States biological survey, speaking before the national council of federated garden clubs here today, charged that CWA workers in many states had done more damage to forests "than can be rectified by CCC workers in 100 years."

He declared that the lack of a planned conservation program in the state had resulted in the cutting down of healthy trees and shrubs with commercial, scenic, and water shed value "that future generations will have to pay for."

"The people have stolen from nature that which they cannot use in the waste and destruction of natural resources," he said.

Darling criticized states which he said had carried on ill-advised and useless drainage projects, taking away water from "17,000,000 acres of lakes, creeks and marshes, and turning the water into the Mississippi to drown people in costly and destructive floods."

Reports submitted at committee meetings of the national council today indicated that some progress had been made in doing away with objectionable billboards, and placing them where they will not obstruct scenic views. A resolution was adopted endorsing the project of the Robert E. Lee memorial foundation to restore gardens at Straford Hall, Va., birthplace of General Lee.

Queen Astrid Of Belgium Has Son

Brussels, June 6 (AP) Queen Astrid of the Belgians gave birth tonight to a son, the third child in the royal family of King Leopold.

The child was born at 11:35 p. m. in the royal castle at Lacken. Both mother and child were reported well.

It is understood the baby will be named Albert, for the late king, father of Leopold, who fell to his death while mountain climbing.

King LeLopold and the queen, a member of the Swedish royal family, were married in 1926. They have two other children, Josephine Charlotte, born in 1927, and Baudoin, born in 1930.

Republicans in State Control Just For Day

Lansing, Mich., June 6 (AP) The governor's office returned to the control of the Republicans today with the temporary elevation of Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, to the office.

Fitzgerald was acting governor as a result of an apparent competition between Governor Comstock and Lieut. Gov. Allen E. Stebbins to smooth out a party quarrel in the Michigan Democratic congressional delegation at Washington.

Governor Comstock, enroute to Washington, was surprised to find the lieutenant governor aboard the same train. The information that the two were together came in a telegram from Cumberland, Md., from Governor Comstock to Fitzgerald.

"Find lieutenant governor on this train," the telegram said. "Looks like chance for a little practice for you. Don't go too far with your last Saturday's program."

The governor's facetious reference to Fitzgerald's "Saturday program" alluded to the political rally held for Fitzgerald at his home town in Grand Ledge last Saturday. It was there that Fitzgerald opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

Twin Cousins Of Dionne Girls Born

San Francisco, June 6 (AP) Twin cousins of the Canadian Dionne quintuplets were born here today.

The twin boys, born to Mrs. Aldo Beltrami, a first cousin of Ovila Dionne, father of the Canadian babies, weigh only 2 pounds, 14 ounces, and 2 pounds, 14 1-2 ounces, respectively.

They arrived a couple of months before they were expected, Dr. Abraham Bernstein explained and consequently are receiving special attention. Mrs. Beltrami's father's brother was the father of the father of the Canadian quintuplets, she said. The twin tendency, however, appears to come from the maternal side of her family. Her mother, Mrs. Eva Billings, was a twin and there were several sets of twins in Mrs. Billings' family.

Bloodhounds Lead Searchers to River

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Searching parties Wednesday dragged the Goulais river and searched along its banks near Searchmont, Ont., for the body of Jimmy Wheeler, 6-year-old son of a mining camp cook. Bloodhounds used in the search for the boy, missing since Saturday, twice led searchers to the river shore, indicating the boy drowned.

STATE'S DEMO LEADERS HAVE VARIED VIEWS

HINT FEDERAL POST MAY BE OFFERED COMSTOCK

Washington, June 6 (AP) Michigan Democratic leaders met in closed session here tonight in an effort to settle party disputes within their ranks, but shortly before midnight there was no indication that an agreement would be reached between the various groups.

Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders came to the capital to talk things over with the party's delegation in congress from the state.

The meeting was closed to newspapermen by Representative Brown (D-Mich.) chairman of the meeting. It was reported, however, that a majority of the house members from Michigan opposed the renomination of Governor Comstock.

BY ROBERT C. ANDERSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 6 (AP) Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders sat down tonight with the congressional delegation of their party from the state in what appeared to be a futile effort to agree upon anything.

A variation of views on practically all subjects of prime interest to the party in the state was so wide before the meeting began that even the members of the house expressed no hope of reaching any conclusions.

Members of the delegation interviewed before the meeting were very definite in saying that "any discussion about patronage is out." Nevertheless, one of the party of five that came to Washington with the governor was John Bare, vigorous contender for appointment as collector of customs, and supported by most of the Detroit delegation.

Bradley in Group

Another of the group was Martin J. Bradley, speaker of the house of representatives, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. senate, and reported to be the candidate of Horatio J. Abbott, Democratic national committeeman, for the office of collector of internal revenue, which post Abbott recently quit after conferences with Secretary Morgenthau, and after the latter said investigations of the conduct of the office were under way.

Although the governor had said one of his missions in Washington was to urge approval of more public works money for Michigan, his visit took on more political significance. Reports have been current recently that the governor, a candidate for renomination, might be offered a federal appointment.

Besides the governor, Abbott, Bradley and Bare the party included W. Alfred Debo, chairman

Iron River, Mich., June 6 (AP) Connected with mining activities more than 50 years, Charles E. Since 1915 he has been president of the Lake Superior Mining Institute.

Negro Taxi Driver Admits Murdering Girl From Calumet

Detroit, June 6 (AP) Inspector John I. Navarre of the police homicide squad announced tonight that Joe Lightsy, 27-year-old negro taxi driver, had admitted the murder two weeks ago of Martha Kangas, 19-year-old domestic, who came here from Calumet Mich., to find employment.

He was quoted as admitting the shooting of Miss Kangas on the night of May 24 in the rear of a vacant house at 100 Pallister avenue, several hours after his arrest. Inspector Navarre had announced earlier in the night that Lightsy had admitted firing the shot which killed William Kraft, 57, during a beer garden holdup here Sunday night.

Shot by Accident

The science of ballistics linked Lightsy with both crimes before his confession, Navarre reported. Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, examining a .45 caliber revolver found in Lightsy's possession when arrested in a rooming house, announced that the bullets that killed Kraft and the Kangas girl were fired by the gun.

In describing Lightsy's confession of the girl's slaying, Inspector Navarre quoted the taxi driver as saying:

"I met the girl about midnight on the street in front of the Pallister avenue house. I told her to come with me back of the house. She said, 'No, I'm afraid you'll hurt me'."

Lightsy said he promised not to hurt her, but only wanted her money, according to the inspector.

"When she saw the gun I had in my hand, she twisted away from me," said Lightsy. "I didn't mean to shoot her. The gun went off accidentally."

Lightsy said he dragged the body into the arbor behind the house after the girl was dead, and fled.

When arrested he was out on bond waiting trial on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Navarre said Lightsy was taken in custody for questioning about both deaths after police had scrutinized his record for carrying concealed weapons and allegedly molesting women and girls.

Detective Sergts. Charles Snyder and Oscar Berry arrested Lightsy as he slept in a rooming house today. The officers reported that Lightsy held a .45 calibre revolver in his hand as he slept. The officers overpowered him and removed him to police headquarters where Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert took a hand in the questioning.

Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, ballistic expert of the police department, examined Lightsy's gun and expressed the opinion the gun was used in both the Kraft and Kangas slayings.

Miss Kangas' body was found May 26, in an arbor behind a house at 100 Pallister avenue. She had been beaten and shot, and officials estimated she had been dead about 36 hours.

STEEL REJECTS CLOSED SHOPS

Johnson's Proposal for Special Labor Board Is Considered

BY F. J. STARZEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP) Employers of the steel industry declined flatly tonight to consider any proposal for a "closed shop" but reached no decision on a proposal for a special labor relations board, suggested by General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, as a means to avert a threatened general strike.

Directors of the American iron and steel institute, after a conference that had lasted since mid-morning, issued a statement declaring demands of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers "do not relate to grievances of the workers and that the sole demand is for a closed shop."

Johnson Present

The statement added "as the industry is unalterably opposed to the closed shop, the demand could not be considered."

General Johnson appeared at the meeting late in the day, after speeding from Washington by airplane, with Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, and Miss Frances Robinson, Johnson's assistant.

The recovery administrator proposed creation of a labor relations board for the steel industry to function similarly to the special agency created in settlement of the automobile strike.

No comment could be obtained from the steel leaders on the reception given Johnson's proposal. It was indicated, however, that the administrator's plan would be discussed further at tomorrow's session of the directors.

Spokesmen for the institute stressed that the NRA proposal had not been rejected.

The directors' meeting was behind closed doors but it was intimated that the general labor situation had been discussed before General Johnson's arrival, with no specific reference to the threatened strike which would affect the industry's 392,000 workers.

Bandits Explode Safe, Steal $300

Girl Testifies Derham Admitted Being Father Of Illegitimate Child

Sault St. Marie, June 6—Miss Martha Danculovic, of Akron, O., and Iron Mountain, who is suing State Senator Ray Derham, of Iron Mountain, for $25,000, alleging seduction, testified in federal court today that the senator had "frequently" admitted he was the father of her child.

Later in the morning, when cross-examination was started, Miss Danculovic told of her social contacts with the Derham family. She said that in the summer of 1927, after she had been introduced to Derham in Iron Mountain, she became very friendly with both the senator and his wife, taught both how to play tennis, and from 1927 to 1931 accepted their hospitality on various occasions.

She also admitted that she was a Christmas dinner guest at the Derham house at least once and that Mr. and Mrs. Derham often visited at the home of Joseph Danculovic, her brother.

She denied she had anything to do with the loan of $100 made by Senator Derham to her brother, Joseph, to help pay her expenses at the Northern State Teachers' college in Marquette. The transaction was entirely between Derham and her brother, she asserted, adding that her brother paid back $95 of the loan and she paid $5.

Attitude Changed, Claim

She also stated that Mrs. Derham "seemed to resent" the loan the senator made to Joseph Danculovic and her attitude toward the plaintiff changed after that.

Swanson Approves Plan for Building 24 Naval Vessels

Washington, June 6 (AP) In the navy's first definite move toward treaty strength, Secretary Swanson today approved plans for the construction of 24 naval vessels.

Fourteen destroyers and six submarines, Swanson said, will be the first ships built under the Vinson plan to lay down by 1939 the 102 remaining fighting craft permitted by treaty.

They will be constructed with $40,000,000 of earmarked public work funds to be provided in the deficiency appropriation bill pending in the senate.

In addition, one heavy and three light cruisers will be built out of current appropriations from specifications approved today. Swanson said the navy hoped to open bids some time in August.

The secretary's announcement made in the interlude before a preliminary naval conversations open June 15 in London, followed a statement by President Roosevelt that no new definition of naval policy would be made in advance of the conference.

Says Quintuplets Fortunate Not To Be Born In U. S.

Washington, June 6 (AP) Representative Truax, outspoken Democrat from Ohio, thinks it may be lucky for those five little Dionne girl babies who have been getting so much attention lately that they were born in Canada and not in the United States.

"It is fortunate for them," he told the house today, "that the quintuplets we have been reading about in the papers every day now were not born in this country, for Secretary Wallace probably would decide there were two too many and probably want to plow them under."

LIQUOR COMISH PASSES ON BIDS

C. B. Farrell Is Granted License for Sale of Spirits

Lansing, Mich., June 6 (AP)—The state liquor control commission today set in motion machinery for supplementing its system of state liquor stores.

The commission began accepting bids on some 750 applications by merchants throughout the state for the privilege of selling liquor. By nightfall the commission had designated some seventy merchants in 23 counties.

To a woman went the distinction of being the first specially designated merchant. She is Mrs. Mildred G. Pizer, who operates a department store at Harrisville, Alcona county. Mrs. Pizer's bid was one of two accepted for the county, the other being that of Charles T. Mills, grocery and meat store proprietor at Lincoln.

Druggists Favored

One of the successful bidders was Everett Cole, who operates a garage and grocery store at St. James on Beaver Island.

Most of the bids were on the basis of the full return of $1,200 a year allowed under the liquor control act. Some agreed to handle liquor, however, for less, including one bid for $250.

The opening batch of designations showed the commission will carry out its anticipated policy of favoring druggists' applications. More than half of the first group designated were druggists but some drug store applications were rejected.

An application submitted by a dentist was rejected at Boyne City. Merchants who will handle liquor include cigar stores, hotels, general stores, filling stations, oil companies, bakeries, hardware stores, and produce companies.

The bids submitted by the merchants are in the nature of a contract with the commission. The commission will sell liquor to the merchants at a minimum of 15 percent below the regular retail price with a maximum profit to the merchant of $1,200 a year. The number of merchants in each locality are regulated on a graduated population basis.

Merchants licensed so far include:

Alger county — James H. Thompson, Grand Marais, general store.

Baraga county — James E. Webb, L'Anse, gas station.

Delta county—C. B. Farrell, Escanaba, druggist; G. E. Dahlin, Gladstone, druggist; John W. Nepper, Isabella, general store; Thornel Hansen, Lathrop, general store; Harry Buchman, Rapid River, druggist.

Dickinson county—William J. Tobin, Channing, hardware; City Drug company, Iron Mountain; Smaniotti Brothers, Loretto, general store; George Twardzik, Norway township, gas station; James Nora, Norway, groceries.

Permit To Serve Beer At One-Arm Chairs Is Granted

Detroit, June 6 (AP) George F. Carroll, Detroit manager for the state liquor control commission, said today that permission has been granted officials at Navin field and the Detroit race track to serve beer at "one-arm" chairs. Lack of room in which to place tables was the reason for the special permit, Carroll said.

H. P. FLETCHER SELECTED FOR PARTY LEADER

PROGRESSIVE, LIBERAL SPIRIT IS ADVOCATED

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—The Republican national committee today declared a new platform of "careful reform" for the nation, dispatched thanks to former President Hoover for championing "American governmental ideals" and selected Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, former ambassador to Italy, for the party chairman.

Fletcher's election, after 48 hours of controversy, was seconded by one of his strongest rivals for the post, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, the choice of a block of western and mid-western committeemen, with support from eastern leaders including Henry Roraback of Connecticut and Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Hoover Praised

The new platform, issued as the basis on which the party will ask for votes in the fall congressional races, declared for a "liberal and progressive spirit," and made the party stand for social legislation to end pressing economic problems.

Fletcher and John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, were the only two names in nomination as Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman of the party, began calling the roll by states. The sessions were still closed.

The election of the new chairman came at 2:34 p. m., central standard time. Of the 92 votes cast, Fletcher received 67 and Hamilton 25. Hamilton immediately moved that the election be declared unanimous.

Before the balloting started, the committee dispatched a telegram to former President Herbert Hoover reading:

"The Republican national committee, in meeting assembled, sends you most cordial greeting and reiterates its appreciation of your devotion to our country's best interests and your substantial contribution to the upholding and advancement of American ideals of government we express the earnest hope that you may be spared for many years to enjoy the well-earned gratitude of your countrymen."

The new platform declared that the country had been "backward in social legislation" and announced that the Republican party was determined to meet the problems of unemployment, of impoverished old age, and of depressions in general.

Score Gold Policy

But it called the recovery program "dictatorial," declaring American institutions were in danger of being engulfed by an all-powerful central government, and accused the Democrats of reckless spending and risky inflation.

As for business, the new platform said:

"We believe in individual initiative and the maintenance of competition," but added parenthetically competition should be "check-

Twin Cousins Of Dionne Girls Born

San Francisco, June 6 (AP)—Twin cousins of the Canadian Dionne quintuplets were born here today.

The twin boys, born to Mrs. Aldo Beltrami, a first cousin of Ovila Dionne, father of the Canadian babies, weigh only 2 pounds, 14 ounces, and 2 pounds, 14 1-2 ounces, respectively.

They arrived a couple of months before they were expected, Dr. Abraham Bernstein explained and consequqently are receiving special attention. Mrs. Beltrami's father's brother was the father of the father of the Canadian quintuplets, she said. The twin tendency, however, appears to come from the maternal side of her family. Her mother, Mrs. Eva Billings, was a twin and there were several sets of twins in Mrs. Billings' family.

Marie, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Searching parties Wednesday dragged the Goulais river and searched along its banks near Searchmont, Ont., for the body of Jimmy Wheeler, 6-year-old son of a mining camp cook. Bloodhounds used in the search for the boy, missing since Saturday, twice led searchers to the river shore, indicating the boy drowned.

STATE'S DEMO LEADERS HAVE VARIED VIEWS

HINT FEDERAL POST MAY BE OFFERED COMSTOCK

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Michigan Democratic leaders met in closed session here tonight in an effort to settle party disputes within their ranks, but shortly before midnight there was no indication that an agreement would be reached between the various groups.

Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders came to the capital to talk things over with the party's delegation in congress from the state.

The meeting was closed to newspapermen by Representative Brown (D-Mich.) chairman of the meeting. It was reported, however, that a majority of the house members from Michigan opposed the renomination of Governor Comstock.

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders sat down tonight with the congressional delegation of their party from the state in what appeared to be a futile effort to agree upon anything.

A variation of views on practically all subjects of prime interest to the party in the state was so wide before the meeting began that even the members of the house expressed no hope of reaching any conclusions.

Members of the delegation interviewed before the meeting were very definite in saying that "any discussion about patronage is out." Nevertheless, one of the party of five that came to Washington with the governor was John Barc, vigorous contender for appointment as collector of customs, and supported by most of the Detroit delegation.

Bradley in Group

Another of the group was Martin J. Bradley, speaker of the house of representatives, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. senate, and reported to be the candidate of Horatio J. Abbott, Democratic national committeeman, for the office of collector of internal revenue, which post Abbott recently quit after conferences with Secretary Morgenthau, and after the latter said investigations of the conduct of the office were under way.

Although the governor had said one of his missions in Washington was to urge approval of more public works money for Michigan, his visit took on more political significance. Reports have been current recently that the governor, a candidate for renomination, might be offered a federal appointment.

Besides the governor, Abbott, Bradley and Barc the party included W. Alfred Debo, chairman

Negro Taxi Driver Admits Murdering Girl From Calumet

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—Inspector John I. Navarre of the police homicide squad announced tonight that Joe Lightsy, 27-year-old negro taxi driver, had admitted the murder two weeks ago of Martha Kangas, 19-year-old domestic, who came here from Calumet Mich., to find employment.

He was quoted as admitting the shooting of Miss Kangas on the night of May 24 in the rear of a vacant house at 100 Pallister avenue, several hours after his arrest. Inspector Navarre had announced earlier in the night that Lightsy had admitted firing the shot which killed William Kraft, 57, during a beer garden holdup here Sunday night.

Shot by Accident

The science of ballistics linked Lightsy with both crimes before his confession, Navarre reported. Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, examining a .45 caliber revolver found in Lightsy's possession when arrested in a rooming house, announced that the bullets that killed Kraft and the Kangas girl were fired by the gun.

In describing Lightsy's confession of the girl's slaying, Inspector Navarre quoted the taxi driver as saying:

"I met the girl about midnight on the street in front of the Pallister avenue house. I told her to come with me back of the house. She said, 'No, I'm afraid you'll hurt me'".

Lightsy said he promised not to hurt her, but only wanted her money, according to the inspector.

"When she saw the gun I had in my hand, she twisted away from me," said Lightsy. "I didn't mean to shoot her. The gun went off accidentally."

Lightsy said he dragged the body into the arbor behind the house after the girl was dead, and fled.

When arrested he was out on bond waiting trial on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Navarre said Lightsy was taken in custody for questioning about both deaths after police had scrutinized his record for carrying concealed weapons and allegedly molesting women and girls.

Detective Sergts. Charles Snyder and Oscar Berry arrested Lightsy as he slept in a rooming house today. The officers reported that Lightsy held a .45 calibre revolver in his hand as he slept. The officers overpowered him and removed him to police headquarters where Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert took a hand in the questioning.

Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, ballistic expert of the police department, examined Lightsy's gun and expressed the opinion the gun was used in both the Kraft and Kangas slayings.

Miss Kangas' body was found May 26, in an arbor behind a house at 100 Pallister avenue. She had been beaten and shot, and officials estimated she had been dead about 36 hours.

STEEL REJECTS CLOSED SHOPS

Johnson's Proposal for Special Labor Board Is Considered

BY F. J. STARZEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Employers of the steel industry declined flatly tonight to consider any proposal for a "closed shop" but reached no decision on a proposal for a special labor relations board, suggested by General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, as a means to avert a threatened general strike.

Directors of the American iron and steel institute, after a conference that had lasted since mid-morning, issued a statement declaring demands of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers "do not relate to grievances of the workers and that the sole demand is for a closed shop."

Johnson Present

The statement added "as the industry is unalterably opposed to the closed shop, the demand could not be considered."

General Johnson appeared at the meeting late in the day, after speeding from Washington by airplane, with Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, and Miss Frances Robinson, Johnson's assistant.

The recovery administrator proposed creation of a labor relations board for the steel industry to function similarly to the special agency created in settlement of the automobile strike.

No comment could be obtained from the steel leaders on the reception given Johnson's proposal. It was indicated, however, that the administrator's plan would be discussed further at tomorrow's session of the directors.

Spokesmen for the institute stressed that the NRA proposal had not been rejected.

The directors' meeting was behind closed doors but it was intimated that the general labor situation had been discussed before General Johnson's arrival, with no specific reference to the threatened strike which would affect the industry's 392,000 workers.

Bandits Explode Safe, Steal $300

Girl Testifies Derham Admitted Being Father Of Illegitimate Child

Sault Ste. Marie, June 6—Miss Martha Danculovic, of Akron, O., and Iron Mountain, who is suing State Senator Ray Derham, of Iron Mountain, for $25,000, alleging seduction, testified in federal court today that the senator had "frequently" admitted he was the father of her child.

Later in the morning, when cross-examination was started, Miss Danculovic told of her social contacts with the Derham family. She said that in the summer of 1927, after she had been introduced to Derham in Iron Mountain, she became very friendly with both the senator and his wife, taught both how to play tennis, and from 1927 to 1931 accepted their hospitality on various occasions.

She also admitted that she was a Christmas dinner guest at the Derham house at least once and that Mr. and Mrs. Derham often visited at the home of Joseph Danculovic, her brother.

She denied she had anything to do with the loan of $100 made by Senator Derham to her brother, Joseph, to help pay her expenses at the Northern State Teachers' college in Marquette. The transaction was entirely between Derham and her brother, she asserted, adding that her brother paid back $95 of the loan and she paid $5.

Attitude Changed, Claim

She also stated that Mrs. Derham "seemed to resent" the loan the senator made to Joseph Danculovic and her attitude toward the plaintiff changed after that.

Swanson Approves Plan for Building 24 Naval Vessels

Washington, June 6 (AP)—In the navy's first definite move toward treaty strength, Secretary Swanson today approved plans for the construction of 24 naval vessels.

Fourteen destroyers and six submarines, Swanson said, will be the first ships built under the Vinson plan to lay down by 1939 the 102 remaining fighting craft permitted by treaty.

They will be constructed with $40,000,000 of earmarked public work funds to be provided in the deficiency appropriation bill pending in the senate.

In addition, one heavy and three light cruisers will be built out of current appropriations from specifications approved today. Swanson said the navy hoped to open bids some time in August.

The secretary's announcement, made in the interlude before a preliminary naval conversations open June 15 in London, followed a statement by President Roosevelt that no new definition of naval policy would be made in advance of the conference.

Says Quintuplets Fortunate Not To Be Born In U. S.

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Representative Truax, outspoken Democrat from Ohio, thinks it may be lucky for those five little Dionne girl babies who have been getting so much attention lately that they were born in Canada and not in the United States.

"It is fortunate for them," he told the house today, "that the quintuplets we have been reading about in the papers every day now were not born in this country, for Secretary Wallace probably would decide there were two too many and probably want to plow them under."

LIQUOR COMISH PASSES ON BIDS

C. B. Farrell Is Granted License for Sale of Spirits

Lansing, Mich., June 6 (AP)—The state liquor control commission today set in motion machinery for supplementing its system of state liquor stores.

The commission began accepting bids on some 750 applications by merchants throughout the state for the privilege of selling liquor. By nightfall the commission had designated some seventy merchants in 23 counties.

To a woman went the distinction of being the first specially designated merchant. She is Mrs. Mildred G. Pizer, who operates a department store at Harrisville, Alcona county. Mrs. Pizer's bid was one of two accepted for the county, the other being that of Charles T. Mills, grocery and meat store proprietor at Lincoln.

Druggists Favored

One of the successful bidders was Everett Cole, who operates a garage and grocery store at St. James on Beaver Island.

Most of the bids were on the basis of the full return of $1,200 a year allowed under the liquor control act. Some agreed to handle liquor, however, for less, including one bid for $250.

The opening batch of designations showed the commission will carry out its anticipated policy of favoring druggists' applications. More than half of the first group designated were druggists but some drug store applications were rejected.

An application submitted by a dentist was rejected at Boyne City. Merchants who will handle liquor include cigar stores, hotels, general stores, filling stations, oil companies, bakeries, hardware stores, and produce companies.

The bids submitted by the merchants are in the nature of a contract with the commission. The commission will sell liquor to the merchants at a minimum of 15 percent below the regular retail price with a maximum profit to the merchant of $1,200 a year. The number of merchants in each locality are regulated on a graduated population basis.

Merchants licensed so far include:

Alger county—James H. Thompson, Grand Marais, general store.

Baraga county—James E. Webb, L'Anse, gas station.

Delta county—C. B. Farrell, Escanaba, druggist; G. E. Dahlin, Gladstone, druggist; John W. Nepper, Isabella, general store; Thornel Hansen, Lathrop, general store; Harry Buchman, Rapid River, druggist.

Dickinson county—William J. Tobin, Channing, hardware; City Drug company, Iron Mountain; Smaniotti Brothers, Loretto, general store; George Ttwardzik, Norway township, gas station; James Nora, Norway, groceries.

Permit To Serve Beer At One-Arm Chairs Is Granted

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—George F. Carroll, Detroit manager for the state liquor control commission, said today that permission has been granted officials at Navin field and the Detroit race track to serve beer at "one-arm" chairs. Lack of room in which to place tables was the reason for the special permit, Carroll said.

H. P. FLETCHER SELECTED FOR PARTY LEADER

PROGRESSIVE, LIBERAL SPIRIT IS ADVOCATED

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—The Republican national committee today declared a new platform of "careful reform" for the nation, dispatched thanks to former President Hoover for championing "American governmental ideals" and selected Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, former ambassador to Italy, for the party chairman.

Fletcher's election, after 48 hours of controversy, was seconded by one of his strongest rivals for the post, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, the choice of a block of western and mid-western committeemen, with support from eastern leaders including Henry Roraback of Connecticut and Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Hoover Praised

The new platform, issued as the basis on which the party will ask for votes in the fall congressional races, declared for a "liberal and progressive spirit," and made the party stand for social legislation to end pressing economic problems.

Fletcher and John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, were the only two names in nomination as Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman of the party, began calling the roll by states. The sessions were still closed.

The election of the new chairman came at 2:34 p. m., central standard time. Of the 92 votes cast, Fletcher received 67 and Hamilton 25. Hamilton immediately moved that the election be declared unanimous.

Before the balloting started, the committee dispatched a telegram to former President Herbert Hoover reading:

"The Republican national committee, in meeting assembled, sends you most cordial greeting and reiterates its appreciation of your devotion to our country's best interests and your substantial contribution to the upholding and advancement of American ideals of government we express the earnest hope that you may be spared for many years to enjoy the well-earned gratitude of your countrymen."

The new platform declared that the country had been "backward in social legislation" and announced that the Republican party was determined to meet the problems of unemployment, of impoverished old age, and of depressions in general.

Score Gold Policy

But it called the recovery program "dictatorial," declaring American institutions were in danger of being engulfed by an all-powerful central government, and accused the Democrats of reckless spending and risky inflation.

As for business, the new platform said:

"We believe in individual initiative and the maintenance of competition," but added parenthetically competition should be "check-

WANT GERMANY BACK IN PARLEY

France Trying to Sway Hitler to Return to Arms Conference

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Geneva, June 6 (AP)—Some of the clouds which have been hanging over the disarmament conference were dissipated today by revelation that France is negotiating for Germany's return to the parley.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, who had been the central figure of stormy sessions earlier in the week, made this revelation, while discussing a resolution which proposed the conference go ahead with the study of various problems "without prejudice to any private negotiations" between governments.

The new French proposal, involving investigation of regional pacts, internationalization of civil aviation and the munitions traffic, brought from Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, the statement that "this has been an encouraging day."

Russia May Enter

"Yesterday was a day of youth and temperament," said Barthou, apparently referring to his bitter clash with Henderson. "Today is a moment of prudence."

The steering committee, to which the French resolution was referred, adjourned until Friday morning, and a general meeting of the conference was called for Friday afternoon.

Barthou was credited here with having won Chancellor Hitler over to negotiations for return to the conference by agreeing to the conditions for the Saar plebiscite, which Germany had insisted was the paramount problem of the moment.

The possibility that Russia may enter the League of Nations also is considered to have caused Hitler to do some hard thinking about returning to the conference and to league membership.

"Frankly, that means Germany," said Barthou in speaking of leaving the way open for "private negotiations" toward disarmament.

Under the Barthou resolution, the conference would ask its political commission to resume study of regional security pacts in Europe to determine what relationship, if any, they might have to a general convention.

The air committee would begin immediately study of the internationalization of civil aviation, abolition of air bombardment and reduction of air forces.

A special committee would study manufacture and trade in arms.

MURDER CHARGE

GIRL TESTIFIES AGAINST DERHAM

for Derham cross-examined the young woman. He asked:

"During the holiday period of 1931, when you were at Iron Mountain, did you go to a dance in the Eagle hall?"

"I did," she said.

"Did you get drunk at that dance?"

"I did not," she declared.

She said that her relatives in the house at Iron Mountain were angry at her because she went to the dance, leaving them there. She did not go to the dance with Derham, but the name of her escort was not brought into the testimony.

Miss Daneulovic, who began her testimony Tuesday morning, finished her story to the jury shortly before noon today, but cross-examination was to continue this afternoon.

Tells of Meetings

She testified that in December, 1931, she spent five days in a Chicago hotel with Senator Derham, after which she wrote him a brief note stating she wanted nothing more to do with him and did not want to see him again.

In March, 1932, she testified, Derham wrote her at Akron urging her to meet him in Detroit during her spring vacation and that he "had a plan."

This was one of 35 of Derham's letters to Miss Daneulovic that have been introduced as evidence for the plaintiff. This letter said, in part:

"You say we should have an understanding. How can that be when one day you love me and the next you say you are through? I have a plan. I hope to see you in Cleveland or Detroit."

"I accepted the invitation to go to Detroit and hear about the plan," the plaintiff testified.

On March 14, 1932, Derham is alleged to have written another letter to her in which he said he was leaving for Detroit and would go from there to Washington. "Love to have you go to Washington with me," this letter stated. "Would dearly love to see you. One minute you are a darling lover. The next you are an Eskimo. You are an enigma."

She testified that she went to Detroit and spent the week end with Derham.

Says He Told Political Plans

"Mr. Derham said he could not marry me at this time because he was married," she testified in relating their alleged conversation in a Detroit hotel. "He urged me to be sensible," she said, "and outlined his political career and plans to me. He asked me to wait and said he would get a divorce as soon as he could. He reiterated his statements about what an ideal wife I would make and he pictured our future life together. He said we would have a swimming pool and a tennis court.

"We talked about babies. He said he could not get a divorce until things were straightened out at home. I believed him."

She testified that he wired her money at Akron after she had returned to that city from Detroit and that she went to Washington, meeting him there. They spent a day together in a Washington hotel, she said, and then went to New York city where, according to the young woman, they remained three or four days in a hotel.

In New York, she said, Senator Derham "registered us as Mr. and Mrs. Ray Derham, Iron Mountain, Mich."

With Him During Convention, Charge

She said she stayed with Derham in a Detroit hotel from May 27, to June 1, 1932, during the convention of the Polar Bear division of World war veterans, and that she went from Detroit to Duluth, Minn., and then to Madison, Wis., to attend summer school at the University of Wisconsin.

She testified that when she and Derham were together in Detroit and in Washington and New York he had intimate relations with her.

In July, 1932, she said, Derham wrote to her at Madison and informed her that he had "jumped into the race for state senator." "If I land," the letter stated, "I will be able to place an excellent English teacher after January 1."

Miss Daneulovic testified that her baby was born Dec. 5, 1932. The baby is a boy. She said the child is in the Sault with her.

"Who is the father of your baby?" asked the plaintiff's attorney.

"Ray Derham," was her reply.

"Did he ever admit the fatherhood?"

"Frequently," she stated.

Born in California

She testified that the baby was born in the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles, Calif. She went to Los Angeles with her sister shortly before the birth of the child, she said.

She said that after the child was born she did not see Derham until October, 1933, in Iron Mountain. She went to Iron Mountain to consult her attorney about her suit against Derham, she testified. She said Derham came to her sister's home in Iron Mountain and asked to see the baby.

"I asked him to leave," Miss Daneulovic testified, "and he said 'I think I have a right to come here. It is my baby.' "

She testified that since the baby was born she had not taught school but had been working part time in a department store in Akron for $8 a week. During the last year she taught school her salary was $145 a month, she said. She stated she had worked only one month in 1934 and that she is not employed now.

In California, after the baby's birth, she said, she took in washing for four months and worked for seven months taking care of children for $6 a week. She stated she returned to Akron from California shortly before Easter of this year.

In her testimony late yesterday afternoon the young woman described her alleged experience with Derham in the Detroit hotel where she said she went to meet him prior to going to a football game in Ann Arbor with him. She said she met him at 7:30 in the evening in his room in the hotel. She asked him to take her out to dinner, she said, and testified that he said "let's have a drink." She accepted a drink, she testified and said that before they drank Derham discussed his divorce and talked to her about marriage.

She said Derham poured her a large drink of straight whiskey and she swallowed a great part of it.

"Was Knocked Out"

"What effect did the drink have on you?" asked the plaintiff's attorney.

"I should say I was knocked out," she replied.

"When I awoke I was on the bed fully clothed," she said. "It was apparent that he had had relations with me. My dress was bloodstained and there were spots of blood on his clothes," she testified.

"I grew hysterical and cried," she said, "and he asked me to be quiet and said he would leave if I did not quiet down. He brought food to the room and served it to me while I sat up in bed propped up by pillows."

She testified further: "Mr. Derham said we would be married and said he was pleased that I was a chaste woman." She stated that after she left the hotel Derham wrote her a letter and told her he had bought her a dress in a Detroit store. In the same letter, it was claimed, he added: "I love you more than ever. You are so sweet and pure. No word had yet been coined that will do you justice."

Freighter Mariposa Released from Reef

Fort William, Ont., June 6 (AP)—Freed from the reef on Lamb Island on which she grounded Tuesday night, the freighter Mariposa was enroute to this port under her own power tonight.

The freighter was pulled from the reef by a tug this noon. Wireless reports stated that the Mariposa's hull was slightly damaged but the ship's own pumps were able to handle the leak.

Coast guard boats, summoned from Two Harbors, Minn., Sault Ste. Marie, and Marquette, Mich., turned back after learning of the freighter's release.

Believe 3 Dead In Railroad Accident

Baltimore, June 6 (AP)—One girl was fatally hurt and the engineer and fireman were missing tonight after a northbound passenger train on the Baltimore-Harrisburg branch of the Pennsylvania railroad plunged through a bridge at Graystone Station, Baltimore county.

Miss Margaret Frederick, 20, of Parkton, Md., died in a Baltimore hospital. She had been scalded by steam thrown out when the boiler of the locomotive exploded.

The missing members of the train crew were Engineer T. F. Bossom and Fireman J. O. Blauser, both of Baltimore. They were believed to have been buried beneath the engine or coal car which had fallen from the trestle into the bed of Little Gunpowder falls, about 30 feet below.

of the Democartic state central committee. Lieut. Gov. Stebbins was in Washington, but did not arrive with the governor.

From such sources there were indications that members of the house might renew a previous attempt to force Abbott to relinquish his post as committeeman. It was learned authoritatively that a resolution is being prepared for introduction in the house calling for an investigation of postmaster appointments in Michigan.

Some members of the house from Michigan are openly dissatisfied with the intention, as they understand it, of Postmaster General Farley to insist that Abbott retain his post until the end of the present session of congress.

Alleged Indiana Killer Is Captured

Bloomington, Ind., June 6 (AP)—State police tonight announced that Edward Coffin, 22, of Greenfield, Ind., had made an oral admission he shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick of Scott county and wounded Patrolman John Pfaffenberger of Seymour during a wild ride with two companions Monday night.

In the presence of Captain Matt Leach and other state policemen, local patrolmen and deputy sheriffs, Coffin corroborated the stories told by his two accomplices, Robert Neal of Bloomington and Lacell (Toots) Long of Helmsburg, Ind., and also admitted that he kidnaped Ralph Shields, 18, near Underwood, Ind., Tuesday morning and forced him to drive to Bloomington.

Coffin was arrested late today in the two-room apartment of Neal a few hours after Neal's 16-year-old bride of three weeks and Coffin's sweetheart, Miss Pauline Meadows, 18, had made signed statements quoting him as admitting the shooting.

Automobile Burned By Cincinnati Mob

Cincinnati, June 6 (AP)—An angry crowd overturned and burned the automobile of a Remington-Rand Inc. employe late today at nearby Norwood after a striker at the plant had been wounded by a bullet police said was fired from the machine.

McCarrell Conrad, foreman of the tool designing department of the plant, later was arrested by police and admitted, they said, he first fired two shots into the air over the crowd, then, as it surged toward the machine in which he was riding, fired directly at it hitting Maxwell.

A charge of shooting with intent to wound was filed against him, and he was released on $200 bond.

The car was driven by Max De Haas, a draftsman in the factory.

ed by government regulation."

Two blows were aimed at the administration's monetary program.

"The administration has committed the country to a program which unless checked will lead to the chaos of unlimited inflation," the GOP declaration said.

As to the gold policy, with its attendant effect upon the "gold contract" in bonds, the statement cried "repudiation" and said: "We insist that there shall be no further repudiation of solemn obligations of the government."

The party, in recruiting votes for the congressional elections and presumably in its next presidential campaign, will approach the country's most troublesome problems "unhampered by dead formulas" and not cling too obstinately, said the statement, "to the past."

It will concur that the nation is beset by problems of "infinite complexity," and it recognized "the problems of recovery; of unemployment with its unending tale of human suffering, of agriculture with its lost markets and relatively low prices."

Executive Meeting

Also, there will be on the Republican calendar, the committee promised, some effort to solve some broader problems, among them how to achieve a wider spread of prosperity."

Fletcher, the new chairman whose job it will be to rebuild the party's fences and woo back voters alienated in 1932, accepted the post when committee members phoned him at his home in Greencastle, Pa.

Tomorrow the executive committee will meet with him, at his request, in Chicago, to polish its plans.

Fletcher's election came as part of a harmony plan which composed a factional fight after some 18 hours of controversy. Supported for the job by a group of committeemen called "Hoover men" in the committee's caucuses, he had strong opposition until today, from Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia. The West Virginian was backed by many western committeemen and by such eastern leaders as Charles D. Hilles of New York, J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut, and Daniel Pomeroy of New Jersey, all urging a new party regime.

A redistribution of party power, according to rumor, was under consideration as a manner of restoring harmony, with the selection of one or more young westerners to be vice chairmen and aids in the party management.

The call for nominations found Hallanan out of the race, and supporting Fletcher. Only one other candidate was proposed. He was John D. M. Hamilton, young Topeka, Kansas, lawyer and said to be acceptable to both sides.

Hallanan was rewarded with a place on the executive committee, succeeding the late David Mulvaney of Kansas. Hamilton was made party counsel, succeeding the late James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, and became the second man to hold that post.

Judge Bell Draws Laughter In Court

Marquette, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Judge Frank A. Bell, presiding in the murder trial of Robert Shaw, drew smiles and laughter from the spectators this morning in questioning prospective jurors.

Robert Thorpe, of Powell township, was being considered as a juror. The judge pointed to Frank Winter, sitting alongside of Shaw and asked Thorpe if he knew the man or any other man connected with the case.

Thorpe said that he did not know Winter, but he had once purchased a pair of shoes in his Marquette store.

To which the judge replied, "Then that was the sole nature of your dealings with him."

Mrs. Steve Denies Harboring Outlaw

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Mrs. Isaac Steve, charged with harboring John Dillinger, Indiana outlaw, and his companion, John Hamilton, pleaded not guilty when arraigned here today before Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond. Her bond was set at $1,000.

Federal agents claimed that the two outlaws spent a night at Mrs. Steve's house here two months ago, and then fled north after changing cars. They bobbed up a few weeks later at Little Bohemia resort in Wisconsin and precipitated a gun battle in which two men, including a federal agent, were killed.

CASE AGAINST LANGER CLOSED

Funds Transferred From 'Leader' Account to Personal

Bismarck, N. D., June 6 (AP)—After calling 43 witnesses, the government today rested its case against Governor William A. Langer.

He is on trial with seven associates for allegedly violating federal statutes by plotting to solicit political contributions from federal salary drawers.

Government witnesses have testified that $11,545.25 was transferred from the account of "The Leader," Langer administration newspaper for which the contributions were purportedly solicited, to the personal account of the governor.

Several witnesses told of being asked for donations to "The Leader" and being informed by some of the defendants that such gifts constituted "job insurance" for them in the state positions they held. R. M. Staangler, bank manager, testified he told R. A. Kinzer, one of the defendants, solicitation of federal employes "would get us into trouble."

After the prosecution rested, the defense announced it had several motions to submit. They will be offered tomorrow at the resumption of the trial.

Consumers Power Extends Holdings

Jackson, Mich., June 6 (AP)—The Consumers Power Co. today announced the purchase of the gas and electric properties of the Michigan Federated Utilities Co. and the Lower Peninsula Power Co., which serve more than 20,600 customers in 50 communities.

The announcement was made by D. E. Karn, vice president of the Consumers Co. which has its headquarters here.

The Michigan Federated Utilities has gas plants in Mt. Clemens, Plymouth, Owosso, Alma, Marshall, Alpena and Sault Ste. Marie, and supplies gas to a number of other communities, many of them Detroit suburbs.

The Lower Peninsula Power Co. has electric systems in the territories around Frankfort and Plainwell and also has operated four hydro-electric plants, one on the Betsie river near Beulah; two on the Thornapple river at Ada and Cascade and one on the Kalamazoo river at Plainwell. The Consumers company has been a purchaser of power from several of the hydro plants.

Roosevelt Granted Reciprocal Tariff Power by Congress

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Congress today gave President Roosevelt unprecedented power to negotiate reciprocal tariff treaties and almost at the same time Germany and Argentina acted to be among the first to negotiate the new pacts.

Quick acceptance by the house of senate amendments to the legislation completed congressional action and the measure was sent to the White House where the president was expected to sign it into law without delay.

In voting the measure congress delegated to the chief executive vast authority, previously jealously guarded by the legislative branch, to increase or decrease existing tariffs by as much as 50 percent in making trade agreements with foreign nations as a means of stimulating trade and speeding recovery.

WANT GERMANY BACK IN PARLEY

France Trying to Sway Hitler to Return to Arms Conference

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Geneva, June 6 (AP)—Some of the clouds which have been hanging over the disarmament conference were dissipated today by revelation that France is negotiating for Germany's return to the parley.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, who had been the central figure of stormy sessions earlier in the week, made this revelation, while discussing a resolution which proposed the conference go ahead with the study of various problems "without prejudice to any private negotiations" between governments.

The new French proposal, involving investigation of regional pacts, internationalization of civil aviation and the munitions traffic, brought from Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, the statement that "this has been an encouraging day."

Russia May Enter

"Yesterday was a day of youth and temperament," said Barthou, apparently referring to his bitter clash with Henderson. "Today is a moment of prudence."

The steering committee, to which the French resolution was referred, adjourned until Friday morning, and a general meeting of the conference was called for Friday afternoon.

Barthou was credited here with having won Chancellor Hitler over to negotiations for return to the conference by agreeing to the conditions for the Saar plebiscite, which Germany had insisted was the paramount problem of the moment.

The possibility that Russia may enter the League of Nations also is considered to have caused Hitler to do some hard thinking about returning to the conference and to league membership.

"Frankly, that means Germany," said Barthou in speaking of leaving the way open for "private negotiations" toward disarmament.

Under the Barthou resolution, the conference would ask its political commission to resume study of regional security pacts in Europe to determine what relationship, if any, they might have to a general convention.

The air committee would begin immediately study of the internationalization of civil aviation, abolition of air bombardment and reduction of air forces.

A special committee would study manufacture and trade in arms.

MURDER CHARGE

for Derham cross-examined the young woman. He asked:

"During the holiday period of 1931, when you were at Iron Mountain, did you go to a dance in the Eagle hall?"

"I did," she said.

"Did you get drunk at that dance?"

"I did not," she declared.

She said that her relatives in the house at Iron Mountain were angry at her because she went to the dance, leaving them there. She did not go to the dance with Derham, but the name of her escort was not brought into the testimony.

Miss Danculovic, who began her testimony Tuesday morning, finished her story to the jury shortly before noon today, but cross-examination was to continue this afternoon.

Tells of Meetings

She testified that in December, 1931, she spent five days in a Chicago hotel with Senator Derham, after which she wrote him a brief note stating she wanted nothing more to do with him and did not want to see him again.

In March, 1932, she testified, Derham wrote her at Akron urging her to meet him in Detroit during her spring vacation and that he "had a plan."

This was one of 35 of Derham's letters to Miss Danculovic that have been introduced as evidence for the plaintiff. This letter said, in part:

"You say we should have an understanding. How can that be when one day you love me and the next you say you are through? I have a plan. I hope to see you in Cleveland or Detroit."

"I accepted the invitation to go to Detroit and hear about the plan," the plaintiff testified.

On March 14, 1932, Derham is alleged to have written another letter to her in which he said he was leaving for Detroit and would go from there to Washington. "Love to have you go to Washington with me," this letter stated. "Would dearly love to see you. One minute you are a darling lover. The next you are an Eskimo. You are an enigma.

She testified that she went to Detroit and spent the week-end with Derham.

Says He Told Political Plans

"Mr. Derham said he could not marry me at this time because he was married," she testified in relating their alleged conversation in a Detroit hotel. "He urged me to be sensible," she said, "and outlined his political career and plans to me. He asked me to wait and said he would get a divorce as soon as he could. He reiterated his statements about what an ideal wife I would make and he pictured our future life together. He said we would have a swimming pool and a tennis court.

"We talked about babies. He said he could not get a divorce until things were straightened out at home. I believed him."

She testified that he wired her money at Akron after she had returned to that city from Detroit and that she went to Washington, meeting him there. They spent a day together in a Washington hotel, she said, and then went to New York city where, according to the young woman, they remained three or four days in a hotel.

In New York, she said, Senator Derham "registered us as Mr. and Mrs. Ray Derham, Iron Mountain, Mich."

With Him During Convention, Charge

She said she stayed with Derham in a Detroit hotel from May 27, to June 1, 1932, during the convention of the Polar Bear division of World war veterans, and that she went from Detroit to Duluth, Minn., and then to Madison, Wis., to attend summer school at the University of Wisconsin.

She testified that when she and Derham were together in Detroit and in Washington and New York he had intimate relations with her.

In July, 1932, she said, Derham wrote to her at Madison and informed her that he had "jumped into the race for state senator." "If I land," the letter stated, "I will be able to place an excellent English teacher after January 1."

Miss Danculovic testified that her baby was born Dec 5, 1932. The baby is a boy. She said the child is in the Sault with her.

"Who is the father of your baby?" asked the plaintiff's attorney.

"Ray Derham," was her reply.

"Did he ever admit the fatherhood?"

"Frequently," she stated.

Born in California

She testified that the baby was born in the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles, Calif. She went to Los Angeles with her sister shortly before the birth of the child, she said.

She said that after the child was born she did not see Derham until October, 1933, in Iron Mountain. She went to Iron Mountain to consult her attorney about her suit against Derham, she testified. She said Derham came to her sister's home in Iron Mountain and asked to see the baby.

"I asked him to leave," Miss Danculovic testified, "and he said: 'I think I have a right to come here. It is my baby.'"

She testified that since the baby was born she had not taught school but had been working part time in a department store in Akron for $8 a week. During the last year she taught school her salary was $145 a month, she said. She stated she had worked only one month in 1934 and that she is not employed now.

In California, after the baby's birth, she said, she took in washing for four months and worked for seven months taking care of children for $6 a week. She stated she returned to Akron from California shortly before Easter of this year.

In her testimony late yesterday afternoon the young woman described her alleged experience with Derham in the Detroit hotel where she said she went to meet him prior to going to a football game in Ann Arbor with him. She said she met him at 7:30 in the evening in his room in the hotel. She asked him to take her out to dinner, she said, and testified that he said "let's have a drink." She accepted a drink, she testified, and said that before they drank Derham discussed his divorce and talked to her about marriage.

She said Derham poured her a large drink of straight whiskey and she swallowed a great part of it.

"Was Knocked Out"

"What effect did the drink have on you?" asked the plaintiff's attorney.

"I should say I was knocked out," she replied.

"When I awoke I was on the bed fully clothed," she said. "It was apparent that he had had relations with me. My dress was bloodstained and there were spots of blood on his clothes," she testified.

"I grew hysterical and cried," she said, "and he asked me to be quiet and said he would leave if I did not quiet down. He brought food to the room and served it to me while I sat up in bed propped up by pillows."

She testified further "Mr. Derham said we would be married and said he was pleased that I was a chaste woman." She stated that after she left the hotel Derham wrote her a letter and told her he had bought her a dress in a Detroit store. In the same letter, it was claimed, he added: "I love you more than ever. You are so sweet and pure. No word had yet been coined that will do you justice."

Freighter Mariposa Released from Reef

Fort William, Ont., June 6 (AP)—Freed from the reef on Lamb Island on which she grounded Tuesday night, the freighter Mariposa was enroute to this port under her own power tonight.

The freighter was pulled from the reef by a tug this noon. Wireless reports stated that the Mariposa's hull was slightly damaged but the ship's own pumps were able to handle the leak.

Coast guard boats, summoned from Two Harbors, Minn., Sault Ste. Marie, and Marquette, Mich., turned back after learning of the freighter's release.

Believe 3 Dead In Railroad Accident

Baltimore, June 6 (AP)—One girl was fatally hurt and the engineer and fireman were missing tonight after a northbound passenger train on the Baltimore-Harrisburg branch of the Pennsylvania railroad plunged through a bridge at Graystone Station, Baltimore county.

Miss Margaret Frederick, 20, of Parkton, Md., died in a Baltimore hospital. She had been scalded by steam thrown out when the boiler of the locomotive exploded.

The missing members of the train crew were Engineer T. F. Bossom and Fireman J. O. Blauser, both of Baltimore. They were believed to have been buried beneath the engine or coal car which had fallen from the trestle into the bed of Little Gunpowder falls, about 30 feet below.

of the Democartic state central committee. Lieut. Gov. Stebbins was in Washington, but did not arrive with the governor.

From such sources there were indications that members of the house might renew a previous attempt to force Abbott to relinquish his post as committeeman. It was learned authoritatively that a resolution is being prepared for introduction in the house calling for an investigation of postmaster appointments in Michigan.

Some members of the house from Michigan are openly dissatisfied with the intention, as they understand it, of Postmaster General Farley to insist that Abbott retain his post until the end of the present session of congress.

Alleged Indiana Killer Is Captured

Bloomington, Ind., June 6 (AP)—State police tonight announced that Edward Coffin, 22, of Greenfield, Ind., had made an oral admission he shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick of Scott county and wounded Patrolman John Pfaffenberger of Seymour during a wild ride with two companions Monday night.

In the presence of Captain Matt Leach and other state policemen, local patrolmen and deputy sheriffs, Coffin corroborated the stories told by his two accomplices, Robert Neal of Bloomington and Lacell (Toots) Long of Helmsburg, Ind., and also admitted that he kidnaped Ralph Shields, 18, near Underwood, Ind., Tuesday morning and forced him to drive to Bloomington.

Coffin was arrested late today in the two-room apartment of Neal, a few hours after Neal's 16-year-old bride of three weeks and Coffin's sweetheart, Miss Pauline Meadows, 18, had made signed statements quoting him as admitting the shooting.

Automobile Burned By Cincinnati Mob

Cincinnati, June 6 (AP)—An angry crowd overturned and burned the automobile of a Remington-Rand, Inc., employe late today at nearby Norwood after a striker at the plant had been wounded by a bullet police said was fired from the machine.

McCarrell Conrad, foreman of the tool designing department of the plant, later was arrested by police and admitted, they said, he first fired two shots into the air, over the crowd, then, as it surged toward the machine in which he was riding, fired directly at it, hitting Maxwell.

A charge of shooting with intent to wound was filed against him, and he was released on $200 bond.

The car was driven by Max De Haas, a draftsman in the factory.

H. P. FLETCHER SELECTED FOR PARTY LEADER

ed by government regulation."

Two blows were aimed at the administration's monetary program.

"The administration has committed the country to a program which unless checked will lead to the chaos of unlimited inflation," the GOP declaration said.

As to the gold policy, with its attendant effect upon the "gold contract" in bonds, the statement cried "repudiation" and said: "We insist that there shall be no further repudiation of solemn obligations of the government."

The party, in recruiting votes for the congressional elections and presumably in its next presidential campaign, will approach the country's most troublesome problems "unhampered by dead formulas" and not cling too obstinately, said the statement, "to the past."

It will concur that the nation is beset by problems of "infinite complexity," and it recognized "the problems of recovery; of unemployment with its unending tale of human suffering, of agriculture with its lost markets and relatively low prices."

Executive Meeting

Also, there will be on the Republican calendar, the committee promised, some effort to solve some broader problems, among them how to achieve a wider spread of prosperity.

Fletcher, the new chairman whose job it will be to rebuild the party's fences and woo back voters alienated in 1932, accepted the post when committee members phoned him at his home in Greencastle, Pa.

Tomorrow the executive committee will meet with him, at his request, in Chicago, to polish its plans.

Fletcher's election came as part of a harmony plan which composed a factional fight after some 48 hours of controversy. Supported, for the job, by a group of committeemen called "Hoover men" in the committee's caucuses, he had strong opposition until today, from Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia. The West Virginian was backed by many western committeemen and by such eastern leaders as Charles D. Hilles of New York, J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut, and Daniel Pomeroy of New Jersey, all urging a new party regime.

A redistribution of party power, according to rumor, was under consideration as a manner of restoring harmony, with the selection of one or more young westerners to be vice chairmen and aids in the party management.

The call for nominations found Hallanan out of the race, and supporting Fletcher. Only one other candidate was proposed. He was John D. M. Hamilton, young Topeka, Kansas, lawyer and said to be acceptable to both sides.

PAVING PROJECT MOVES RAPIDLY

Ten Foot Strip on Rapid River Job Soon Ready For Car Traffic

Rapid River, (Special)—The paving now being done on highways U. S. 2 and 41 from Rapid River to Kipling by the Holmes Contracting company of Crystal Falls is progressing very rapidly and they are now as far as the Soo Line crossing at Masonville. The machinery will be moved back to Rapid River where the other ten foot strip will be laid, as only ten feet was laid as far as Fisher corner, because of the other side being used as the road, from there on the regular 20 foot concrete is being laid.

It is expected that the laying of the other strip will start either near the end of this week or next Monday. Forms are now being laid and men are engaged in the leveling off of the old road. While this concrete is being laid the first stretch of cement laid will be used as the highway to Fisher corner. The shoulders of the road are now being made so as two cars can pass. Material used in the making of the concrete will be still hauled from Kipling.

Cutworms Infest Sod Land Gardens

Sod lands which have been planted to gardens by individuals or communities in attempts to cut living costs will be severely damaged by cut worms unless control measures are used, according to the entomology department at Michigan State college.

Reports already have been made to the college from Wayne and Monroe counties that plants which promised to furnish nutriment and vitamins are now ruined by this insect. Most of the amateur gardeners do not know what killed the plants, as the cutworm feeds at night and hides during the day. The plants are found cut off at the ground line and wilted and the gardeners often blame rabbits or mice.

The cutworm is the larvae of a medium sized moth, sometime called a miller. The adult insect prefers to lay its eggs in grasslands, and if sod is plowed up for crops, the larvae have only the cultivated plants for food. The insect prefers wilted food so it cuts the plant and leaves it for future meals.

Paper collars placed around the plant and inserted in the ground for at least one-half inch will prevent injury, but this is impractical in large gardens. The cutworms hide under bits of sod or other cover in the daytime and part of them can be found and destroyed.

Poison bait is the only practical control on large areas. The bait is made by thoroughly mixing 1 bushel of bran, one-half gallon cheap molasses, a little water, and 1 pound of white arsenic or 1 pound of paris green. Arsenate of lead or arsenate of calcium can not be used. After the materials have been thorouhgly mixed, 2 or 3 ounces of banana oil should be stirred into the bait. Small amounts of the poison bait can be made by using proportionately smaller quantities of each material.

The mixing is very important and each flake of bran should carry a particle of poison. The bait should be scattered thinly on areas where the cutworms are most serious. Applications made in the hottest part of the day are most satisfactory because the bait breaks up into fine particles. Lumps of bait will attract birds which may be killed by the poison.

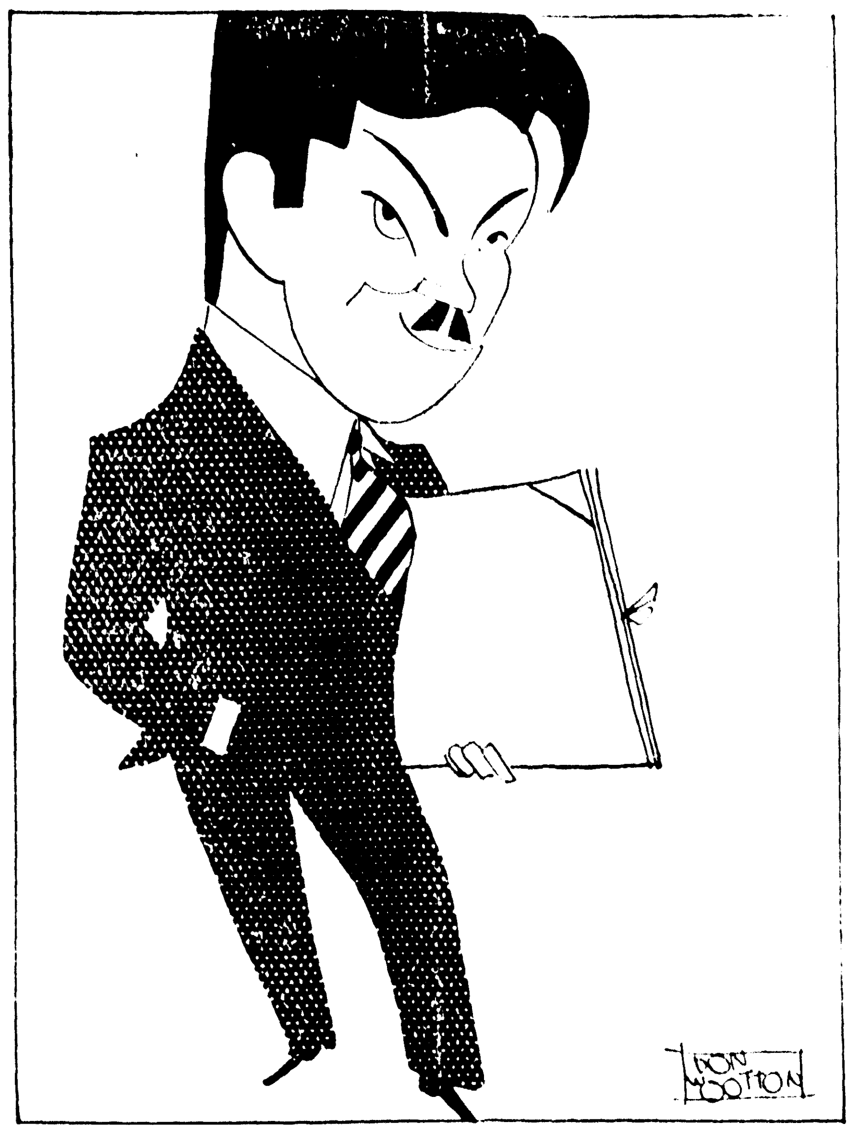
SOME 'SIDE GLANCES' ON ARTIST WHO DRAWS THEM



GEORGE CLARK

George Clark, who draws "Side Glances," had a lot of sidelines before he made a career of these famous vignettes of human nature. . . . Born in Oklahoma, worked his way through various schools as an advertising artist, sign painter, window trimmer, and animated movie cartoonist. . . . Many artists rate George Clark's work as the highest class illustration appearing in any newspaper today. . . . His fan mail comes from people who know what it's all about . . . college professors, lawyers, doctors, merchants, chiefs. . . . He works furiously, sometimes all night, sometimes rising at 4 a. m. to get an idea on paper. Spends many more hours finding ideas, for he draws nearly all his characters directly from life or from memory. Says libraries and railroad stations are the best places to catch and sketch people off guard. . . . Would rather watch people talk than listen to them. . . . Paints occasionally, but finds it too slow. . . . Believes many persons are good artists and never know it. . . . Has remarkable physical strength, but about all the exercise he gets is walking with his baby daughter.

You can avoid missing one single "Side Glances," by calling the circulation department Phone 693, and having the Daily Press mailed to you while you are away.

STRIKE DELAYS DOCK DREDGING

Tugmen at Escanaba Join Walkout; Work at Standstill

Dredging at the C. & N. W. docks at Escanaba was at a standstill Wednesday as a result of the tugmen's general strike which is handicapping shipping all over the Great Lakes. The tug used here in towing a dredge scow was tied up Wednesday morning when the crew walked out to join the strike movement. The dredging job at the local docks, made necessary by the low water level this season, is about two-thirds completed.

A similar situation was reported on the Marquette harbor dredging job Wednesday when captains and engineers employed by the Merritt, Chapman and Whitney Construction Co. of Superior, Wis., said they would walk out in sympathy with firemen and deckhands.

In Detroit, Major R. C. Crawford, U. S. engineer, said that the Chicago headquarters of the Great Lakes Dredgemen's Union has consented to permit its members to remain at work on the government's dredging project in the St. Clair flats. Although dredgemen have walked out on a part of the Livingstone channel and other dredging jobs, Crawford said, the strike does not interfere with navigation.

Griffin Wreckage Metals Analyzed; Raised in Pieces

Officials of Les Cheneaux Chamber of Commerce at Hessel and Cedarville are awaiting the analyses of iron samples taken from the supposed wreck of the Griffin near Hessel. The samples were sent to metallurgists in Chicago, Toledo and Cleveland and for the purpose of determining the age of the metal.

It is said that the period in which a given piece of iron was made can be determined within a few decades by a skilled metallurgist. Themetal fittings of the Griffin were forged at Niagara in 1678 from bars which were probably made in France. If the experts' findings can be aligned with this date additional proof would be offered by the waterlogged hulk at Birch point is that of the Griffin. The latter known to have disappeared in a gale near Hessel on September 18, 1679.

Further examination of the hull timbers disclosed the impracticability of raising the vessel whole. The latter is somewhat larger than was at first thought, and as some of the timbers are decomposed, a scow and a derrick will be used to bring the wreck up piece by piece. It is plain that the upper works of the vessel have been burned away, and a large hole has been found in the keel near the stern, indicating that the ship had been burned and scuttled by the crew. This was La Salle's opinion of the fate of the Griffin.

H. P. Hossack, president of Les Cheneaux Chamber of Commerce, stated that regardless of whether the wreck is found to be that of the Griffin, the craft will be raised and brought ashore for inspection by all who desire to see it.

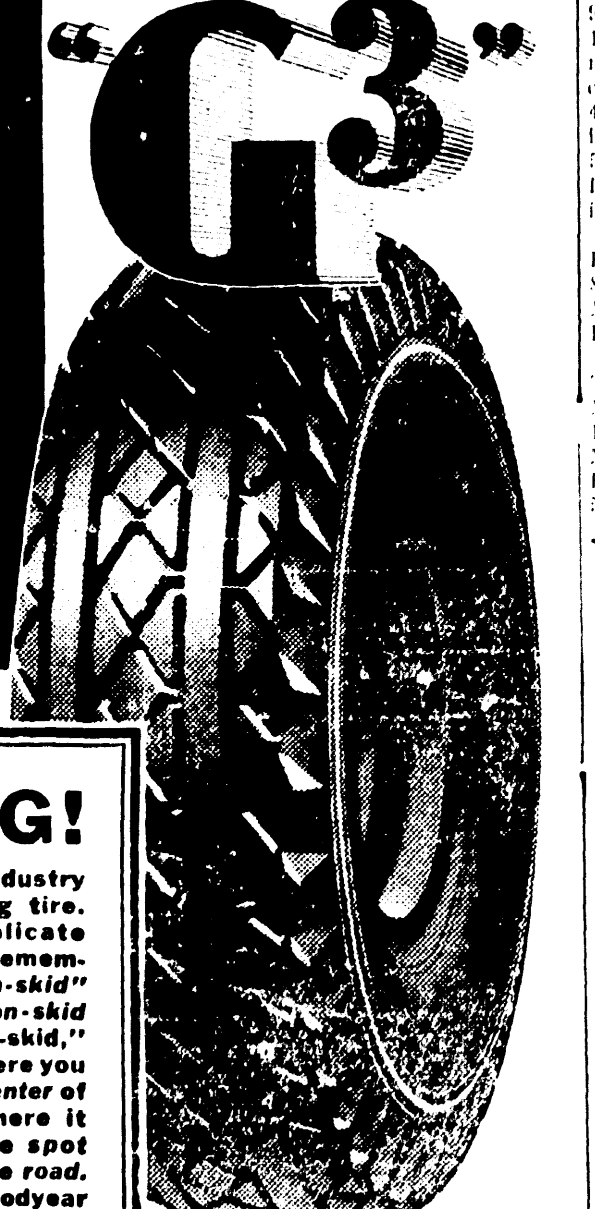
WHAT A TIRE!
WHAT A TIRE!
See it here! Goodyear test drivers burned out brakes—wracked cars—pounded the roads night and day—and it kept its grip twice as long as other tires!



IF YOU think the non-skid tread on your present tires wore out too soon—you're right!

Ordinary treads can't stand the strain of modern driving.

But come in today and see a tire that will!

The new "G-3" All-Weather! It has a wider tread—flatter tread—more rubber in the tread—more non-skid blocks in the center of the tread—and gives 43% longer non-skid mileage than the best previous Goodyear All-Weather.

No matter what car you drive—no matter how you drive—this tire will give you more miles of safety—AT NO EXTRA COST!

WARNING!
Watch the rest of the industry try to copy this amazing tire. Watch them try to duplicate Goodyear's claims. But, remember, you have to have "non-skid" before you can have "non-skid mileage." And to have "non-skid," you have to have GRIP where you see it here—GRIP in the center of the tread—the place where it counts, because it's the spot where the tire contacts the road. Look at the grip on this Goodyear Tire and ask yourself why buy any tire that lacks this safety? And keep in mind that you cannot successfully build this type of non-skid tire without the extra-durability of Supertwist cords.

TINKER MAKES OFFER

RECOGNITION of the fact that excellent pasturage is offered in the national forests of Michigan, located in the upper peninsula, while live stock is starving in drought sections of the United States, is given in the offer made on Tuesday by E. W. Tinker, United States regional forester, to throw open these areas to live stock located in less favored territories. The Ottawa, Marquette and Hiawtha national forests in the upper peninsula, comprising many thousands of acres, together with similar forest areas in the lower peninsula, are made available to live stock owners of the drought areas by Mr. Tinker with but most moderate restrictions. It is proposed that newly planted areas in the national forests be barred from pasturage and a nominal regulatory fee of seven and a half cents per head per month, be paid by the live stock owners. In the offer announced by Mr. Tinker, Munising, upper peninsula headquarters for the federal forestry service, is made the pasturage application headquarters for this section, while Manistee and East Tawas are designated as registration headquarters for the lower peninsula forest areas.

Superior summer live stock grazing conditions offered on upper peninsula lands, have been urged for many years and for various periods have been tried out by southeastern live stock owners, but at no time have the grazing advantages of this section been tested in a wholesale manner as is now proposed, as an emergency measure. If it can be proven that live stock can be successfully supported here during the summer months on the mere federal forest areas, a use for millions of acres of state lands and privately owned cut over lands, will have been developed. Forward looking citizens of the peninsula, who recognize the problem that is offered in the future use of now idle lands in this part of Michigan, will hope that a generous test of the pasturage advantages of this section will result from the emergency offer made by Mr. Tinker.

If the experiment is successful, it may result in a definite solution of a problem that has bothered economists who have sought a use for cut over areas of the peninsula for a number of years.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN?

IT WAS apparently very easy for members of England's house of commons to shout approval of the decision of that government to refuse further debt payments to the United States, until this government "is willing to confer on full and final settlement of the whole debt problem." Which of course means that England expects a substantial sealing down of its five billion dollar indebtedness to the United States and the open challenge is now made that no further payments shall be made until their indebtedness is reduced to England's own idea as to the amount it should pay.

It is not hard to believe that when announcement was made in the English house of commons that the government of the United States would loan Great Britain some five billion dollars to finance that nation's war rehabilitation program, that announcement was also greeted with shouts of approval from the members. Neither is it hard to believe that at the time this government authorized the British loan, members of the house of commons and the people of the Empire hailed the United States as a world benefactor and a helpful friend to all mankind.

But the approach of the day of settlement has wrought a most remarkable change. The acclaim that greeted the announcement of the loan is forgotten and the high regard in which this nation was held by the British people has been entirely forgotten.

Under the circumstances one cannot help but wonder what would be the reaction of the British house of commons if the debt shoe were on the other foot—if the government of the United States owed England five billion dollars and our congress had said "We will make no further payments until Great Britain reduces our indebtedness to the amount be believed we should pay in discharge of an honest obligation."

NATURE TAKES TOLL

NEWS of the drouth and heat wave hammering the corn belt is a sharp reminder that the farmer's primary enemies are neither over-production nor high freight rates, but ancient inanimate forces that can neither be defeated nor wholly understood.

The first cave man who scratched the soil with a stick and dropped a few wild seeds into the scratch was at the mercy of the elements; and the ultra-modern farmer, who uses expensive machinery and gets advice from his state agricultural college, is, in the last analysis, in the same boat.

Whether he will get a good crop depends on things over which he has not the slightest control—rain, wind, and sun. If they are kind, his ground will yield bountifully; if they aren't, it won't, and there is nothing he can do about it.

The old risks of agriculture—the oldest business risks in all the world—are the same now as they were before the pyramids had been built.

The corn belt's sufferings this spring remind one of those eerie predictions some geologists have made that the greater part of the interior of America is destined, some day, to become semi-arid and barren, a nearly waterless region, where things will not grow and men will not be able to live except as scattered nomads.

To be sure, not all geologists make this prediction, and those who make it put the time of this change far in the future which, to a geologist, means anywhere from 50,000 years up; so that no one need worry for fear that the hot, dry weather which is blighting crops today is the forerunner of the desert's arrival in Iowa.

Nevertheless, these stories of parching drouth and devastating heat make one think about it. And they lead one to wonder how long it will be before men get sense enough to settle their differences with one another and present a united front toward their real enemies—the implacable and unresting forces of nature.

For these troubles of the present day—over-production, marketing difficulties, tariff restrictions, falling prices, and the like—are, after all, secondary. Settle them all, and there still remains the task of forcing the earth to yield enough to feed her teeming millions.

That is the oldest of all society's problems, and it will probably be the last to be solved.

ENGLAND'S MAN HUNT

ENGLAND had a great manhunt of her own not long ago. A desperate gunman was in flight, just as desperate gunmen have been in flight in the United States every so often, and all the powers of England's police set out after him.

They trapped him finally and, seeing capture certain, he killed himself.

Now the interesting thing is to see what it was this fearsome thug had done. He had shot and wounded a policeman! To be sure, the wound was not serious. Nevertheless the shooting had taken place and the sensation that gripped all England was quite as great as the one that Clyde Barrow caused in the United States.

The comparison between what it takes to make a sensation in England and in America is bound to be rather painful to law abiding citizens of the United States.

FIASCO'S FINALE

EARLY this summer officials of the American Graves Registration Service will go to Archangel, that chilly Russian White Sea port, to reclaim the [illegible] some 40 American soldiers.

The bodies will be sent back to the United States for burial, as has been done with so many soldier casualties from the battlefields of France.

Their transportation will close one of the most melancholy chapters in American military history.

We sent an expeditionary force to Archangel, late in the World War. We were not at war with Russia, but American troops fought Russian troops, in the dead of Arctic winter. Michigan lads who had enlisted to fight the Kaiser in France found themselves far up in Russia, making war long after the armistic had been signed.

It was hard to see why they were there, at the time, and it is even harder now. They died heroically, as soldiers do, but it is very difficult to keep from feeling that their deaths were in vain.

Donna of the Big Top

(By NEA Service) BY BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XXXVI

"The Adams baby has diphtheria," Minnie announced as she took the remains of yesterday's roast turkey from the oven and placed it on a platter. "Ma says that last night Mis' Adams sent for Doc Leamon. He was there for more'n an hour and he had to do something to the baby's throat."

"I hope the little thing will live," Donna answered. "Is anyone with Mrs. Adams?"

"Yes, her sister's there."

"Diphtheria is a terrible disease," Donna said. "I remember once when a child in the circus had it ..." Her voice trailed off as if a sudden thought had struck her. The Adams family were the Siddals' nearest neighbors. While Donna scarcely knew them, under other circumstances she would have offered her assistance at once.

The child's illness seemed an answer to her prayer. What could be more natural than to tell Bill that she was going over to see if there was anything she could do for the family with the sick child? And on the way back from town she would stop and make good her statement.

It seemed a positive inspiration. She had been unable to invent any excuse important enough to take her to Lebanon on a day when Grandfather Siddal was so ill. And Donna felt that she had to have an excuse. Con David would be waiting for her at three o'clock. She had promised she would meet him. What Con might do if she failed to be there, she dared not think!

At noon over the dinner table Donna passed on Minnie's information about the Adams baby. She added the fact that she knew something about diphtheria and remembered how they had treated a little girl in the circus who was suffering from it.

"If you don't think Grandfather needs me here I think I'll drive over to Adamses' this afternoon," she said. "Maybe there's something I could do to help."

Bill, who was naturally friendly and had often worried a little over his bride's reserve and distaste for mingling with strangers, greeted this suggestion with approval.

"That'd be nice, Honey. Mrs. Adams is a nice little woman and I reckon she's about worried sick. I know the little codger. Just the sort of kid I hope we'll have some day. Better go early though—it looks as though we might have a blow."

The skies had darkened during the morning. There were snow clouds and a stiff wind was blowing that threatened to turn into a blizzard. As Bill spoke, a few big flakes scurried through the air and danced against the window pane.

"This time last year," Bill added, "we were snowed in for a week. Telegraph and telephone poles blew down. Trains couldn't get through, and a heap of livestock died of cold and starvation. I don't want you to get caught in a blizzard, Honey."

"There's not much chance when I'm going just half a mile," Donna laughed. But she glanced uneasily out of the window.

"I'll drive you over, if you like."

This was what Donna had feared he would say. "No, no, I'd rather you didn't. I'm sure Grandfather will be all right, but just the same I think one of us should be within call."

"Maybe you're right."

There was a new farm magazine to look over and Bill sprawled on the couch in the living room for some time after finishing his meal. Now and then Donna looked apprehensively at the clock, watching the hands spin around with what seemed amazing speed. Her feeling of guilt deepened with every moment. There was no reason for her to wait until Bill left the house. For that matter, he gave no indication that he intended to leave. Somehow, though, she could not make up her mind to go while he stayed inside, lying there so completely ignorant of the raging tumult in her heart.

The snow flakes were falling faster now and the skies were more lowering. Bill yawned and dropped his magazine to the floor at his feet.

"Honey, did you notice Dr. Freeman this morning?" he asked. "Looks bad, doesn't he?"

"Does he?"

"Yes. I wonder if there is any truth in the reports going around?"

"What reports?"

Bill laughed and reached out his hand. "You're not a gossip, are you, dear? I heard in town the other day that his wife is just a little too intimate with the fellow who boards with them. Of course in a small town everything a woman does is magnified and misconstrued but ..."

"Bill! I'm surprised at you! To think you would listen to such talk!"

"I didn't, Sweet," Bill laughed good-naturedly. "I was in Buck's feed store when Mrs. Freeman went by, and Buck and George Lincoln got to talking. I couldn't help hearing what they said."

"Didn't you stand up for her?"

"How could I, considering she was with the boarder when we saw her? There's an old saying that where there's fire there must be smoke. No—it's the other way around, isn't it? If she doesn't want talk, she shouldn't lay herself open to it by her actions. It's too bad. Freeman is a fine fellow. I reckon he's heard things."

"I suppose," Donna said tensely, "if there were smoke around me you'd look for the fire?"

"Sure would—but you take care there's no smoke! Boy, look at that snow. If you're going to the Adamses, you'd better get started."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"I'll get the car out for you." He rose and went to the window. "I don't believe I'd go today, Honey. This may blow over, but it looks like we're in for a real blizzard."

"I'd rather go and get it over with."

"Well, you're the doctor." He left the room and she went upstairs to change her dress. It was two o'clock now. Any chance she had had to stop at the Adams

A BROKEN VASE

A broken vase preserves a fading rose
A little longer, ere its beauty goes,
    And I would leave that rose in such a vase
    Without the other either out of place.
Crystal and silver for our happy hours,
But fetch them not to hold life's fading flow'rs.
    Crystal and silver, youth looks well in those,
    But broken vases for our memories.

For life's a vase that has held many things,
The brightest blossoms of the early springs,
    So quick to bloom, and quite as quick to bend,
    The fragile violet, the springtime friend.
Then come the roses that will linger on
In broken vases when the spring is gone,
    The fading roses, kept alive with tears
    To leave their fragrance down the long, long years.

A broken vase a beauty will retain
That only time makes manifest and plain,
    A beauty only that the very old
    Can ever catch and ever really hold.
Crystal and silver for the joys of youth
But old containers for the things of truth.
    The sweetest fragrance clings to such as these,
    Life's broken vases, filled with memories.

Inability to hit in the pinches forced Escanaba to drop the first home game of the Marquette Delta county league season to Ishpeming, at South Park yesterday, by a score of 3 to 1. A 19 year old pitcher answering to the name of Swamson, hurled the entire game for Ishpeming and veritably stood the Escanaba sluggers on their heads, Freddie Olmsted and Ernie Bourke being the only batters to register safe hits. Carl Walsh started the game for Escanaba and was followed by Garland.

Dr. Harry W. Long will leave tonight for Chicago where he will visit for a few days before proceeding to New York and next Saturday will sail for Europe from that port on the White Star liner Oceanic.

Fifteen seniors will receive their diplomas of graduation from St. Joseph's high school after impressive commencement exercises on June 19. The graduates are: Elizabeth Walsh, Mary Girard, Lillian Peller, Marie Jaeger, Jacob Bink, Michael Bink, Elmer St. Martin, Catherine Bartel, Leo Ruder, Lillian Laviolette, Cordella Steinmetz, Eva Viau, Alixe Collins, Michael Peller and Veronica Sullivan.

A class of 12 students will be graduated from St. Anne's Grammar school at the Peterson opera house on the evening of June 18 as follows: Leo Savageau, John Grenier, Gordon Bray, May Green, Leo Meloche, Ernest Moreau, Ernest Perron, Helen Moreau, Bernadette Joint, Robert Gabourie, Della Fontaine and Aurora LaPoint.

Miss Irene Barron, of Flat Rock, has been signally honored by the officials of the Northern State Normal school, in being selected to lead the list of honor students from the normal, by membership in the Phi Epsilom honor society.

TINKER MAKES OFFER

RECOGNITION of the fact that excellent pasturage is offered in the national forests of Michigan, located in the upper peninsula, while live stock is starving in drought sections of the United States, is given in the offer made on Tuesday by E. W. Tinker, United States regional forester, to throw open these areas to live stock located in less favored territories. The Ottawa, Marquette and Hiawtha national forests in the upper peninsula, comprising many thousands of acres, together with similar forest areas in the lower peninsula, are made available to live stock owners of the drought areas by Mr. Tinker with but most moderate restrictions. It is proposed that newly planted areas in the national forests be barred from pasturage and a nominal regulatory fee of seven and a half cents per head per month, be paid by the live stock owners. In the offer announced by Mr. Tinker, Munising, upper peninsula headquarters for the federal forestry service, is made the pasturage application headquarters for this section, while Manistee and East Tawas are designated as registration headquarters for the lower peninsula forest areas.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN?

IT WAS apparently very easy for members of England's house of commons to shout approval of the decision of that government to refuse further debt payments to the United States, until this government "is willing to confer on full and final settlement of the whole debt problem." Which of course means that England expects a substantial scaling down of its five billion dollar indebtedness to the United States and the open challenge is now made that no further payments shall be made until their indebtedness is reduced to England's own idea as to the amount it should pay.

It is not hard to believe that when announcement was made in the English house of commons that the government of the United States would loan Great Britain some five billion dollars to finance that nation's war rehabilitation program, that announcement was also greeted with shouts of approval from the members. Neither is it hard to believe that at the time this government authorized the British loan, members of the house of commons and the people of the Empire hailed the United States as a world benefactor and a helpful friend to all mankind.

But the approach of the day of settlement has wrought a most remarkable change. The acclaim that greeted the announcement of the loan is forgotten and the high regard in which this nation was held by the British people has been entirely forgotten.

Under the circumstances one cannot help but wonder what would be the reaction of the British house of commons if the debt shoe were on the other foot—if the government of the United States owed England five billion dollars and our congress had said "We will make no further payments until Great Britain reduces our indebtedness to the amount be believed we should pay in discharge of an honest obligation."

CHAPTER XXXVI

"The Adams baby has diphtheria," Minnie announced as she took the remains of yesterday's roast turkey from the oven and placed it on a platter. "Ma says that last night Mis' Adams sent for Doc Leamon. He was there for more'n an hour and he had to do something to the baby's throat.

"I hope the little thing will live," Donna answered. "Is anyone with Mrs. Adams?"

"Yes, her sister's there."

"Diphtheria is a terrible disease," Donna said. "I remember once when a child in the circus had it—" Her voice trailed off as if a sudden thought had struck her. The Adams family were the Siddals' nearest neighbors. While Donna scarcely knew them, under other circumstances she would have offered her assistance at once.

The child's illness seemed an answer to her prayer. What could be more natural than to tell Bill that she was going over to see if there was anything she could do for the family with the sick child? And on the way back from town she would stop and make good her statement.

It seemed a positive inspiration. She had been unable to invent any excuse important enough to take her to Lebanon on a day when Grandfather Siddal was so ill. And Donna felt that she had to have an excuse. Con David would be waiting for her at three o'clock. She had promised she would meet him. What Con might do if she failed to be there, she dared not think!

At noon over the dinner table Donna passed on Minnie's information about the Adams baby. She added the fact that she knew something about diphtheria and remembered how they had treated a little girl in the circus who was suffering from it.

"If you don't think Grandfather needs me here I think I'll drive over to Adamses' this afternoon," she said. "Maybe there's something I could do to help."

Bill, who was naturally friendly and had often worried a little over his bride's reserve and distaste for mingling with strangers, greeted this suggestion with approval.

"That'd be nice, Honey. Mrs. Adams is a nice little woman and I reckon she's about worried sick. I know the little codger. Just the sort of kid I hope we'll have some day. Better go early though—it looks as though we might have a blow."

The skies had darkened during the morning. There were snow clouds and a stiff wind was blowing that threatened to turn into a blizzard. As Bill spoke, a few big flakes scurried through the air and danced against the window pane.

"This time last year," Bill added, "we were snowed in for a week. Telegraph and telephone poles blew down. Trains couldn't get through, and a heap of livestock died of cold and starvation. I don't want you to get caught in a blizzard, Honey."

"There's not much chance when I'm going just half a mile," Donna laughed. But she glanced uneasily out of the window.

"I'll drive you over, if you like."

This was what Donna had feared he would say. "No, no, I'd rather you didn't. I'm sure Grandfather will be all right, but just the same I think one of us should be within call."

"Maybe you're right."

There was a new farm magazine to look over and Bill sprawled on the couch in the living room for some time after finishing his meal. Now and then Donna looked apprehensively at the clock, watching the hands spin around with what seemed amazing speed. Her feeling of guilt deepened with every moment. There was no reason for her to wait until Bill left the house. For that matter, he gave no indication that he intended to leave. Somehow, though, she could not make up her mind to go while he stayed inside, lying there so completely ignorant of the raging tumult in her heart.

The snow flakes were falling faster now and the skies were more lowering. Bill yawned and dropped his magazine to the floor at his feet.

"Honey, did you notice Dr. Freeman this morning?" he asked. "Looks bad, doesn't he?"

"Does he?"

"Yes. I wonder if there is any truth in the reports going around?"

"What reports?"

Bill laughed and reached out his hand. "You're not a gossip, are you, dear? I heard in town the other day that his wife is just a little too intimate with the fellow who boards with them. Of course in a small town everything a woman does is magnified and misconstrued but—"

"I'd rather go and get it over with."

"Well, you're the doctor." He left the room and she went upstairs to change her dress. It was two o'clock now. Any chance she had had to stop at the Adams

A BROKEN VASE

A broken vase preserves a fading rose
A little longer, ere its beauty goes,
    And I would leave that rose in such a vase,
    Without the other either out of place.
Crystal and silver for our happy hours,
But fetch them not to hold life's fading flow'rs.
    Crystal and silver, youth looks well in these,
    But broken vases for our memories.

For life's a vase that has held many things,
The brightest blossoms of the early springs,
    So quick to bloom, and quite as quick to bend,
    The fragile violet, the springtime friend.
Then come the roses that will linger on
In broken vases when the spring is gone,
    The fading roses, kept alive with tears
    To leave their fragrance down the long, long years.

A broken vase a beauty will retain
That only time makes manifest and plain,
    A beauty only that the very old
    Can ever catch and ever really hold.
Crystal and silver for the joys of youth
But old containers for the things of truth;
    The sweetest fragrance clings to such as these,
    Life's broken vases, filled with memories.

Inability to hit in the pinches forced Escanaba to drop the first home game of the Marquette Delta county league season to Ishpeming, at South Park yesterday, by a score of 3 to 1. A 19 year old pitcher answering to the name of Swamson, hurled the entire game for Ishpeming and veritably stood the Escanaba sluggers on their heads, Freddie Olmsted and Ernie Bourke being the only batters to register safe hits. Carl Walsh started the game for Escanaba and was followed by Garland.

Dr. Harry W. Long will leave tonight for Chicago where he will visit for a few days before proceeding to New York and next Saturday will sail for Europe from that port on the White Star liner Oceanic.

MERCURY TAKES SUDDEN SLUMP

Temperature in Thirties At Escanaba After Near 90 Day

From a high mark of 89, the temperature at Escanaba took a sudden slump, registering near freezing last night.

Breezes which blew hot late Tuesday afternoon took on the tinge of winter and icebergs Wednesday, and topcoats supplanted shirtsleeves as the comfortable order of dress.

The bathing beach at Ludington park, enjoying its first day of popularity Tuesday, was deserted Wednesday as fresh northerly winds swept breakers across Bay de Noc, and brought shivers enough without the necessity of changing to bathing suits.

Tuesday night started off as a typical northern summer evening, but changed identity early Wednesday morning, sliding down through some 45 degrees to register a low mark of 44, which still prevailed at 7 a. m.

Showers predicted by the weather bureau failed to materialize at Escanaba, and the forecast for today is generally fair, with little change in temperature. It was expected that light frost would be felt in some localities last night.

Old Glory Marches to New Milestone; Proud Symbol of Nation for 157 Years

Waving triumphantly through the years, the Star Spangled Banner has been an inspiration to Americans since its birthday on June 14, 1777. Below: A group of war veterans featuring Old Glory in a patriotic parade. Above: U. S. Marines are shown raising the Stars and Stripes at a tropical outpost in the West Indies and displaying the National Flag and their regimental colors while on parade in China.

Old glory goes marching on. Milestone after milestone has been passed and June 14 will mark the 157th anniversary of the beloved symbol of the nation. Many patriotic Americans will be proud to display their flag on this date in observance of Flag Day.

Floating from the lofty pinnacle of American idealism, our flag is a beacon of enduring hope, like the famous Bartholdi Statue of Liberty enlightening the world to the oppressed of all lands. It is the reversed banner of an assemblage of free people from every racial stock on earth.

George Washington said: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

Long before Old Glory became the symbol of our great nation, there were scores of flags representing the hopes and aspirations of our forefathers. Colonial flags show anchors, beavers, rattlesnakes, pine trees and various other insignia. Some of them bore the words, "Hope," "Liberty," or "An Appeal to Heaven." A favorite motto beneath the rattlesnake design was "Don't tread on me."

Old Glory's immediate ancestor was the Grand Union Flag, sometimes called the Cambridge Flag, the Congress Colors, and known by other designations. It was similar to the flag as we know it today, except that the union was composed of the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew instead of the starry field.

Although many honors were accorded the Grand Union Flag, it was never formally acknowledged by Congress. It was the Stars and Stripes, which we so often call Old Glory, that was destined to be accorded that honor on June 14, 1777, when the Continental Congress resolved "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Research has failed to prove definitely just what person or persons created the design for our National Flag. Tradition points to Betsy Ross as the needlewoman whose fingers wrought with loving care the first sample of the Stars and Stripes, which was almost identical with the flag as we know it today.

Many believe that Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, John Adams, or some other person was responsible for the design. Congress failed to designate the manner in which the stars should be placed, and it is still a subject of conjecture whether they first appeared in rows, were staggered, or formed a circle. From time to time slight changes in the flag have been authorized by Congress. A flag of fifteen stars and fifteen stripes followed the entrance of Vermont and Kentucky into the Union, and remained in vogue from 1795 until 1818. This flag inspired the United States in its war against the Barbary pirates early in the last century; it was flown to the breeze in the Battle of Lake Erie in 1813; prompted Francis Scott Key to write the immortal Star Spangled Banner in 1814, and was flown by Jackson at New Orleans in 1815.

For twenty-three years the flag with fifteen stars and stripes figured in numerous stirring episodes. Then with the admission of five new States, Congress decided to return to the original thirteen stripe design and to add one star for each State admitted to the Union. When it is realized that twenty-eight States have been added since December, 1818, the wisdom of this decision can be appreciated.

Slowly the nation has expanded westward and new States have been added to the Union, each represented by a glistening star in the blue field. Symbolic of an honest pride in the accomplishments of the past, together with the courage and faith, which have always ruled the destiny of our great nation, Old Glory goes marching on!

Celebration Here July 4 Assured

That Munising will have a homecoming celebration during the week of July Fourth seems assured since the soliciting committees that have been visiting the various business houses and individuals in the city have been meeting with success and the minimum amount of $1,000 that it was estamated to defray the expenses of a five-day celebration has now been almost reached with the possibility of getting more. At a meeting a week ago there was some gloom over the possibility of raising a sufficient amount to carry an entertainment program through for the week.

Mr. Curtis had just received a supply of gasoline, and a phenomenal sight was caused when this exploded and blew far up in the sky and the shifting winds blew the huge flames in different directions. Although the loss sustained by Mr. Curtis is considerable, no one was injured.

SAVE—by getting More LIVE POWER per gallon
-in STANDARD RED CROWN SUPERFUEL

"More Live Power per dollar" describes this important advance by Standard's refining engineers just as accurately as "more Live Power per gallon."

The amount of keen, responsive propelling power delivered by gasoline is the only true measure of its dollar-and-cents value.

On that count, Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives you a full money's worth, plus. We know that. It has been established by tests of many gasolines.

A new car with a high compression engine requires Superfuel's responsiveness to perform at its best. And, if you have an older model which has begun to slow up, Standard Red Crown Superfuel is prescribed. Chances are there is still plenty of vigor in the motor. The extra Live Power in Superfuel will bring it out.

May we suggest that you get a tankful? Make Superfuel prove, in your engine, what has been said here about its economy and performance. Judge it critically—fairly.

Here's Live Power In The Air —With more Live Power per ounce than anything on wings the Peregrin Falcon strikes its prey at a speed of 150 miles per hour. This great hunting bird was trained by medieval noblemen to bring down winged game.

SEE JUNGLE LIVE POWER in Action in Standard Oil's Live Power Show, at 1934 World's Fair, Chicago

And Here's Live Power on the Highway—With more Live Power per gallon, and per dollar, too, Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives you all of the swift response and distance-eating speed the maker carefully built into your car.

Mr. Curtis has two home lighting systems and both were destroyed by the lightning bolt. The building also contained tools and other accessories that Mr. Curtis used around his resort and everything was a complete loss. Mr. Curtis had just received a supply of gasoline, and a phenomenal sight was caused when this exploded and blew far up in the sky and the shifting winds blew the huge flames in different directions. Although the loss sustained by Mr. Curtis is considerable, no one was injured.

SAVE—by getting More LIVE POWER per gallon
-in STANDARD RED CROWN SUPERFUEL
"More Live Power per dollar" describes this important advance by Standard's refining engineers just as accurately as "more Live Power per gallon."
The amount of keen, responsive propelling power delivered by gasoline is the only true measure of its dollar-and-cents value.
On that count, Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives you a full money's worth, plus. We know that. It has been established by tests of many gasolines.
A new car with a high compression engine requires Superfuel's responsiveness to perform at its best. And, if you have an older model which has begun to slow up, Standard Red Crown Superfuel is prescribed. Chances are there is still plenty of vigor in the motor. The extra Live Power in Superfuel will bring it out.
May we suggest that you get a tankful? Make Superfuel prove, in your engine, what has been said here about its economy and performance. Judge it critically—fairly.

Here's Live Power In The Air
—With more Live Power per ounce than anything on wings the Peregrin Falcon strikes its prey at a speed of 150 miles per hour. This great hunting bird was trained by medieval noblemen to bring down winged game.
And Here's Live Power on the Highway—With more Live Power per gallon, and per dollar, too, Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives you all of the swift response and distance-eating speed the maker carefully built into your car.

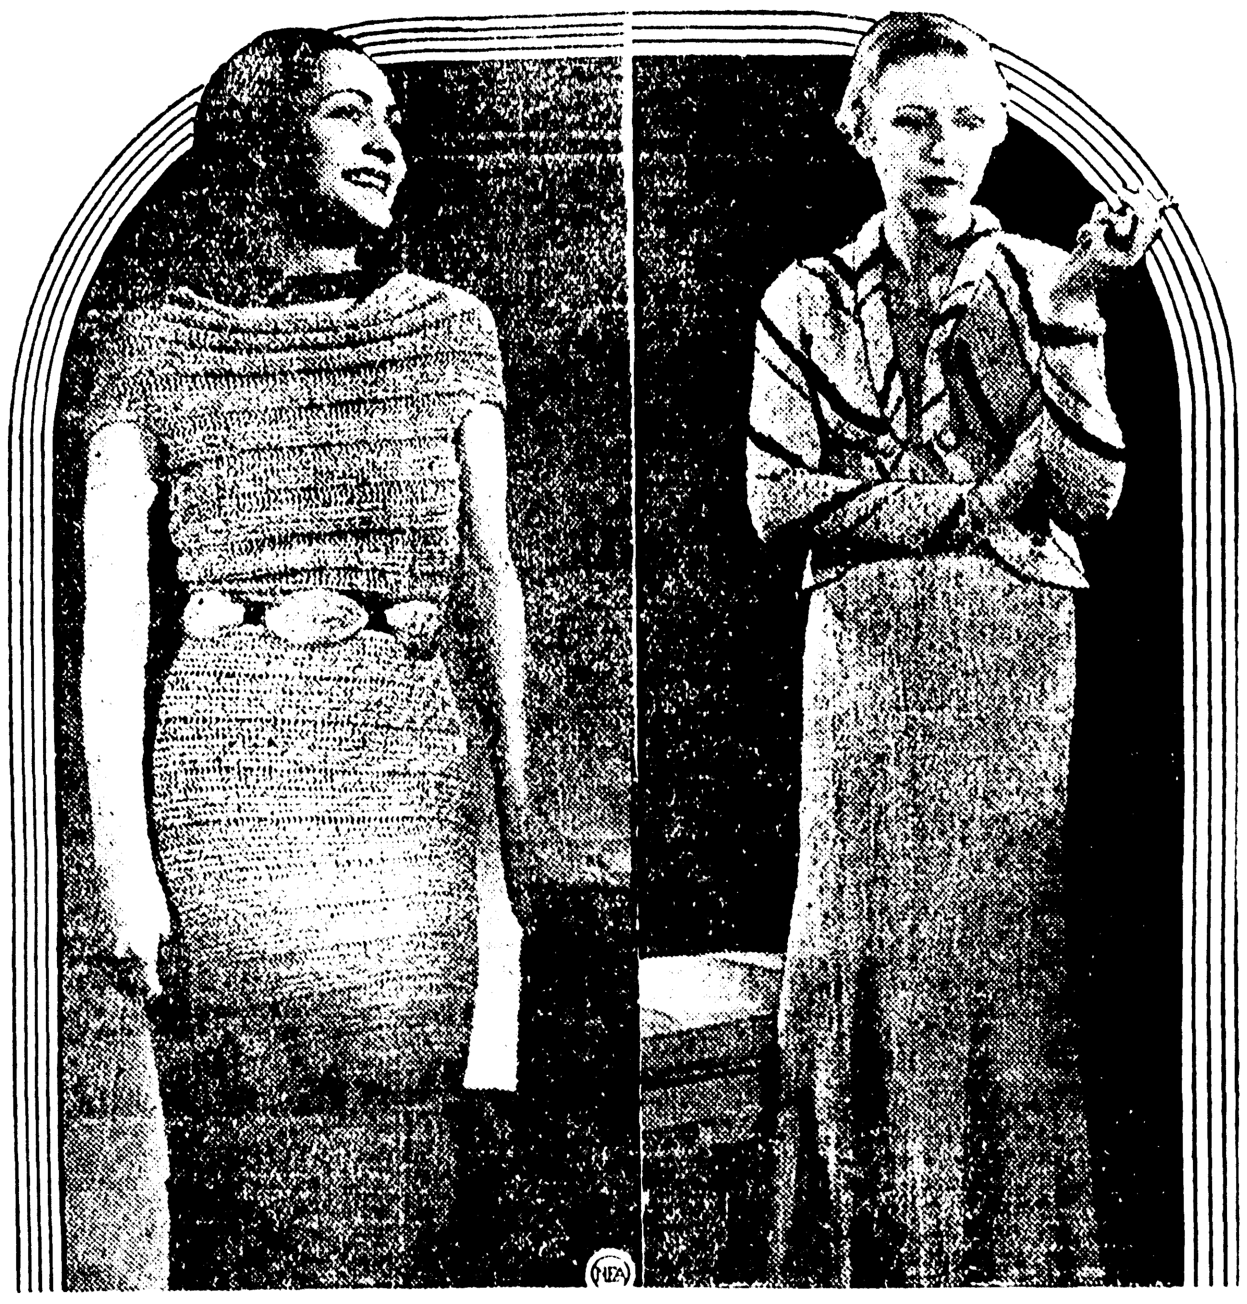
Hand Knit Frocks Being Worn on All Occasions



Hand-knit cotton lace fashions the attractive frock (left) created by Alix Barton for informal country club or resort dinner parties. The hand-knit evening gown (right), a de Nagornoff model in salmon pink artificial silk yarn, is cut on princess lines and is topped by a short jacket in salmon pink with bright blue and silver stripes.

BY ROSETTE HARGROVE
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

Paris—Time was when knitting never meant anything more exciting than warm, substantial garments and the despised thick, and very practical stockings, mitts and earmuffs of our youth. Not one of the industrious knitters of those days ever dreamed that the click of the needles would come to mean glamorous, siren-like dresses, as smart and as original as any silks or satins.

The hand-knitted dress or suit has by now become an almost indispensable number in the modern woman's wardrobe. For all-day wear in town, it fears very little competition, provided of course, it is skilfully knitted and perfectly fitted. Its first advantage is that it does not crease and so far as texture and weaves go tricots now offer as many varieties as fabrics.

Not content with invading the sports and informal category of dress, the hand-knit garment has recently made a bold and seemingly successful bid for recognition in the field of informal evening clothes.

Madame De Nagornoff is the creator of a beautiful evening dress and jacket, as well as of an equally attractive cocktail suit, which will probably set the mode for resort wear. The evening dress is cut on slim, flowing princess lines, with the front fulness introduced in the mode this season. The top is plain, moderately decollete in the back and V necked in front, with a fancy stitch in the sole trimming. Salmon pink artificial silk yarn fashions the dress. The jacket which completes it is made of the same salmon pink yarn with the artfully worked stripes in bright blue and silver. Silver chain buttons hold it together.

The cocktail model is fashioned of beige silk and wool yarn with a gold metal thread running through it. The jacket is nipped in at the waist and fastens with one button in front and the skirt is made up of four sections with a gently flaring hem which reaches to the ankles. In beige or black, this makes an elegant, practical and essentially original afternoon model for casino or formal resort wear.

Alix Barton knits heavy cotton thread into a charming informal dinner dress, which would be very useful and attractive for country club dining. The skirt is moderately long, just reaching to the ankles and with the slightest hint of fulness starting from the knees. The cap sleeves, softly gathered front, neckline and rounded decollete at the back are the very acme of simplicity, with the velvet ribbon which holds the top together providing the color contrast and original touch demanded of this type of dress. The belt is fashioned of a thick strand of the yarn held together with bands of cellophane, in black to match the velvet ribbon at the neck.

Anny Blatt is launching handmade tweeds to complement her very individual hand-knit and crochet dresses, pullovers and blouses. Such reputedly elegant women as Princess Achille Murat and Mrs. John Stewart Lithby wear Blatt models for town as well as country wear. The former has chosen "Garden Party," a town ensemble cut on tailored lines, and "Clair de Lune," a three-quarter swagger top coat in grey. The latter has selected "Sportive," also a simple suit in grey and green, to wear at Mortfontaine.

For traveling the hand-knit top coat is ideal, and more and more women are adopting it as the most practical wear, whether the journey is to be made by air, automobile or train.

Silver Wedding Day Observance Of Interest Here

Of interest to many Escanaba friends of the family was the observance held June 1 in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Arvidson of Ishpeming. Mrs. Arvidson, a former resident of Escanaba, was before her marriage, Ida Peterson, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson who resided at 220 North Eleventh street.

The anniversary observance was held at a reception in the parlors of the Evangelical Mission church.

The parlors were decorated in pink and silver with tulips and lilies of the valley, and the centerpiece of the table was a large wedding cake over which was a silver bell. Tapers of pink and silver and flowers completed the table decorations.

The program of the evening opened with a bridal procession, Mr. and Mrs. Arvidson, preceded by their children, Helen and Lowrie, and relatives, entering the church as a wedding march was played by Mrs. Gordon Mudge, church organist. Mrs. Arvidson who wore a gown of navy blue, carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas presented her by the congregation.

Rev. Otto Nelson, pastor of the church, was toastmaster of the reception program, and he also made the presentation of a silver service and a purse to the honored couple. The program numbers included songs by the church choir, a scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Mr. Nelson, vocal and instrumental solos and readings.

Guests at the reception from away were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Drumm of Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lambert of Escanaba; Miss Lydia Hegdahl of Detroit and Paul Nelson of Chicago. Telegrams of congratulation were received from relatives and friends, including Mr. Arvidson's mother and his sister, who live in Ripon, Calif.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

"Pat" Paterson, charming English singing comedienne, is well launched on her American movie career in the Fox romantic comedy, "Bottoms Up," which plays for the last times at the Delft Theatre today. The story centers about this attractive young actress.

Spencer Tracy and John Boles have the leading roles opposite her and share in the considerable credit that goes to the cast for the success of this delightful picture. Boles has several opportunities to sing. Both he and Miss Paterson acquit themselves splendidly.

Comedy honors go to Herbert Mundin, Sid Silvers and Harry Green. Thelma Todd proves herself an excellent villainess.

The film combines rollicking comedy with beautiful romance. It relates how three merry rogues and a disappointed beauty contest winner with movie ambitions crash the gates of the film capital. With assumed names and a false front, the girl and her three companions bluff Hollywood, and soon find themselves riding high on the waves of film fame. Interwoven with this pleasant story are four song numbers that give promise of being the song hits of the year. They are "Waiting at the Gate for Katy," "Turn on the Moon," "Little Did I Dream" and "I'm Throwin' My Love Away."

Dr. Robert Esenault-Pelterie, French airplane and rocket expert, hopes to make a rocket flight to the moon within the next 25 years.

The skirt is moderately long, just reaching to the ankles and with the slightest hint of fulness starting from the knees. The cap sleeves, softly gathered front, neckline and rounded decollete at the back are the very acme of simplicity, with the velvet ribbon which holds the top together providing the color contrast and original touch demanded of this type of dress. The belt is fashioned of a thick strand of the yarn held together with bands of cellophane, in black to match the velvet ribbon at the neck.

Anny Blatt is launching handmade tweeds to complement her very individual hand-knit and crochet dresses, pullovers and blouses. Such reputedly elegant women as Princess Achdelle Murat and Mrs. John Stewart Lithiby wear Blatt models for town as well as country wear. The former has chosen "Garden Party," a town ensemble cut on tailored lines, and "Clair de Lune," a three-quarter swagger topcoat in grey. The latter has selected "Sporting," also a simple suit, in grey and green, to wear at Morfontaine.

For traveling, the hand-knit topcoat is ideal and more and more women are adopting it as the most practical wear, whether the journey is to be made by air, automobile or train.

Silver Wedding Day Observance Of Interest Here

Of interest to many Escanaba friends of the family was the observance held June 1 in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Arvidson of Ishpeming. Mrs. Arvidson, a former resident of Escanaba, was before her marriage, Ida Peterson, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson who resided at 220 North Eleventh street.

The anniversary observance was held at a reception in the parlors of the Evangelical Mission church.

The parlors were decorated in pink and silver with tulips and lilies of the valley, and the centerpiece of the table was a large wedding cake over which was a silver bell. Tapers of pink and silver and flowers completed the table decorations.

The program of the evening opened with a bridal procession, Mr. and Mrs. Arvidson, preceded by their children, Helen and Lowrie, and relatives, entering the church as a wedding march was played by Mrs. Gordon Mudge, church organist. Mrs. Arvidson who wore a gown of navy blue, carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas presented her by the congregation.

Rev. Otto Nelson, pastor of the church, was toastmaster of the reception program, and he also made the presentation of a silver service and a purse to the honored couple. The program numbers included songs by the church choir, a scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Mr. Nelson, vocal and instrumental solos and readings.

Guests at the reception from away were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Drumm of Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lambert of Escanaba; Miss Lydia Hegdahl of Detroit and Paul Nelson of Chicago. Telegrams of congratulation were received from relatives and friends, including Mr. Arvidson's mother and his sister, who live in Ripon, Calif.

AT THE DELFT

"Pat" Paterson, charming English singing comedienne, is well launched on her American movie career in the Fox romantic comedy, "Bottoms Up," which plays for the last times at the Delft Theatre today. The story centers about this attractive young actress.

Spencer Tracy and John Boles have the leading roles opposite her and share in the considerable credit that goes to the cast for the success of this delightful picture. Boles has several opportunities to sing. Both he and Miss Paterson acquit themselves splendidly.

Comedy honors go to Herbert Mundin, Sid Silvers and Harry Green. Thelma Todd proves herself an excellent villainess.

The film combines rollicking comedy with beautiful romance. It relates how three merry rogues and a disappointed beauty contest winner with movie ambitions crash the gates of the film capital. With assumed names and a false front, the girl and her three companions bluff Hollywood, and soon find themselves riding high on the waves of film fame. Interwoven with this pleasant story are four song numbers that give promise of being the song hits of the year. They are: "Waiting at the Gate for Katy," "Turn on the Moon," "Little Did I Dream" and "I'm Throwin' My Love Away."

Dr. Robert Esenault-Pelterie, French airplane and rocket expert, hopes to make a rocket flight to the moon within the next 25 years.

This year, numbers on the program will be introduced by the four senior class officers, Francis Weingartner, president; Guy Freeman, vice president; Ernest Fraser, secretary, and Norman Peterson, treasurer.

A feature of the program will be a pictorial pageant in which the imagined change that 20 years will make in the appearance of certain seniors will be depicted. This will be done by means of a large book which is to be opened and the pages turned to show the members individually.

Two other features of the program will be the naming of the best all-round girl and the awarding the University of Michigan award given by the U. of M. Delta County club by a representative of the club.

Other awards to be given at the time are the National Forensic league keys and letters to various members of the class for their activities in public speaking during the year.

Gardens Damaged By Dogs; Owners Warned By Police

Following a series of complaints that flowers and vegetable gardens in various parts of the city have been damaged by dogs, Chief of Police Torval Kallerson yesterday issued warning to all dog owners of the city that the animals will no longer be allowed to run at large. He pointed out regulations pertaining to keeping of dogs, provide that they shall not be allowed to run at large within the city limits and when on the street must be leashed.

Regulations also provide that each dog must be licensed and thus far this year but few permits have been taken out by dog owners. Licenses are now on sale at the city hall. Within a short time a checkup will be conducted and all unlicensed animals picked up.

THEATRES

"Massacre" with Richard Barthelmess and "Spitfire" with Katharine Hepburn are showing again today at the Rialto Theatre as the benefit show sponsored by the Epworth league of the Methodist church.

"Massacre" brings to the screen a story not only packed with dramatic action and colorful spectacles but a unique romance different from the usual film love fare. The picture is from a story by Robert Gessner of Escanaba, based on his book "Massacre," a careful study of Indian reservation life, and accurately depicts the startling facts disclosed.

While it paints with stark realism and uncompromising adherence to facts the conflict of the half savage Redman with the civilization of the whites, it also catches all the picturesque spirit of an ancient race with its quaint and authentic tribal customs, its religious rites and ceremonial dances.

Illustrated Talk On India At Legion Hall Tonight

Two lectures will be given, one at 7 o'clock and the other at 8:30 o'clock.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS RULING

Road Board Not Liable For Compensation in Sid Grace Case

A circuit court judgment in favor of the Board of County Road Commissioners of Schoolcraft county in a case regarding compensation to Sidney Grace, who was injured while in the employ of the county road commission, was affirmed by the state supreme court according to an opinion received here yesterday by the local law firm of Hixson & Herbert, attorneys for the defendants against the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. The suit involved a sum of approximately $8,000.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, the plaintiff and appellant in the case, through its attorneys, Derham & Derham, of Iron Mountain, set up a claim that the insurance company was not liable because of failure on the part of the defendant in not giving immediate written notice of the accident as was provided in the policy. The accident to Mr. Grace was said to have occurred on July 6, 1929, and notice was not given to the insurance company until December 24, 1930, the attorneys for the plaintiff stated.

Defense attorneys alleged that the road commission was not informed that the insurance company intended to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice until the suit was actually started. At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, the casualty company, through its attorneys, filed a protest or disclaimer of liability on behalf of the road commission and contested it before the deputy commissioner, and at the same time made no protest against the assumption of the liability by the insurance company.

After the award had been made, Attorney Derham applied for a review of the case before the full board of the Department of Labor and Industry on the ground that no notice of the accident had been given, but later withdrew the application.

The supreme court opinion goes on to state that the road commission, relying on the provision in the policy wherein the insurer agreed to assume all obligations imposed upon the employer by his acceptance of the compensation act so far as the payment of compensation was concerned, and to defend in its name and on its behalf any suits or other proceedings which might be instituted against it on account of injuries to employees, did not employ an attorney in its defense.

"Had plaintiff's counsel at the time of his conversation with Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Christensen, or even after the award was made by the deputy," the opinion states, "notified the road commission of the intention of the plaintiff to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice, it might, and doubtless would, have employed an attorney and endeavored to protect itself against liability.

"But during all of the time after its attention was called to the claim of the employee for compensation, the plaintiff, by the acts and conduct of its representatives, led the defendant to believe that it had no intention of relying upon the lack of notice as a defense to its liability under the terms of the policy. Upon the facts as stated, the jury were justified in finding that the plaintiff was stopped from insisting upon the breach of the policy on the part of the defendant."

The insurance company had paid Mr. Grace the sum of $1,558 which it was attempting to recover from the county road commission, holding that the commission should also be held liable for the payment of the balance of the award.

At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, Mr. Grace testified that he suffered an injury to his left side and back by being thrown from a road grader.

The case was brought to trial here during the April term of circuit court last year when a jury held that the road commission was not liable. Attorney Roy Derham then appealed the case to the state supreme court with the result that the circuit court judgment was affirmed.

Attorney J. J. Herbert argued the appeal before the supreme court at Lansing a month ago.

FIREMEN ASS'N PLANS OUTLINED

Tentative Arrangements For State Convention Made This Week

Tentative plans for the Sixtieth Annual convention of the Michigan Firemen's association to be held in Manistique July 16-19 inclusive, jointly with the Sixth Annual meeting of the Fire College, were formed here this week by Charles V. Lane, secretary and director of the Michigan State Fire college, working in conjunction with Charles E. Underwood, local fire chief.

According to the tentative plans all general assemblies will be held in the court room of the court house. Registration of delegates will take place at the fire hall Sunday afternoon and evening, July 15, and the following Monday morning between 7:30 and 10:30 a. m. In addition to the assemblies, drills, and demonstrations, plans call for a memorial service at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 17, at the Zion Lutheran church, with Dr. Glen Blackburn, pastor of the St. Alban's Episcopal church, officiating.

The first general assembly of delegates will take place at the court house Monday, July 16, at 10:30 a. m. when the meeting will be called to order by Chief G. N. Clark, association president. Rev Blackburn will then offer a short prayer which will be followed by an address of welcome by Mayor Frank Gierke. The response will be made by President Clark on behalf of the association delegates.

Business Meeting Monday

Following roll call, Dean H. B. Dirks, of Michigan State college, dean of the engineering extension division, will give an address and H. B. Correll, deputy insurance commissioner will speak on the topic, "Cooperation Between Firemen and Insurance Companies."

Another general assembly will be held at the court house at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when Chief Roy Mottessherd, of Dearborn, will speak on "Standardization of Charges Covering Fire Department Services Outside of One's Own Community." Sam Robinson, of Lansing, assistant state fire marshal, will then give an address and Captain Talmadge, also of Lansing, will conclude the afternoon meeting with a talk on "Individual Fireman's Membership and Insurance."

The annual business meeting of the association will be held Monday evening at 7:30 when election of officers will take place, a site decided upon for the 1935 convention, and miscellaneous business matters brought up for discussion.

Work in connection with the Fire College, which will no doubt prove of great interest to the general public, will be held Tuesday, Wednesday forenoon, and Thursday afternoon. Chief Ernest Daunter, of Jackson, will give a talk and demonstration on hose evolution Tuesday morning from 9 to 10:30 o'clock on the court house lawn, while Earl Miller, of Lansing, will give a similar demonstration on first aid immediately following.

In the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock a drill team, not yet elected, will give a demonstration of salvage work, showing how goods can be kept from damage by fire and water. Demonstrations of apparatus and equipment will occupy the remainder of the afternoon. At 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, the delegates will assemble at the fire station to march from there in a body to the Zion Lutheran church where memorial services will be held.

On Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Chief W. H. Mitchell, of St. Joseph, will give a talk and demonstration on ladder evolution, and at 10:15 o'clock the firemen will make an inspection report of the old Westside school building, inspection blanks on which will be turned in at 1 p. m.

Sight Seeing Trip

In the afternoon at 1 o'clock firemen will assemble at the fire station and receive transportation for a sight seeing trip on Wilderness drive including a trip to a civilian conservation corps camp and to the Big Spring. The parties will drive north on M-94 as far as Steuben, thence through the lake district in the vicinity of the Great Northwoods Resort, and then to US-2 via the Thunder Lake road.

The association banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the new gymnasium to be followed by a dance in the old gym.

Members of the association will again convene in general assembly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, July 19, when reports of committees will be heard and R. C. Loughead will deliver an address on "Hydraulics and Fire Streams."

The association will conclude its sessions in the afternoon when several interesting tests and demonstrations will be held, includingf the burning of a building in determining the relative effectiveness of chemical and water in combatting fires. A building has been secured which will be partitioned in the center, each half of the structure being identical in order to arrive at a definite conclusion in the test.

Wives of local firemen are planning several social functions for the entertainment of women who will accompany their husbands to the convention.

In speaking of the merits of the Fire College, Mr. Lane stated that the demonstrations and drills not only make firemen more efficient in fighting fire, but has for its purpose the pointing out of various ways and means by which firemen may safeguard themselves more properly for their dangerous occupation.

It is expected that the convention will attract well over 200 delegates to Manistique.

He pointed out regulations pertaining to keeping of dogs, provide that they shall not be allowed to run at large within the city limits and when on the street must be leashed.

Regulations also provide that each dog must be licensed and thus far this year but few permits have been taken out by dog owners. Licenses are now on sale at the city hall. Within a short time a checkup will be conducted and all unlicensed animals picked up.

THEATRES

"Massacre" with Richard Barthelmess and "Spitfire" with Katharine Hepburn are showing again today at the Rialto Theatre as the benefit show sponsored by the Epworth league of the Methodist church.

"Massacre" brings to the screen a story not only packed with dramatic action and colorful spectacles but a unique romance different from the usual film love fare. The picture is from a story by Robert Gessner of Escanaba, based on his book "Massacre," a careful study of Indian reservation life, and accurately depicts the startling facts disclosed.

While it paints with stark realism and uncompromising adherence to facts the conflict of the half savage Redman with the civilization of the whites, it also catches all the picturesque spirit of an ancient race with its quaint and authentic tribal customs, its religious rites and ceremonial dances.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS RULING

Road Board Not Liable For Compensation in Sid Grace Case

A circuit court judgment in favor of the Board of County Road Commissioners of Schoolcraft county in a case regarding compensation to Sidney Grace, who was injured while in the employ of the county road commission, was affirmed by the state supreme court according to an opinion received here yesterday by the local law firm of Hixson & Herbert, attorneys for the defendants against the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. The suit involved a sum of approximately $8,000.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, the plaintiff and appellant in the case, through its attorneys, Derham & Derham, of Iron Mountain, set up a claim that the insurance company was not liable because of failure on the part of the defendant in not giving immediate written notice of the accident as was provided in the policy. The accident to Mr. Grace was said to have occurred on July 6, 1929, and notice was not given to the insurance company until December 24, 1930, the attorneys for the plaintiff stated.

Defense attorneys alleged that the road commission was not informed that the insurance company intended to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice until the suit was actually started. At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, the casualty company, through its attorneys, filed a protest or disclaimer of liability on behalf of the road commission and contested it before the deputy commissioner, and at the same time made no protest against the assumption of the liability by the insurance company.

After the award had been made, Attorney Derham applied for a review of the case before the full board of the Department of Labor and Industry on the ground that no notice of the accident had been given, but later withdrew the application.

The supreme court opinion goes on to state that the road commission, relying on the provision in the policy wherein the insurer agreed to assume all obligations imposed upon the employer by his acceptance of the compensation act so far as the payment of compensation was concerned, and to defend in its name and on its behalf any suits or other proceedings which might be instituted against it on account of injuries to employees, did not employ an attorney in its defense.

"Had plaintiff's counsel at the time of his conversation with Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Christensen, or even after the award was made by the deputy," the opinion states, "notified the road commission of the intention of the plaintiff to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice, it might, and doubtless would, have employed an attorney and endeavored to protect itself against liability.

"But during all of the time after its attention was called to the claim of the employee for compensation, the plaintiff, by the acts and conduct of its representatives, led the defendant to believe that it had no intention of relying upon the lack of notice as a defense to its liability under the terms of the policy. Upon the facts as stated, the jury were justified in finding that the plaintiff was stopped from insisting upon the breach of the policy on the part of the defendant."

The insurance company had paid Mr. Grace the sum of $1,558 which it was attempting to recover from the county road commission, holding that the commission should also be held liable for the payment of the balance of the award.

At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, Mr. Grace testified that he suffered an injury to his left side and back by being thrown from a road grader.

The case was brought to trial here during the April term of circuit court last year when a jury held that the road commission was not liable. Attorney Roy Derham then appealed the case to the state supreme court with the result that the circuit court judgment was affirmed.

Attorney J. J. Herbert argued the appeal before the supreme court at Lansing a month ago.

Five runs in the sixth and a similar number in the seventh placed the game in the bag for the Browns after the Cleaners had held a 2-0 advantage for the first five innings.

Jones hurled splendid ball up to the sixth, holding the Browns hitless for the first four frames and scoreless during the first five. Leonard Stoor, star fast baller, settled down after a somewhat shaky start and held the Cleaners to a seingle hit in the last five frames. The Browns outhit the Cleaners 9 to

Tentative Arrangements For State Convention Made This Week

Tentative plans for the Sixtieth Annual convention of the Michigan Firemen's association to be held in Manistique July 16-19 inclusive, jointly with the Sixth Annual meeting of the Fire College, were formed here this week by Charles V. Lane, secretary and director of the Michigan State Fire college, working in conjunction with Charles E. Underwood, local fire chief.

According to the tentative plans all general assemblies will be held in the court room of the court house. Registration of delegates will take place at the fire hall Sunday afternoon and evening, July 15, and the following Monday morning between 7:30 and 10:30 a. m. In addition to the assemblies, drills, and demonstrations, plans call for a memorial service at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 17, at the Zion Lutheran church, with Dr. Glen Blackburn, pastor of the St. Alban's Episcopal church, officiating.

The first general assembly of delegates will take place at the court house Monday, July 16, at 10:30 a. m. when the meeting will be called to order by Chief G. N. Clark, association president. Rev. Blackburn will then offer a short prayer which will be followed by an address of welcome by Mayor Frank Gierke. The response will be made by President Clark on behalf of the association delegates.

Business Meeting Monday

Following roll call, Dean H. B. Dirks, of Michigan State college, dean of the engineering extension division, will give an address and H. B. Correll, deputy insurance commissioner will speak on the topic, "Cooperation Between Firemen and Insurance Companies."

Another general assembly will be held at the court house at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when Chief Roy Mottesshered, of Dearborn, wil speak on "Standardization of Charges Covering Fire Department Services Outside of One's Own Community." Sam Robinson, of Lansing, assistant state fire marshal, will then give an address and Captain Talmadge, also of Lansing, will conclude the afternoon meeting with a talk on "Individual Fireman's Membership and Insurance."

The annual business meeting of the association will be held Monday evening at 7:30 when election of officers will take place, a site decided upon for the 1935 convention, and miscellaneous business matters brought up for discussion.

Work in connection with the Fire College, which will no doubt prove of great interest to the general public, will be held Tuesday, Wednesday forenoon, and Thursday afternoon. Chief Ernest Daunter, of Jackson, will give a talk and demonstration on hose evolution Tuesday morning from 9 to 10:30 o'clock on the court house lawn, while Earl Miller, of Lansing, will give a similar demonstration on first aid immediately following.

In the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock a drill team, not yet elected, will give a demonstration of salvage work, showing how goods can be kept from damage by fire and water. Demonstrations of apparatus and equipment will occupy the remainder of the afternoon. At 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, the delegates will assemble at the fire station to march from there in a body to the Zion Lutheran church where memorial services will be held.

On Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Chief W. H. Mitchell, of St. Joseph, will give a talk and demonstration on ladder evolution, and at 10:15 o'clock the firemen will make an inspection report of the old Westside school building, inspection blanks on which will be turned in at 1 p. m.

Sight Seeing Trip

In the afternoon at 1 o'clock firemen will assemble at the fire station and receive transportation for a sight seeing trip on Wilderness drive including a trip to a civilian conservation corps camp and to the Big Spring. The parties will drive north on M-94 as far as Steuben, thence through the lake district in the vicinity of the Great Northwoods Resort, and then to US-2 via the Thunder Lake road.

The association banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the new gymnasium to be followed by a dance in the old gym.

Members of the association will again convene in general assembly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, July 19, when reports of committees will be heard and R. C. Loughead will deliver an address on "Hydraulics and Fire Streams."

The association will conclude its sessions in the afternoon when several interesting tests and demonstrations will be held, includingf the burning of a building in determining the relative effectiveness of chemical and water in combatting fires. A building has been secured which will be partitioned in the center, each half of the structure being identical in order to arrive at a definite conclusion in the test.

Wives of local firemen are planning several social functions for the entertainment of women who will accompany their husbands to the convention.

I speaking of the merits of the Fire College, Mr. Lane stated that the demonstrations and drills not only make firemen more efficient in fighting fire, but has for its purpose the pointing out of various ways and means by which firemen may safeguard themselves more properly for their dangerous occupation.

It is expected that the convention will attract well over 200 delegates to Manistique.

JOHN DECKER PASSES AWAY

Prominent Germfask Man Succumbs to Heart Attack

John W. Decker, 49, prominent Germfask resident passed away suddenly yesterday morning about four o'clock as the result of a heart attack. Mr. Decker had been ailing somewhat for the past two months, but his condition had not been regarded as serious. He was found in his home at the foot of the stairs where he had evidently collapsed, passing away a short time later after medical assistance proved of no avail.

Mr. Decker was the proprietor of a garage and blacksmith shop at Germfask and was regarded with high esteem in the community. He was born at Germfask on February 8, 1885. Survivors of the deceased are his widow; his father, Daniel Decker; three brothers, James Edward and Richard, all of Germfask; and two sisters, Mrs. James Cornell, Highland Park, Mich., and Mrs. John Cornell of Germfask.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the Germfask Methodist church. Interment will be made in the Germfask cemetery under the direction of Gunnarson and Kefauver.

Mr. and Mrs. August Carlson will leave Sunday morning for Appleton to attend the commencement exercises of Lawrence college which will be held Monday. Miss Bernice Carlson, who is graduating from Lawrence Conservatoire, will accompany her parents home for the summer.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Except for oils, metals and scattered issues, rallying power in the stock market played out today.

Although the Wall Street atmosphere seemed clear of a good deal of its recent pessimism, bulls were reluctant to follow the recovery movement until news was more favorable.

Firmness in bonds and most active commodities supported a good undertone in stocks but the rally the past two days had gone far enough to invite profit-taking by traders.

Gains predominated in the list generally at the finish, the average of 90 stocks closing three-tenths of a point higher at 77.4.

Losses of minor fractions were recorded for American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and other key issues.

Trading dwindled as the rally was checked after further modest gains in early trading. Sales on the stock exchange totaled 665,900 shares against 741,160 in the preceding session.

Wide fluctuations were recorded for a few stocks in thin trading. Mexican Petroleum, which rarely trades, jumped 10 points on a small transaction. Norfolk & Western spurted 8 points to 180, within 2 points of the 1934 peak. Santa Fe preferred moved up 2½ points in belated response to declaration of the semi-annual preferred dividend yesterday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 6—Some moisture and much cooler weather contrasting with recent widespread drought and abnormal heat led to material setbacks of grain prices today.

Lowest quotations reached for wheat, 3 cents under the day's top figures, were witnessed at the last after a succession of unusually numerous changes. Northwestern advices indicated likelihood of recovery of crop prospects in some areas, although in other sections of domestic spring wheat territory it was asserted that even under the most favorable circumstances hereafter the crop would be light.

Wheat closed weak, 1½ cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1¼ to 2 1-8 off, oats ½ to 1 cent down and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 21 cents.

Corn and oats traders took their cue mainly from the action of wheat. Moisture received was looked upon as of decided benefit to the corn crop.

Provisions were easy, responsive to the course of grain values and more or less ignoring firmness of the hog market.

Curb Market Mixed With Gains, Losses

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—The curb had a mixed tone at the close today but despite profit taking in some of the recent gainers a number of shares improved, particularly oils.

Variations in local quotations were mostly within fractional limits. Around mid-session the list was generally higher but scattered offerings appeared near the finish.

Gulf Oil, firm yesterday, advanced 3 1-8 points to close at 63; other petroleum shares showing fractional improvement included Humble Oil, International Petroleum, Standard Oil of Indiana and Ohio.

Electric Bond and Share common eased slightly but the senior issues were firm. Hiram Walker dipped a point, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass advanced as much. Lake Shore was a shade lower. Swift & Company and Greyhound corporations closed steady.

Transfers approximated 126,000 shares compared with 151,000 yesterday.

New York, June 6 (AP)—Bonds displayed further firmness today although gains for the most part were modest and there were a sufficient number of scattered losses to temper bullish enthusiasm.

Due to an increased demand for some of the federal issues, the trading volume expanded to $12,521,000, par value, against $10,803,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point to 85.8.

Treasury securities were quiet and rather narrow. There was a run on Home Owners' Loan 4s. This issue accounted for nearly $3,000,000 of a turnover of about $3,900,000 in the federal section. It showed a gain of 2-32nds of a point. Prices of the new 3s and 2 1-8s, traded over the counter on a "when issued" basis, were about unchanged.

Corporations Steady

The majority of prime investment corporation bonds were steady to higher. Such issues as Santa Fe adjustment 4s, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Union Pacific refunding 4s and Pennsylvania general 4¼s edged up to new highs for the year or longer.

Gains of fractions to a point or more were recorded by some issues of Alleghany Corp., American Chain, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Chesapeake Corp., Chicago & North Western, Colorado & Southern, Consolidated Gas, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, International Paper, K. C. Ft. Scott & Memphis, "Soo" Line, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Otis Steel, Southern Pacific, Studebaker, Utilities Power & Light, Vanadium, Wabash and Western Maryland.

place on her way to town was gone. She dare not keep Con waiting in a snow storm. She had chosen the cemetery for a meeting place because it seemed the place where they would be least likely to encounter anyone whom she knew, but as Donna slipped from her house dress into a dark, heavy wool it occurred to her that, of all places in the world, she had chosen the worst. If she should be seen there with Con the worst construction possible would be given to the affair.

She heard the wheels of the automobile crunching on the hard ground outside, and the noisy chug-chug of the engine. Then Bill whistled. Donna snatched up her coat and hat. With a new desperation she planked the hat on her head and drew on her coat.

Bill helped her into the little car. "Don't stay long," he said, kissing her. "You aren't a crack driver at best and in the snow—"

"Mother hen!" she laughed.

She turned at the bend in the road to wave to him. He was still standing on the porch looking after her, the wind whipping his dark hair and making it stand on end. Something in his posture, as though he had bidden her farewell and was taking a last, yearning look at her, caught at Donna's heart and almost stifled her breathing.

She thought, "Oh, God—suppose it's the last time I'll ever see him! Suppose this foolhardiness of mine should separate us! Suppose God, as a punishment for all the things I've done, should tear him away from me!"

Words that Grandfather Siddal had spoken about intentions being more important than actions seemed trivial now, though in the past she had used them to reassure her failing spirits over and over again. Every step she had taken that had drawn the net of intrigue tighter flashed across her memory.

There had been many opportunities to set herself right with the man she had married, but she had let all of them slip by. Cowardice had made her do it. Donna knew that now. Cowardice and the terrible fear that she might lose Bill's love. Oh, if she could only have understood before! Each step in the angle of subterfuge had led to another. Each step made it harder to turn around and face the truth. And now the very things she had done to save her love might take it away from her!

She drove past the Adams farm house, scarcely conscious that she was passing it. Once the car skidded on the road, now covered with a thin layer of soft, slippery snow that was all the more treacherous because of the heavier coat of ice underneath. The cold wind and the driven snow flakes stung Donna's cheeks. The windshield needed constant wiping. She did not see Lem Holden's little car as they passed at the edge of town, nor hear his cheery greeting, "Hello, Mrs. Siddal!"

If she had, she might have been given the letter that would have spared both Bill and herself the countless hours of agony.

To all lovers of nature now is the time to get out in the open, to ride through country roads or wherever one may wish to go, to see trees arrayed in the different shades of green, the apple blossoms and lilacs all lending a exotic perfume to the air, there is however two things that spoil the beauty and they are mosquitoes, of which there is an abundant supply of wherever one goes, and the hot, dry weather that we've had for a couple of weeks. Local farmers are hoping for rain to start their crops before they dry up altogether.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Except for oils, metals and scattered issues, rallying power in the stock market played out today.

Although the Wall Street atmosphere seemed clear of a good deal of its recent pessimism, bulls were reluctant to follow the recovery movement until news was more favorable.

Firmness in bonds and most active commodities supported a good undertone in stocks but the rally the past two days had gone far enough to invite profit-taking by traders.

Gains predominated in the list generally at the finish, the average of 90 stocks closing three-tenths of a point higher at 77.4.

Losses of minor fractions were recorded for American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and other key issues.

Trading dwindled as the rally was checked after further modest gains in early trading. Sales on the stock exchange totaled 665,900 shares against 741,160 in the preceding session.

Wide fluctuations were recorded for a few stocks in thin trading. Mexican Petroleum, which rarely trades, jumped 10 points on a small transaction. Norfolk & Western spurted 8 points to 180, within 2 points of the 1934 peak. Santa Fe preferred moved up 2½ points in belated response to declaration of the semi-annual preferred dividend yesterday.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, June 6—Some moisture and much cooler weather contrasting with recent widespread drought and abnormal heat led to material setbacks of grain prices today.

Lowest quotations reached for wheat, 3 cents under the day's top figures, were witnessed at the last after a succession of unusually numerous changes. Northwestern advices indicated likelihood of recovery of crop prospects in some areas, although in other sections of domestic spring wheat territory it was asserted that even under the most favorable circumstances hereafter the crop would be light.

Wheat closed weak, 1½ cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1¼ to 2 1-8 off, oats ½ to 1 cent dwon, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 21 cents.

Corn and oats traders took their cue mainly from the action of wheat. Moisture received was looked upon as of decided benefit to the corn crop.

Provisions were easy, responsive to the course of grain values and more or less ignoring firmness of the hog market.

Cattle 10,000, calves 2,500; fed steers and yearlings generally steady to strong; lower grades got best action; slightly too many good and choice steers in crop; fairly generous supply medium weights and weighty bullocks, 9.00 to 9.75; top 10.10; new high on crop; best light steers, 9.25; trade active on lower grade killers and thin fleshed stock steers; latter along with all cows and heifers ruling 25 higher.

Curb Market Mixed With Gains, Losses

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—The curb had a mixed tone at the close today but despite profit taking in some of the recent gainers, a number of shares improved, particularly oils.

Variations in final quotations were mostly within fractional limits. Around mid-session the list was generally higher but scattered offerings appeared near the finish.

Gulf Oil, firm yesterday, advanced 3 1-8 points to close at 63. Other petroleum shares showing fractional improvement included Humble Oil, International Petroleum, Standard Oils of Indiana and Ohio.

Electric Bond and Share common eased slightly, but the senior issues were firm. Hiram Walker dipped a point, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass advanced as much. Lake Shore was a shade lower. Swift & Company and Greyhound Corporations closed steady.

Transfers approximated 126,000 shares compared with 131,000 yesterday.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Bonds displayed further firmness today although gains for the most part were modest and there were a sufficient number of scattered losses to temper bullish enthusiasm.

Due to an increased demand for some of the federal issues, the trading volume expanded to $12,521,000, par value, against $10,803,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point to 85.8.

Treasury securities were quiet and rather narrow. There was a run on Home Owners' Loan 4s. This issue accounted for nearly $3,000,000 of a turnover of about $3,900,000 in the federal section. It showed a gain of 2-32nds of a point. Prices of the new 3s and 2 1-8s, traded over the counter on a "when issued" basis, were about unchanged.

Corporations Steady

The majority of prime investment corporation bonds were steady to higher. Such issues as Santa Fe adjustment 4s, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Union Pacific refunding 4s and Pennsylvania general 4¼s edged up to new highs for the year or longer.

Gains of fractions to a point or more were recorded by some issues of Alleghany Corp., American Chain, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Chesapeake Corp., Chicago & North Western, Colorado & Southern, Consolidated Gas, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, International Paper, K. C. Ft. Scott & Memphis, "Soo" Line, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Otis Steel, Southern Pacific, Studebaker, Utilities Power & Light, Vanadium, Wabash and Western Maryland.

place on her way to town was gone. She dare not keep Con waiting in a snow storm. She had chosen the cemetery for a meeting place because it seemed the place where they would be least likely to encounter anyone whom she knew, but as Donna slipped from her house dress into a dark, heavy wool it occurred to her that, of all places in the world, she had chosen the worst. If she should be seen there with Con the worst construction possible would be given to the affair.

She heard the wheels of the automobile crunching on the hard ground outside, and the noisy chug-chug of the engine. Then Bill whistled. Donna snatched up her coat and hat. With a new desperation she planked the hat on her head and drew on her coat.

Bill helped her into the little car. "Don't stay long," he said, kissing her. "You aren't a crack driver at best and in the snow—"

"Mother hen!" she laughed.

She turned at the bend in the road to wave to him. He was still standing on the porch looking after her, the wind whipping his dark hair and making it stand on end. Something in his posture, as though he had bidden her farewell and was taking a last, yearning look at her, caught at Donna's heart and almost stifled her breathing.

She thought, "Oh, God—suppose it's the last time I'll ever see him! Suppose this foolhardiness of mine should separate us! Suppose God, as a punishment for all the things I've done, should tear him away from me!"

Words that Grandfather Siddal had spoken about intentions being more important than actions seemed trivial now, though in the past she had used them to reassure her failing spirits over and over again. Every step she had taken that had drawn the net of intrigue tighter flashed across her memory.

There had been many opportunities to set herself right with the man she had married, but she had let all of them slip by. Cowardice had made her do it. Donna knew that now. Cowardice and the terrible fear that she might lose Bill's love. Oh, if she could only have understood before! Each step in the angle of subterfuge had led to another. Each step made it harder to turn around and face the truth. And now the very things she had done to save her love might take it away from her!

She drove past the Adams farm house, scarcely conscious that she was passing it. Once the car skidded on the road, now covered with a thin layer of soft, slippery snow that was all the more treacherous because of the heavier coat of ice underneath. The cold wind and the driven snow flakes stung Donna's cheeks. The windshield needed constant wiping. She did not see Lem Holden's little car as they passed at the edge of town, nor hear his cheery greeting, "Hello, Mrs. Siddal!"

If she had, she might have been given the letter that would have spared both Bill and herself the countless hours of agony.

To all lovers of nature now is the time to get out in the open, to ride through country roads or wherever one may wish to go, to see trees arrayed in the different shades of green, the apple blossoms and lilacs all lending a exotic perfume to the air, there is however two things that spoil the beauty and they are mosquitoes, of which there is an abundant supply of wherever one goes, and the hot, dry weather that we've had for a couple of weeks. Local farmers are hoping for rain to start their crops before they dry up altogether.

CUBS CAPTURE 13-FRAME TILT

6-Run Uprising in 13th Gives Bruins 12-6 Win Over Cards

St. Louis, June 6. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today dropped the Cardinals from their top position in the National league by virtue of a weird 13-inning 12 to 6 victory decided by a six-run Cub rally.

Eight pitchers, five wearing Red Bird ensignia toed the mound at various times. Frankie Frisch, Cardinal manager, was banished from the field in the twelfth after he grabbed Umpire Rigler's arm in protesting that Medwick was not out at the home plate.

Rigler struck Frisch with his mask, and other Cardinals attempted to punch the umpire before order was restored.

Dodgers Drop Third Straight To Phils

Philadelphia, June 6. (AP)—All sorts of things happened to the unhappy Brooklyn Dodgers as they lost their third straight game to the Phillies today, 12 to 4.

Four pitchers were bombed out of action. Catcher Al Lopez was chased from the game by Umpire Magerkurth in the seventh, and in the same inning Frey was spiked by Dick Bartell at second base.

Phil Collins held the Dodgers until he weakened in the ninth, when Brooklyn scored twice, and Syl Johnson finished.

Officers have issued a call for all members of the club who are interested in small bore shooting to be present at this meeting. Epsom Derby Won by Windsor Lad, Outsider

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Epsom Downs, Eng., June 6 (AP)—Amid tense silence that testified to the disappointment of the multitude of spectators, Windsor Lad, flying the silks of the Indian potentate, the Maharaja of Rajpipla, ran the legs off the wonder horse, Colombo, in the last uphill furlong to win the 151st Epsom Derby today.

The entire royal family and perhaps a half-million subjects of his majesty, King George, saw the hitherto unbeaten Lord Glanely's Colombo, favorite at 11 to 8, move up and make his challenge in dramatic fashion in the final straightaway only to falter before Windsor Lad's closing burst of speed.

Lord Woolavington's Easton, purchased only a few weeks ago for $75,000 from Ralph Strassburger of Philadelphia, finished under a whip drive to nip the fading Colombo by a neck. Windsor Lad, held at 15 to 2 in the wagering, was a length in front of Easton, a 100 to 9 shot.

Equals Record

Under Charley Smirke's well judged ride, the aply named winner, an Irish-bred son of Blandford, ran the one and one-half miles over sun-baked turf in 2:34 to equal the record made by Hyperion last year.

Only for one fleeting instant did the great majority of the fans who backed Colombo have a chance to cheer.

The highly regarded colt, the shortest priced favorite since the World War, had trailed the leaders in the first long uphill run across from the grandstand and appeared well beaten as he failed to gain ground in the next half-mile and the field, led by Tiberius, came flying around Tattenham corner leading into the final straightaway.

But a quarter of a mile from home a mighty cry arose, "Here comes Colombo." There he was, coming strong on the outside, moving on Windsor Lad, which was running easily on the rail after taking command at the top of the stretch, and Easton which had moved up with the Maharaja's colt.

From there the race was strictly a three-horse affair. One-eighth of a mile from the finish Colombo's drive carried even with the other two for an instant as they hit the final incline. The cheering reached crescendo for a moment and then died as Windsor Lad, in a few strides, put a length between him and the others.

William Woodward's Bondsman, the lone American entry in the field of 19, never figured in the running after making a brave start and running up with the leaders for the first half-mile. He galloped in 16th almost a half furlong behind the leaders.

Colombo, winner of seven straight races as a juvenile and his only two other starts this year, including the two thousand guineas, was beaten as many expert turfmen said he would be.

From a good start, Medieval Knight was the first to show in front. At the mile post he was still in front but yielded the pace setting to Tiberius as the field sped down hill on the back stretch. At Tattenham corner, Tibertius was still in front but Smirke had moved Windsor Lad up fast into second place. Once they headed for the judges, the Maharaja's colt quickly bounded to the front while Colombo swung wide. That move may have cost him the race as Smirke took Windsor lad the shortest way home.

Tiberius finished fourth and was trailed by Alishah, Umidwar, and Valerius. The others were strung out far to the rear.

Pirates Grab Pair From Reds, 3-1; 5-1

Cincinnati, June 6 (AP)—Pittsburgh gathered two games from the Cincinnati Reds today, the first by a timely single, the last by the heavy hitting of the Waner boys.

The scores were 3 to 1 and 5 to 1, with the last game credited to Birkofer, a rookie pitcher from the Cincinnati sandlots.

Jensen's single in the eighth, with the bases loaded and two out, drove in two runs for Pittsburgh and broke a 1-1 tie in the first contest. It happened it was his only hit of the game. Padden's single, Lloyd Waner's triple, and Paul Waner's double in the ninth of the second game brought two runs to clinch the contest.

Yankees Split With Boston Sox, Yield Lead To Detroit

Boston, June 6. (AP)—The Yankees slid out of first place in the American league today by splitting a double header with the Boston Red Sox. The Detroit Tigers, by beating Cleveland, took the lead.

The Yanks had a field day in the first game, hitting Lefty Bob Grove and Henry Johnson safely 25 times to win 15 to 3, but dropped the nightcap 7 to 4 when the Sox rallied for four runs in the eighth. Merl Hoag, subbing for Babe Ruth, who took a day off, hit six straight singles in the first game.

TIGERS ASSUME LEAD POSITION

Victory Over Indians With Yank Defeat Causes Shift

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers got only one hit off Bob Weiland and Mel Harder who pitched the eighth inning but defeated Cleveland 2 to 1 in a bitterly contested pitchers' duel. Schoolboy Rowe held the Indians to six hits. Two passes, Gehringer's single and an infield out in the sixth caused the Indians' downfall.

The defeat of the Yankees in the second game of their double-header with Boston today put the Tigers in the lead in the American league.

Rowe retired the Indians in order in the first inning. Weiland walked Goslin and Gehringer in the Tiger half, but they died on base.

Trosky singled in the Indian second, but a double play retired the side. The Tigers went out in order Greenberg and Hayworth fanning.

Rowe retaliated by striking out Myatt and Weiland in the third. The Tigers went out one, two, three.

Gehringer Singles

Each side went out in order in the fourth, Rowe fanning Knickerbocker and Weiland striking out Gehringer.

Again the teams went out one, two, three in the fifth. Trosky and Hayworth retiring via the strike-out route.

Rowe continued his mastery of the Indian bats in the sixth but the Tigers broke loose in their half. After Fox had grounded out, Goslin walked and stole second. Walker also was passed and Gehringer singled scoring Goslin. It was the first hit off Weiland. Rogell forced Gehringer at second, Walker scoring on the play. Greenberg fanned for the third out.

With one out, Knickerbocker beat out an infield hit in the Indian's seventh but the next two men went out. The Tigers went out in order.

The Indians finally scored in the eighth after Trosky had struck out. Burnett singled and took third when Myatt also singled. Hale batted for Moore and singled scoring Burnett. Holland batted for Weiland and popped out. Rice forced Hale for the third out.

Mel Harder went to the box for Cleveland in the Tiger half of the eighth and retired Fox, Goslin and Hayworth.

Knickerbocker singled to open the Indian ninth but was forced by Averill. Vosmik and Trosky grounded out to end the game.

Rollie Hemsley hit once in four tries, dropping five points for a total loss of 19 in two days while Charley Gehringer collected the only Detroit hit of the day out of two times up. American Open Golf Championship Begins Today at Philadelphia

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Philadelphia, June 6 (AP)—Thunderstorms broke the grip of the heat wave late today and 149 golfers, representing the pick of American amateur and professional talent, hope to crack the resistance of old man par starting tomorrow in a wide open scramble for the United States open golf championship.

A veritable deluge broke up the final workouts of the combatants, but whatever the weather tomorrow for the first 18 holes of the 72-hole test over the historic East course of the Merion Cricket club, the tournament promises to develop one of the hottest fights in years.

Goodman "Outsider"

It will be waged over the same battleground where Bob Jones completed his "grand slam" in 1930 by winning the national amateur tournament but the famous old layout has been stiffened, 20 extra tons of sand have been poured into approximately 100 brutal-looking traps and the terrors of the old stone quarry, around which the last three holes are laid out, remain.

From the competitive standpoint it appears only a marked comeback and a good share of the "breaks" can save Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, the young amateur holder of the open crown, from being beaten by the most determined professional countercharge in years.

Only a few days off the boat, fresh from his Walker Cup conquests abroad, Goodman is rated distinctly an "outsider," no better than a 15 to 1 shot to repeat, but Johnny wasn't considered much of a threat at Chicago last year until he startled the rail birds with a 66.

If Goodman finds the pace a bit too swift, there are a number of other amateur threats, including William Lawson Little, Jr., the new British amateur titleholder, Gus Moreland, of Dallas, who shows signs of being very much "on" his game, and Howard Creel, southpaw scoring sensation from Denver, but the pre-tournament indications all point distinctly to a professional holiday.

Because Merion seems ideally suited to his well-knit, accurate game, featuring fine work around the greens, Runyan rules a 6 to 1 favorite but the pressure from all sides is such that at least a dozen other professionals have strong support and the experts figure at least 30 players in the big field have a chance to crash through. Consequently the tournament record of 286, jointly held by Chick Evans and Gene Sarazen, may be wiped out by late Saturday afternoon.

Sarazen, the national P. G. A. titleholder, long-driving Craig Wood, silver-haired Tommy Armour, the old campaigner, Walter Hagen and Ky Laffoon, scoring sensation from Denver, all figure to be in the thick of the scramble.

St. Louis Browns Nip Pale Hose, 3-2

Chicago, June 6. (AP)—Scoring all their runs in the fourth inning as a result of two White Sox infield errors, Deb Garms' single and Rollie Hemsley's double, the St. Louis Browns edged out the Chicagoans, 3 to 2, today, to take the lead in the series, two games to one.

Ted Lyons went the route for the sixth time in as many starts this season and gave up seven hits, one less than his mates got off Irving Hadley. In addition Lyons drove in both Chicago runs with a sharp single to center with the cases filled in the sixth inning.

OLD BALLYHOO PRESENT AGAIN

Baer Says He Can't Be Ready for Carnera Fight in a Week

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Genuine worry over Max Baer's physical condition or a neat bit of ballyhoo caused the handlers of the challenger for Primo Carnera's heavyweight title to proclaim today the necessity for a week's postponement of the original date set for June 14.

Down in Asbury Park, N. J., where the night club nabob has been puffing and hauling through his workouts, Ancil Hoffman, his manager, and Jack Dempsey, his advisor, took a long look and decided Max couldn't possibly be ready for the fifteen round duel in Madison Square Garden bowl one week from tomorrow night.

Carnera Protests

"If I were Hoffman I'd ask for a postponement," said Dempsey critically, "so as to have the young man in perfect shape. He has seven days left to work and that's not enough. I think he'll come through all right and be the Baer that knocked off Schmeling but it will require plenty of hard work. Carnera is ready now. Baer isn't."

Hoffman thought that over for awhile and then announced that he'd appear at the New York state athletic commission Friday to ask the postponement. His words touched off an immediate explosion on two other main fronts—the Garden offices in New York and Carnera's training camp at Pompton Lakes, L. J.

"I refuse to consent to any postponement," Carnera fumed. "There will be a fight June 14 or not at all."

"We couldn't postpone it now," said Col John R. Kilpatrick, president of the Garden. "Too many people have made their arrangements to come here for the fight. It may just be ballyhoo."

Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, frothed and swore.

"It's a larcenous trick on the part of the Baer people," he said. "We'll object and object strenuously to any postponement. They've got an idea that if they can hold off another week Carnera will go stale and they'll get that title. Baer's been training six weeks tomorrow. He's in shape."

CUBS CAPTURE 13-FRAME TILT

6-Run Uprising in 13th Gives Bruins 12-6 Win Over Cards

St. Louis, June 6. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today dropped the Cardinals from their top position in the National league by virtue of a weird 13-inning 12 to 6 victory decided by a six-run Cub rally.

Eight pitchers, five wearing Red Bird ensignia toed the mound at various times. Frankie Frisch, Cardinal manager, was banished from the field in the twelfth after he grabbed Umpire Rigler's arm in protesting that Medwick was not out at the home plate.

Rigler struck Frisch with his mask, and other Cardinals attempted to punch the umpire before order was restored.

Epsom Derby Won by Windsor Lad, Outsider

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Epsom Downs, Eng., June 6 (AP)—Amid tense silence that testified to the disappointment of the multitude of spectators, Windsor Lad, flying the silks of the Indian potentate, the Maharaja of Rajpipla, ran the legs off the wonder horse, Colombo, in the last uphill furlong to win the 151st Epsom Derby today.

The entire royal family and perhaps a half-million subjects of his majesty, King George, saw the hitherto unbeaten Lord Glanely's Colombo, favorite at 11 to 8, move up and make his challenge in dramatic fashion in the final straightaway only to falter before Windsor Lad's closing burst of speed.

Lord Woolavington's Easton, purchased only a few weeks ago for $75,000 from Ralph Strassburger of Philadelphia, finished under a whip drive to nip the fading Colombo by a neck. Windsor Lad, held at 15 to 2 in the wagering, was a length in front of Easton, a 100 to 9 shot.

Equals Record

Under Charley Smirke's well judged ride, the aply named winner, an Irish-bred son of Blandford, ran the one and one-half miles over sun-baked turf in 2:34 to equal the record made by Hyperion last year.

Only for one fleeting instant did the great majority of the fans who backed Colombo have a chance to cheer.

The highly regarded colt, the shortest priced favorite since the World War, had trailed the leaders in the first long uphill run across from the grandstand and appeared well beaten as he failed to gain ground in the next half-mile and the field, led by Tiberius, came flying around Tattenham corner leading into the final straightaway.

But a quarter of a mile from home a mighty cry arose. "Here comes Colombo." There he was, coming strong on the outside, moving on Windsor Lad, which was running easily on the rail after taking command at the top of the stretch, and Easton which had moved up with the Maharaja's colt.

From there the race was strictly a three-horse affair. One-eighth of a mile from the finish Colombo's drive carried even with the other two for an instant as they hit the final incline. The cheering reached crescendo for a moment and then died as Windsor Lad, in a few strides, put a length between him and the others.

William Woodward's Bondsman, the lone American entry in the field of 19, never figured in the running after making a brave start and running up with the leaders for the first half-mile. He galloped in 16th almost a half-furlong behind the leaders.

Colombo, winner of seven straight races as a juvenile and his only two other starts this year, including the two thousand guineas, was beaten as many expert turfmen said he would be.

From a good start, Medieval Knight was the first to show in front. At the mile post he was still in front but yielded the pace setting to Tiberius as the field sped down hill on the back stretch. At Tattenham corner, Tibertius was still in front but Smirke had moved Windsor Lad up fast into second place. Once they headed for the judges, the Maharaja's colt quickly bounded to the front while Colombo swung wide. That move may have cost him the race as Smirke took Windsor lad the shortest way home.

Tiberius finished fourth and was trailed by Alishah, Umidwar, and Valerius. The others were strung out far to the rear.

Pirates Grab Pair From Reds, 3-1; 5-1

Cincinnati, June 6 (AP)—Pittsburgh gathered two games from the Cincinnati Reds today, the first by a timely single, the last by the heavy hitting of the Waner boys.

The scores were 3 to 1 and 5 to 1, with the last game credited to Birkofer, a rookie pitcher from the Cincinnati sandlots.

Jensen's single in the eighth, with the bases loaded and two out, drove in two runs for Pittsburgh and broke a 1-1 tie in the first contest. It happened it was his only hit of the game. Padden's single, Lloyd Waner's triple, and Paul Waner's double in the ninth of the second game brought two runs to clinch the contest.

TIGERS ASSUME LEAD POSITION

Victory Over Indians With Yank Defeat Causes Shift

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers got only one hit off Bob Weiland and Mel Harder who pitched the eighth inning but defeated Cleveland 2 to 1 in a bitterly contested pitchers' duel. Schoolboy Rowe held the Indians to six hits. Two passes, Gehringer's single and an infield out in the sixth caused the Indians' downfall.

The defeat of the Yankees in the second game of their doubleheader with Boston today put the Tigers in the lead in the American league.

Rowe retired the Indians in order in the first inning. Weiland walked Goslin and Gehringer in the Tiger half, but they died on base.

Trosky singled in the Indian second, but a double play retired the side. The Tigers went out in order Greenberg and Hayworth fanning.

Rowe retaliated by striking out Myatt and Weiland in the third. The Tigers went out one, two, three.

Gehringer Singles

Each side went out in order in the fourth, Rowe fanning Knickerbocker and Weiland striking out Gehringer.

Again the teams went out one, two, three in the fifth. Trosky and Hayworth retiring via the strike-out route.

Rowe continued his mastery of the Indian bats in the sixth but the Tigers broke loose in their half. After Fox had grounded out, Goslin walked and stole second. Walker also was passed and Gehringer singled, scoring Goslin. It was the first hit off Weiland. Rogell forced Gehringer at second. Walker scoring on the play. Greenberg fanned for the third out.

With one out, Knickerbocker beat out an infield hit in the Indian's seventh but the next two men went out. The Tigers went out in order.

The Indians finally scored in the eighth after Trosky had struck out. Burnett singled and took third when Myatt also singled. Hale batted for Moore and singled scoring Burnett. Holland batted Weiland and popped out. Rice forced Hale for the third out.

Mel Harder went to the box for Cleveland in the Tiger half of the eighth and retired Fox, Goslin and Hayworth.

Knickerbocker singled to open the Indian ninth but was forced by Averill. Vosmik and Trosky grounded out to end the game.

A couple of newcomers did practically all the hitting for the Big Six yesterday as one member was idle and two of the other surviving members got one blow apiece. Bill Urbanski of Boston hit twice in five attempts and Bill Terry of the Giants hit two out of three to capture second and third places in the National League division, ousting Joe Medwick and Arky Vaughan. Rollie Hemsley hit once in four tries, dropping five points for a total loss of 19 in two days while Charley Gehringer collected the only Detroit hit of the day out of two times up. His loss was only one point. The standing:

American Open Golf Championship Begins Today at Philadelphia

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Philadelphia, June 6 (AP)—Thunderstorms broke the grip of the heat wave late today and 149 golfers, representing the pick of American amateur and professional talent, hope to crack the resistance of old man par starting tomorrow in a wide open scramble for the United States open golf championship.

A veritable deluge broke up the final workouts of the combatants, but whatever the weather tomorrow for the first 18 holes of the 72-hole test over the historic East course of the Merion Cricket club, the tournament promises to develop one of the hottest fights in years.

Goodman "Outsider"

It will be waged over the same battleground where Bob Jones completed his "grand slam" in 1930 by winning the national amateur tournament but the famous old layout has been stiffened, 20 extra tons of sand have been poured into approximately 100 brutal-looking traps and the terrors of the old stone quarry, around which the last three holes are laid out, remain.

From the competitive standpoint it appears only a marked comeback and a good share of the "breaks" can save Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, the young amateur holder of the open crown, from being beaten by the most determined professional countercharge in years.

Only a few days off the boat, fresh from his Walker Cup conquests abroad, Goodman is rated distinctly an "outsider," no better than a 15 to 1 shot to repeat, but Johnny wasn't considered much of a threat at Chicago last year until he startled the rail birds with a 66.

If Goodman finds the pace a bit too swift, there are a number of other amateur threats, including William Lawson Little, Jr., the new British amateur titleholder, Gus Moreland, of Dallas, who shows signs of being very much "on" his game, and Howard Creel, southpaw scoring sensation from Denver, but the pre-tournament indications all point distinctly to a professional holiday.

Because Merion seems ideally suited to his well-knit, accurate game, featuring fine work around the greens, Runyan rules a 6 to 1 favorite but the pressure from all sides is such that at least a dozen other professionals have strong support and the experts figure at least 30 players in the big field have a chance to crash through. Consequently the tournament record of 286, jointly held by Chick Evans and Gene Sarazen, may be wiped out by late Saturday afternoon.

OLD BALLYHOO PRESENT AGAIN

Baer Says He Can't Be Ready for Carnera Fight in a Week

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Genuine worry over Max Baer's physical condition—or a neat bit of ballyhoo—caused the handlers of the challenger for Primo Carnera's heavyweight title to proclaim today the necessity for a week's postponement of the original date set for June 14.

Down in Asbury Park, N. J., where the night club nabob has been puffing and hauling through his workouts, Ancil Hoffman, his manager, and Jack Dempsey, his advisor, took a long look and decided Max coudn't possibly be ready for the fifteen round duel in Madison Square Garden bowl one week from tomorrow night.

Carnera Protests

"If I were Hoffman I'd ask for a postponement," said Dempsey critically, "so as to have the young man in perfect shape. He has seven days left to work and that's not enough. I think he'll come through all right and be the Baer that knocked off Schmeling but it will require plenty of hard work. Carnera is ready now. Baer isn't."

Hoffman thought that over for awhile and then announced that he'd appear at the New York state athletic commission Friday to ask the postponement. His words touched off an immediate explosion on two other main fronts—the Garden offices in New York and Carnera's training camp at Pompton Lakes, L. J.

"I refuse to consent to any postponement," Carnera fumed. "There will be a fight June 14 or not at all."

"We couldn't postpone it now," said Col John R. Kilpatrick, president of the Garden. "Too many people have made their arrangements to come here for the fight. It may just be ballyhoo."

Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, frothed and swore.

"It's a larcenous trick on the part of the Baer people," he said. "We'll object and object strenuously to any postponement. They've got an idea that if they can hold off another week Carnera will go stale and they'll get that title. Baer's been training six weeks tomorrow. He's in shape."

GIRL DROWNED TUESDAY NIGHT

Nioma Coates, 17, Victim of Cramps While in Swimming

Nioma Coates, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coates, drowned in Manistique lake about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The young girl had been assisting in housecleaning at the Manakiki Lodge, a resort on the lake, and in company with Miss Sarah White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lon White, went into the lake for a swim. Miss Coates appeared to be taken with cramps and began to call out and flounder. Her friend went to her assistance but was unable to keep her afloat and was dragged down several times before she left the struggling girl and swam for shore and got help. Charles Burton, living near, dived nine times without finding her. A game of baseball was in progress nearby and the players at once answered to the alarm and finally brought the body to the surface, 55 minutes after she sank. Dr. R. E. Spinks and Trooper Miller fram Newberry made an investigation at the scene and the body was taken to Beaulieu's for preparation for burial.

Miss Coates leaves three brothers and three sisters: Fred, Harvey and Louis, Mrs. Frank Bowler, Mrs. William Groh and Mrs. Harland Richards, besides her parents. The funeral service will be held from the Lakefield township hall on Friday afternoon, Rev. Alvin Doten of Newberry officiating.

MURAL UNVEILED

The Kreigh Collins mural, "Crafts," was unveiled on Tuesday night as a part of the class day program of the 1934 graduating class and was well received by the audience. The large picture, filling the center panel of the west wall of the school auditorium, appeared to awe the audience, filling them with an amazed respect at the composition of strong Indian bodies against a background of rock and waterfall. Many sat quietly for some time, missing much of the program following. Principal G. K. Fisher spoke of the mural and how it came about that it was procured for the Newberry school. He reported that the artist was now at work on the second one and that it would be in place before school reopened in September.

Herman Kunert, president of the board of education, received the mural as a memorial from the class, the presentation being done by Jack Tait. He stated that he believed that the class would be very proud in the years to come of their contribution not only to the school but to the culture and spirit of the community and reminded his listeners that art was the highest experience of civilization.

Miss Frasier in her valedictory, spoke on the class motto, "We Can and We Will." Her address was well thought out and contributed much to the success of the program. Rex Martin, salutatorian, expressed the gratitude to the community and to the school for the 12 years of service rendered to the class of 66 receiving their diplomas. Initiation into the National Honor society was conducted by members of the faculty, Miss Botrell, Miss Pardee, Miss Kunert and Miss Dwyer.

DELTA COUNTY DROUGHT MILD

Crops in Fair Condition; Grasshopper Campaign Starting Soon

Although rain is needed in Delta county, drought conditions here are not as severe as in other midwest areas, and crops were left in fairly good condition by the heavy rain of two weeks ago. Cooler weather, and the absence of searing winds, lessened the dry weather damage in this vicinity.

Grasshoppers, another enemy of crops, are due to appear soon, and plans have been made by county farm agent J. E. Turner to greet them with poison bran bait. Allotments of poison and bran shipped to Escanaba have been reconsigned to various parts of the peninsula by Mr. Turner. Delta and Menominee counties, listed last year as the worst affected by the hoppers, received allotments about double that of other counties.

Mr. Turner was recently appointed county director of drought relief, and while as yet there is no definite need for drought relief in Delta county, he has been instructed to be ready to take care of any situation which may arise.

REPUBLICANS URGE 'CAREFUL REFORM'

NO DANGER OF FAMINE, SUMMARY REVEALS

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The matter of fact language of an official government report which said the drought would "materially affect the national food supply" today told why President Roosevelt feared the situation had approached distaster proportions.

The president, however, made it plain that there was little likelihood of anything like famine conditions. He found support in the comprehensive summary issued by the department of agriculture. The report said the ravages of the angry and unclouded sun did not "mean there will be a national food shortage."

Otherwise, there were few cheerful lines in the most thorough review yet made of the loss and misery growing out of the worst recorded drought in this country's history. Approximately 30 states have felt its effect and the continued lack of rain is rapidly turning portions of the west and midwest into semblance of a desert.

Bit of Comfort

A bit of comfort, small as it was, came from the weather bureau. Forecasters reported local showers, "most of them light," in the Ohio valley and in the section northward from western Iowa and Nebraska during the last 24 hours. But there was nothing to indicate that a break in the dry spell was in sight.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated emphatically it was the government's duty to give all the aid at its command to those in distress and his aides were moving swiftly.

Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, said it would be his policy to give farmers in the stricken areas paying jobs where possible, instead of doling out relief money. Hopkins has already instituted a work relief program.

Chester C. Davis, the farm administrator, conferred with members of congress and said he felt the price paid for cattle in the drought section was a fair one.

The administration also went ahead with preparation for a request for approximately $525,000,000 for drought relief.

The report said wheat production would be low "but there are still large stocks on hand and total supplies should be ample to last until the 1935 crop becomes available."

"On the whole the most noticeable changes in the food situation during the next twelve months are likely to be decreases in the production of dairy products and eggs and excessive supply of low grade beef."

The summary added that the 16 north central and western states "in which small grains, hay, pastures and ranges have been most seriously damaged, contain about 46 percent of the nation's hay-and-pasture-consuming - animals. (horses, mules, cattle and sheep) and about 54 percent of the nation's hogs."

Insisting that the catastrophe would not mean the abandonment of production control efforts, farm officials privately said there were indications that farmers might be told to plant all their wheat acreage for the next crop and that an

Kills Mother, Brother With Ax

FORESTS HURT BY CWA CREWS

Darling Says Unplanned Program Harmful in Many States

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Jay N. Darling, chief of the United States biological survey, speaking before the national council of federated garden clubs here today, charged that CWA workers in many states had done more damage to forests "than can be rectified by CCC workers in 100 years."

He declared that the lack of a planned conservation program in the state had resulted in the cutting down of healthy trees and shrubs with commercial, scenic, and water shed value "that future generations will have to pay for."

"The people have stolen from nature that which they cannot use in the waste and destruction of natural resources," he said.

Darling criticized states which he said had carried on ill-advised and useless drainage projects, taking away water from "17,000,000 acres of lakes, creeks and marshes, and turning the water into the Mississippi to drown people in costly and destructive floods."

Reports submitted at committee meetings of the national council today indicated that some progress had been made in doing away with objectionable billboards, and placing them where they will not obstruct scenic views. A resolution was adopted endorsing the project of the Robert E. Lee memorial foundation to restore gardens at Straford Hall, Va., birthplace of General Lee.

Queen Astrid Of Belgium Has Son

Brussels, June 6 (AP)—Queen Astrid of the Belgians gave birth tonight to a son, the third child in the royal family of King Leopold.

The child was born at 11:35 p. m. in the royal castle at Laeken. Both mother and child were reported well.

It is understood the baby will be named Albert, for the late king, father of Leopold, who fell to his death while mountain climbing.

King LeLopold and the queen, a member of the Swedish royal family, were married in 1926. They have two other children, Josephine Charlotte, born in 1927, and Baudoin, born in 1930.

Republicans in State Control Just For Day

Lansing, Mich., June 6 (AP)—The governor's office returned to the control of the Republicans today with the temporary elevation of Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, to the office.

Fitzgerald was acting governor as a result of an apparent competition between Governor Comstock and Lieut. Gov. Allen E. Stebbins to smooth out a party quarrel in the Michigan Democratic congressional delegation at Washington.

Governor Comstock, enroute to Washington, was surprised to find the lieutenant governor aboard the same train. The information that the two were together came in a telegram from Cumberland, Md., from Governor Comstock to Fitzgerald.

"Find lieutenant governor on this train," the telegram said. "Looks like chance for a little practice for you. Don't go too far with your last Saturday's program."

The governor's facetious reference to Fitzgerald's "Saturday program" alluded to the political rally held for Fitzgerald at his home town in Grand Ledge last Saturday. It was there that Fitzgerald opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

Twin Cousins Of Dionne Girls Born

San Francisco, June 6 (AP)—Twin cousins of the Canadian Dionne quintuplets were born here today.

The twin boys, born to Mrs. Aldo Beltrami, a first cousin of Ovila Dionne, father of the Canadian babies, weigh only 2 pounds, 14 ounces, and 2 pounds, 14 1-2 ounces, respectively.

They arrived a couple of months before they were expected, Dr. Abraham Bernstein explained and consequqently are receiving special attention. Mrs. Beltrami's father's brother was the father of the father of the Canadian quintuplets, she said. The twin tendency, however, appears to come from the maternal side of her family. Her mother, Mrs. Eva Billings, was a twin and there were several sets of twins in Mrs. Billings' family.

Bloodhounds Lead Searchers to River

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 6 (AP)—Searching parties Wednesday dragged the Goulais river and searched along its banks near Searchmont, Ont., for the body of Jimmy Wheeler, 6-year-old son of a mining camp cook. Bloodhounds used in the search for the boy, missing since Saturday, twice led searchers to the river shore, indicating the boy drowned.

STATE'S DEMO LEADERS HAVE VARIED VIEWS

HINT FEDERAL POST MAY BE OFFERED COMSTOCK

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Michigan Democratic leaders met in closed session here tonight in an effort to settle party disputes within their ranks, but shortly before midnight there was no indication that an agreement would be reached between the various groups.

Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders came to the capital to talk things over with the party's delegation in congress from the state.

The meeting was closed to newspapermen by Representative Brown (D-Mich.) chairman of the meeting. It was reported, however, that a majority of the house members from Michigan opposed the renomination of Governor Comstock.

BY ROBERT C. ANDERSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Governor William A. Comstock and other Michigan Democratic leaders sat down tonight with the congressional delegation of their party from the state in what appeared to be a futile effort to agree upon anything.

A variation of views on practically all subjects of prime interest to the party in the state was so wide before the meeting began that even the members of the house expressed no hope of reaching any conclusions.

Members of the delegation interviewed before the meeting were very definite in saying that "any discussion about patronage is out." Nevertheless, one of the party of five that came to Washington with the governor was John Bare, vigorous contender for appointment as collector of customs, and supported by most of the Detroit delegation.

Bradley in Group

Another of the group was Martin J. Bradley, speaker of the house of representatives, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. senate, and reported to be the candidate of Horatio J. Abbott, Democratic national committeeman, for the office of collector of internal revenue, which post Abbott recently quit after conferences with Secretary Morgenthau, and after the latter said investigations of the conduct of the office were under way.

Although the governor had said one of his missions in Washington was to urge approval of more public works money for Michigan, his visit took on more political significance. Reports have been current recently that the governor, a candidate for renomination, might be offered a federal appointment.

Besides the governor, Abbott, Bradley and Bare the party included W. Alfred Debo, chairman

Since 1915 he has been president of the Lake Superior Mining Institute.

Negro Taxi Driver Admits Murdering Girl From Calumet

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—Inspector John I. Navarre of the police homicide squad announced tonight that Joe Lightsy, 27-year-old negro taxi driver, had admitted the murder two weeks ago of Martha Kangas, 19-year-old domestic, who came here from Calumet Mich., to find employment.

He was quoted as admitting the shooting of Miss Kangas on the night of May 24 in the rear of a vacant house at 100 Pallister avenue, several hours after his arrest. Inspector Navarre had announced earlier in the night that Lightsy had admitted firing the shot which killed William Kraft, 57, during a beer garden holdup here Sunday night.

Shot by Accident

The science of ballistics linked Lightsy with both crimes before his confession, Navarre reported. Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, examining a .45 caliber revolver found in Lightsy's possession when arrested in a rooming house, announced that the bullets that killed Kraft and the Kangas girl were fired by the gun.

In describing Lightsy's confession of the girl's slaying, Inspector Navarre quoted the taxi driver as saying:

"I met the girl about midnight on the street in front of the Pallister avenue house. I told her to come with me back of the house. She said, 'No, I'm afraid you'll hurt me'".

Lightsy said he promised not to hurt her, but only wanted her money, according to the inspector.

"When she saw the gun I had in my hand, she twisted away from me," said Lightsy. "I didn't mean to shoot her. The gun went off accidentally."

Lightsy said he dragged the body into the arbor behind the house after the girl was dead, and fled.

When arrested he was out on bond waiting trial on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Navarre said Lightsy was taken in custody for questioning about both deaths after police had scrutinized his record for carrying concealed weapons and allegedly molesting women and girls.

Detective Sergts. Charles Snyder and Oscar Berry arrested Lightsy as he slept in a rooming house today. The officers reported that Lightsy held a .45 calibre revolver in his hand as he slept. The officers overpowered him and removed him to police headquarters where Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert took a hand in the questioning.

Lieut. Earl O. Stevens, ballistic expert of the police department, examined Lightsy's gun and expressed the opinion the gun was used in both the Kraft and Kangas slayings.

Miss Kangas' body was found May 26, in an arbor behind a house at 100 Pallister avenue. She had been beaten and shot, and officials estimated she had been dead about 36 hours.

STEEL REJECTS CLOSED SHOPS

Johnson's Proposal for Special Labor Board Is Considered

BY F. J. STARZEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Employers of the steel industry declined flatly tonight to consider any proposal for a "closed shop" but reached no decision on a proposal for a special labor relations board, suggested by General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, as a means to avert a threatened general strike.

Directors of the American iron and steel institute, after a conference that had lasted since mid-morning, issued a statement declaring demands of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers "do not relate to grievances of the workers and that the sole demand is for a closed shop."

Johnson Present

The statement added "as the industry is unalterably opposed to the closed shop, the demand could not be considered."

General Johnson appeared at the meeting late in the day, after speeding from Washington by airplane, with Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, and Miss Frances Robinson, Johnson's assistant.

The recovery administrator proposed creation of a labor relations board for the steel industry to function similarly to the special agency created in settlement of the automobile strike.

No comment could be obtained from the steel leaders on the reception given Johnson's proposal. It was indicated, however, that the administrator's plan would be discussed further at tomorrow's session of the directors.

Spokesmen for the institute stressed that the NRA proposal had not been rejected.

The directors' meeting was behind closed doors but it was intimated that the general labor situation had been discussed before General Johnson's arrival, with no specific reference to the threatened strike which would affect the industry's 392,000 workers.

Bandits Explode Safe, Steal $300

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—An explosion which was heard a half-mile away this morning shattered a safe in the Lincoln Park branch of the Detroit Edison company. Three men seen leaving the building are believed to have escaped with not more than $300 the safe contained.

Swanson Approves Plan for Building 24 Naval Vessels

Washington, June 6 (AP)—In the navy's first definite move toward treaty strength, Secretary Swanson today approved plans for the construction of 24 naval vessels.

Fourteen destroyers and six submarines, Swanson said, will be the first ships built under the Vinson plan to lay down by 1939 the 102 remaining fighting craft permitted by treaty.

They will be constructed with $40,000,000 of earmarked public work funds to be provided in the deficiency appropriation bill pending in the senate.

In addition, one heavy and three light cruisers will be built out of current appropriations from specifications approved today. Swanson said the navy hoped to open bids some time in August.

The secretary's announcement, made in the interlude before a preliminary naval conversations open June 15 in London, followed a statement by President Roosevelt that no new definition of naval policy would be made in advance of the conference.

Says Quintuplets Fortunate Not To Be Born In U. S.

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Representative Truax, outspoken Democrat from Ohio, thinks it may be lucky for those five little Dionne girl babies who have been getting so much attention lately that they were born in Canada and not in the United States.

"It is fortunate for them," he told the house today, "that the quintuplets we have been reading about in the papers every day now were not born in this country, for Secretary Wallace probably would decide there were two too many and probably want to plow them under."

WILL IS UPHELD

Grand Haven, Mich., June 6 (AP)—A circuit court jury has upheld the will of Miss E. C. Reynolds, which left the bulk of a $100,000 estate to Miss Dessie Reynolds, a teacher in Muskegon Junior college. The will was contested by several nieces and nephews.

Girl Testifies Derham Admitted Being Father Of Illegitimate Child

Sault Ste. Marie, June 6—Miss Martha Danculovic, of Akron, O., and Iron Mountain, who is suing State Senator Ray Derham, of Iron Mountain, for $25,000, alleging seduction, testified in federal court today that the senator had "frequently" admitted he was the father of her child.

Later in the morning, when cross-examination was started, Miss Danculovic told of her social contacts with the Derham family. She said that in the summer of 1927, after she had been introduced to Derham in Iron Mountain, she became very friendly with both the senator and his wife, taught both how to play tennis, and from 1927 to 1931 accepted their hospitality on various occasions.

She also admitted that she was a Christmas dinner guest at the Derham house at least once and that Mr. and Mrs. Derham often visited at the home of Joseph Danculovic, her brother.

She denied she had anything to do with the loan of $100 made by Senator Derham to her brother, Joseph, to help pay her expenses at the Northern State Teachers' college in Marquette. The transaction was entirely between Derham and her brother, she asserted, adding that her brother paid back $95 of the loan and she paid $5.

Attitude Changed, Claim

She also stated that Mrs. Derham "seemed to resent" the loan the senator made to Joseph Danculovic and her attitude toward the plaintiff changed after that.

LIQUOR COMISH PASSES ON BIDS

C. B. Farrell Is Granted License for Sale of Spirits

Lansing, Mich., June 6 (AP)—The state liquor control commission today set in motion machinery for supplementing its system of state liquor stores.

The commission began accepting bids on some 750 applications by merchants throughout the state for the privilege of selling liquor. By nightfall the commission had designated some seventy merchants in 23 counties.

To a woman went the distinction of being the first specially designated merchant. She is Mrs. Mildred G. Pizer, who operates a department store at Harrisville, Alcona county. Mrs. Pizer's bid was one of two accepted for the county, the other being that of Charles T. Mills, grocery and meat store proprietor at Lincoln.

Druggists Favored

One of the successful bidders was Everett Cole, who operates a garage and grocery store at St. James on Beaver Island.

Most of the bids were on the basis of the full return of $1,200 a year allowed under the liquor control act. Some agreed to handle liquor, however, for less, including one bid for $250.

The opening batch of designations showed the commission will carry out its anticipated policy of favoring druggists' applications. More than half of the first group designated were druggists but some drug store applications were rejected.

An application submitted by a dentist was rejected at Boyne City. Merchants who will handle liquor include cigar stores, hotels, general stores, filling stations, oil companies, bakeries, hardware stores, and produce companies.

The bids submitted by the merchants are in the nature of a contract with the commission. The commission will sell liquor to the merchants at a minimum of 15 percent below the regular retail price with a maximum profit to the merchant of $1,200 a year. The number of merchants in each locality are regulated on a graduated population basis.

Merchants licensed so far include:

Alger county — James H. Thompson, Grand Marais, general store.

Baraga county — James E. Webb, L'Anse, gas station.

Delta county—C. B. Farrell, Escanaba, druggist; G. E. Dahlin, Gladstone, druggist; John W. Nepper, Isabella, general store; Thornel Hansen, Lathrop, general store; Harry Buchman, Rapid River, druggist.

Dickinson county—William J. Tobin, Channing, hardware; City Drug company, Iron Mountain; Smaniotti Brothers, Loretto, general store; George Twardzik, Norway township, gas station; James Nora, Norway, groceries.

Permit To Serve Beer At One-Arm Chairs Is Granted

Detroit, June 6 (AP)—George F. Carroll, Detroit manager for the state liquor control commission, said today that permission has been granted officials at Navin field and the Detroit race track to serve beer at "one-arm" chairs. Lack of room in which to place tables was the reason for the special permit, Carroll said.

H. P. FLETCHER SELECTED FOR PARTY LEADER

PROGRESSIVE, LIBERAL SPIRIT IS ADVOCATED

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—The Republican national committee today declared a new platform of "careful reform" for the nation, dispatched thanks to former President Hoover for championing "American governmental ideals" and selected Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, former ambassador to Italy, for the party chairman.

Fletcher's election, after 48 hours of controversy, was seconded by one of his strongest rivals for the post, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, the choice of a block of western and mid-western committeemen, with support from eastern leaders including Henry Roraback of Connecticut and Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Hoover Praised

The new platform, issued as the basis on which the party will ask for votes in the fall congressional races, declared for a "liberal and progressive spirit," and made the party stand for social legislation to end pressing economic problems.

Fletcher and John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, were the only two names in nomination as Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman of the party, began calling the roll by states. The sessions were still closed.

The election of the new chairman came at 2:34 p. m., central standard time. Of the 92 votes cast, Fletcher received 67 and Hamilton 25. Hamilton immediately moved that the election be declared unanimous.

Before the balloting started, the committee dispatched a telegram to former President Herbert Hoover reading:

"The Republican national committee, in meeting assembled, sends you most cordial greeting and reiterates its appreciation of your devotion to our country's best interests and your substantial contribution to the upholding and advancement of American ideals of government we express the earnest hope that you may be spared for many years to enjoy the well-earned gratitude of your countrymen."

The new platform declared that the country had been "backward in social legislation" and announced that the Republican party was determined to meet the problems of unemployment, of impoverished old age, and of depressions in general.

Score Gold Policy

But it called the recovery program "dictatorial," declaring American institutions were in danger of being engulfed by an all-powerful central government, and accused the Democrats of reckless spending and risky inflation.

As for business, the new platform said:

"We believe in individual initiative and the maintenance of competition," but added parenthetically competition should be "check-

TINKER MAKES OFFER

RECOGNITION of the fact that excellent pasturage is offered in the national forests of Michigan, located in the upper peninsula, while live stock is starving in drought sections of the United States, is given in the offer made on Tuesday by E. W. Tinker, United States regional forester, to throw open these areas to live stock located in less favored territories. The Ottawa, Marquette and Hiawtha national forests in the upper peninsula, comprising many thousands of acres, together with similar forest areas in the lower peninsula, are made available to live stock owners of the drought areas by Mr. Tinker with but most moderate restrictions. It is proposed that newly planted areas in the national forests be barred from pasturage and a nominal regulatory fee of seven and a half cents per head per month, be paid by the live stock owners. In the offer announced by Mr. Tinker, Munising, upper peninsula headquarters for the federal forestry service, is made the pasturage application headquarters for this section, while Manistee and East Tawas are designated as registration headquarters for the lower peninsula forest areas.

Superior summer live stock grazing conditions offered on upper peninsula lands, have been urged for many years and for various periods have been tried out by southeastern live stock owners, but at no time have the grazing advantages of this section been tested in a wholesale manner as is now proposed, as an emergency measure. If it can be proven that live stock can be successfully supported here during the summer months on the mere federal forest areas, a use for millions of acres of state lands and privately owned cut over lands, will have been developed. Forward looking citizens of the peninsula, who recognize the problem that is offered in the future use of now idle lands in this part of Michigan, will hope that a generous test of the pasturage advantages of this section will result from the emergency offer made by Mr. Tinker.

If the experiment is successful, it may result in a definite solution of a problem that has bothered economists who have sought a use for cut over areas of the peninsula for a number of years.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN?

IT WAS apparently very easy for members of England's house of commons to shout approval of the decision of that government to refuse further debt payments to the United States, until this government "is willing to confer on full and final settlement of the whole debt problem." Which of course means that England expects a substantial scaling down of its five billion dollar indebtedness to the United States and the open challenge is now made that no further payments shall be made until their indebtedness is reduced to England's own idea as to the amount it should pay.

It is not hard to believe that when announcement was made in the English house of commons that the government of the United States would loan Great Britain some five billion dollars to finance that nation's war rehabilitation program, that announcement was also greeted with shouts of approval from the members. Neither is it hard to believe that at the time this government authorized the British loan, members of the house of commons and the people of the Empire hailed the United States as a world benefactor and a helpful friend to all mankind.

But the approach of the day of settlement has wrought a most remarkable change. The acclaim that greeted the announcement of the loan is forgotten and the high regard in which this nation was held by the British people has been entirely forgotten.

Under the circumstances one cannot help but wonder what would be the reaction of the British house of commons if the debt shoe were on the other foot—if the government of the United States owed England five billion dollars and our congress had said "We will make no further payments until Great Britain reduces our indebtedness to the amount be believed we should pay in discharge of an honest obligation."

NATURE TAKES TOLL

NEWS of the drouth and heat wave hammering the corn belt is a sharp reminder that the farmer's primary enemies are neither over-production nor high freight rates, but ancient inanimate forces that can neither be defeated nor wholly understood.

The first cave man who scratched the soil with a stick and dropped a few wild seeds into the scratch was at the mercy of the elements; and the ultra-modern farmer, who uses expensive machinery and gets advice from his state agricultural college, is, in the last analysis, in the same boat.

Whether he will get a good crop depends on things over which he has not the slightest control—rain, wind, and sun. If they are kind, his ground will yield bountifully; if they aren't, it won't, and there is nothing he can do about it.

The old risks of agriculture—the oldest business risks in all the world—are the same now as they were before the pyramids had been built.

The corn belt's sufferings this spring remind one of those eerie predictions some geologists have made—that the greater part of the interior of America is destined, some day, to become semi-arid and barren, a nearly waterless region, where things will not grow and men will not be able to live except as scattered nomads.

To be sure, not all geologists make this prediction, and those who make it put the time of this change far in the future—which, to a geologist, means anywhere from 50,000 years up; so that no one need worry for fear that the hot, dry weather which is blighting crops today is the forerunner of the desert's arrival in Iowa.

Nevertheless, these stories of parching drouth and devastating heat make one think about it. And they lead one to wonder how long it will be before men get sense enough to settle their differences with one another and present a united front toward their real enemies the implacable and unresting forces of nature.

For these troubles of the present day over-production, marketing difficulties, tariff restrictions, falling prices, and the like—are, after all, secondary. Settle them all, and there still remains the task of forcing the earth to yield enough to feed her teeming millions.

That is the oldest of all society's problems, and it will probably be the last to be solved.

ENGLAND'S MAN HUNT

ENGLAND had a great manhunt of her own not long ago. A desperate gunman was in flight, just as desperate gunmen have been in flight in the United States every so often, and all the powers of England's police set out after him.

They trapped him, finally, and, seeing capture certain, he killed himself.

Now the interesting thing is to see what it was this fearsome thug had done. He had shot and wounded a policeman! To be sure, the wound was not serious. Nevertheless, the shooting had taken place, and the sensation that gripped all England was quite as great as the one that Clyde Barrow raised in the United States.

The comparison between what it takes to make a sensation in England and in America is bound to be rather painful to law-abiding citizens of the United States.

FIASCO'S FINALE

EARLY this summer, officials of the American Graves Registration Service will go to Archangel, that chilly Russian White Sea port, to exhume the bodies of some 40 American soldiers.

The bodies will be sent back to the United States for burial, as has been done with so many soldier casualties from the battlefields of France.

Their transportation will close one of the most melancholy chapters in American military history.

We sent an expeditionary force to Archangel, late in the World War. We were not at war with Russia, but American troops fought Russian troops, in the dead of Arctic winter. Michigan lads who had enlisted to fight the Kaiser in France found themselves far up in Russia, making war long after the armistic had been signed.

It was hard to see why they were there, at the time, and it is even harder now. They died heroically, as soldiers do—but it is very difficult to keep from feeling that their deaths were in vain.

Donna of the Big Top

CHAPTER XXXVI

"The Adams baby has diphtheria," Minnie announced as she took the remains of yesterday's roast turkey from the oven and placed it on a platter. "Ma says that last night Mis' Adams sent for Doc Leamon. He was there for more'n an hour and he had to do something to the baby's throat.

"I hope the little thing will live," Donna answered. "Is anyone with Mrs. Adams?"

"Yes, her sister's there."

"Diphtheria is a terrible disease," Donna said. "I remember once when a child in the circus had it ..." Her voice trailed off as if a sudden thought had struck her. The Adams family were the Siddals' nearest neighbors. While Donna scarcely knew them, under other circumstances she would have offered her assistance at once.

The child's illness seemed an answer to her prayer. What could be more natural than to tell Bill that she was going over to see if there was anything she could do for the family with the sick child? And on the way back from town she would stop and make good her statement.

It seemed a positive inspiration. She had been unable to invent any excuse important enough to take her to Lebanon on a day when Grandfather Siddal was so ill. And Donna felt that she had to have an excuse. Con David would be waiting for her at three o'clock. She had promised she would meet him. What Con might do if she failed to be there, she dared not think!

At noon over the dinner table Donna passed on Minnie's information about the Adams baby. She added the fact that she knew something about diphtheria and remembered how they had treated a little girl in the circus who was suffering from it.

"If you don't think Grandfather needs me here I think I'll drive over to Adamses' this afternoon," she said. "Maybe there's something I could do to help."

Bill, who was naturally friendly and had often worried a little over his bride's reserve and distaste for mingling with strangers, greeted this suggestion with approval.

"That'd be nice, Honey. Mrs. Adams is a nice little woman and I reckon she's about worried sick. I know the little codger. Just the sort of kid I hope we'll have some day. Better go early though—it looks as though we might have a blow."

The skies had darkened during the morning. There were snow clouds and a stiff wind was blowing that threatened to turn into a blizzard. As Bill spoke, a few big flakes scurried through the air and danced against the window pane.

"This time last year," Bill added, "we were snowed in for a week. Telegraph and telephone poles blew down. Trains couldn't get through, and a heap of livestock died of cold and starvation. I don't want you to get caught in a blizzard, Honey."

"There's not much chance when I'm going just half a mile," Donna laughed. But she glanced uneasily out of the window.

"I'll drive you over, if you like."

This was what Donna had feared he would say. "No, no, I'd rather you didn't. I'm sure Grandfather will be all right, but just the same I think one of us should be within call."

"Maybe you're right."

There was a new farm magazine to look over and Bill sprawled on the couch in the living room for some time after finishing his meal. Now and then Donna looked apprehensively at the clock, watching the hands spin around with what seemed amazing speed. Her feeling of guilt deepened with every moment. There was no reason for her to wait until Bill left the house. For that matter, he gave no indication that he intended to leave. Somehow, though, she could not make up her mind to go while he stayed inside, lying there so completely ignorant of the raging tumult in her heart.

The snow flakes were falling faster now and the skies were more lowering. Bill yawned and dropped his magazine to the floor at his feet.

"Honey, did you notice Dr. Freeman this morning?" he asked. "Looks bad, doesn't he?"

"Does he?"

"Yes. I wonder if there is any truth in the reports going around?"

"What reports?"

Bill laughed and reached out his hand. "You're not a gossip, are you, dear? I heard in town the other day that his wife is just a little too intimate with the fellow who boards with them. Of course in a small town everything a woman does is magnified and misconstrued but—"

"Bill! I'm surprised at you! To think you would listen to such talk!"

"I didn't, Sweet," Bill laughed good-naturedly. "I was in Buck's feed store when Mrs. Freeman went by, and Buck and George Lincoln got to talking. I couldn't help hearing what they said."

"Didn't you stand up for her?"

"How could I, considering she was with the boarder when we saw her? There's an old saying that where there's fire there must be smoke. No—it's the other way around, isn't it? If she doesn't want talk, she shouldn't lay herself open to it by her actions. It's too bad. Freeman is a fine fellow. I reckon he's heard things."

"I suppose," Donna said tensely, "if there were smoke around me you'd look for the fire?"

"Sure would—but you take care there's no smoke! Boy, look at that snow. If you're going to the Adamses, you'd better get started."

"Yes. I suppose so."

"I'll get the car out for you." He rose and went to the window. "I don't believe I'd go today, Honey. This may blow over, but it looks like we're in for a real blizzard."

"I'd rather go and get it over with."

"Well, you're the doctor." He left the room and she went upstairs to change her dress. It was two o'clock now. Any chance she had had to stop at the Adams

A BROKEN VASE

A broken vase preserves a fading rose
A little longer, ere its beauty goes.
    And I would leave that rose in such a vase,
    Without the other either out of place.
Crystal and silver for our happy hours,
But fetch them not to hold life's fading flow'rs.
    Crystal and silver, youth looks well in these,
    But broken vases for our memories.

For life's a vase that has held many things,
The brightest blossoms of the early springs,
    So quick to bloom, and quite as quick to bend,
    The fragile violet, the springtime friend.
Then come the roses that will linger on
In broken vases when the spring is gone,
    The fading roses, kept alive with tears
    To leave their fragrance down the long, long years.

A broken vase a beauty will retain
That only time makes manifest and plain,
    A beauty only that the very old
    Can ever catch and ever really hold.
Crystal and silver for the joys of youth
But old containers for the things of truth:
    The sweetest fragrance clings to such as these,
    Life's broken vases, filled with memories.

Inability to hit in the pinches forced Escanaba to drop the first home game of the Marquette Delta county league season to Ishpeming, at South Park yesterday, by a score of 3 to 1. A 19 year old pitcher answering to the name of Swamson, hurled the entire game for Ishpeming and veritably stood the Escanaba sluggers on their heads, Freddie Olmsted and Ernie Bourke being the only batters to register safe hits. Carl Walsh started the game for Escanaba and was followed by Garland.

Dr. Harry W. Long will leave tonight for Chicago where he will visit for a few days before proceeding to New York and next Saturday will sail for Europe from that port on the White Star liner Oceanic.

Fifteen seniors will receive their diplomas of graduation from St. Joseph's high school after impressive commencement exercises on June 19. The graduates are: Elizabeth Walsh, Mary Girard, Lillian Peller, Marie Jaeger, Jacob Bink, Michael Bink, Elmer St. Martin, Catherine Bartel, Leo Ruder, Lillian Laviolette, Cordelia Steinmetz, Eva Viau, Alixe Collins, Michael Peller and Veronica Sullivan.

A class of 12 students will be graduated from St. Anne's Grammar school at the Peterson opera house on the evening of June 18 as follows: Leo Savageau, John Grenier, Gordon Bray, May Green, Leo Meloche, Ernest Moreau, Ernest Perron, Helen Moreau, Bernadette Joint, Robert Gabourie, Della Fontaine and Aurora LaPoint.

Miss Irene Barron, of Flat Rock, has been signally honored by the officials of the Northern State Normal school, in being selected to lead the list of honor students from the normal, by membership in the Phi Epsilom honor society.

Seniors Planning Novel Program; Awards to be Given at Time

Along with the final examinations seniors are now preparing for Class Night which is to be held on the evening of Wednesday, June 13.

This year, numbers on the program will be introduced by the four senior class officers, Francis Weingartner, president; Guy Freeman, vice president; Ernest Fraser, secretary, and Norman Peterson, treasurer.

A feature of the program will be a pictorial pageant in which the imagined change that 20 years will make in the appearance of certain seniors will be depicted. This will be done by means of a large book which is to be opened and the pages turned to show the members individually.

Two other features of the program will be the naming of the best all-round girl and the awarding the University of Michigan award given by the U. of M. Delta County club by a representative of the club.

Other awards to be given at the time are the National Forensic league keys and letters to various members of the class for their activities in public speaking during the year.

Gardens Damaged By Dogs; Owners Warned By Police

Following a series of complaints that flowers and vegetable gardens in various parts of the city have been damaged by dogs, Chief of Police Torval Kallerson yesterday issued warning to all dog owners of the city that the animals will no longer be allowed to run at large. He pointed out regulations pertaining to keeping of dogs, provide that they shall not be allowed to run at large within the city limits and when on the street must be leashed.

Regulations also provide that each dog must be licensed and thus far this year but few permits have been taken out by dog owners. Licenses are now on sale at the city hall. Within a short time a checkup will be conducted and all unlicensed animals picked up.

THEATRES

"Massacre" with Richard Barthelmess and "Spitfire" with Katharine Hepburn are showing again today at the Rialto Theatre as the benefit show sponsored by the Epworth league of the Methodist church.

"Massacre" brings to the screen a story not only packed with dramatic action and colorful spectacles but a unique romance different from the usual film love fare. The picture is from a story by Robert Gessner of Escanaba, based on his book "Massacre," a careful study of Indian reservation life, and accurately depicts the startling facts disclosed.

While it paints with stark realism and uncompromising adherence to facts the conflict of the half savage Redman with the civilization of the whites, it also catches all the picturesque spirit of an ancient race with its quaint and authentic tribal customs, its religious rites and ceremonial dances.

Illustrated Talk On India At Legion Hall Tonight

An illustrated lecture on India today will be given this evening in the Legion hall by Adjutant Hampus Swan under the sponsorship of the Salvation Army. Adj. Swan, late of India where he spent seven years doing missionary work for the Salvation Army, is now on furlough in the United States. He is soon to return to India to resume his work.

Among the various subjects to be graphically described are the leper colonies, boys' industrial training, criminal settlements, strange religious festivals, Mahatma Gandhi and the Army's work in the villages.

Two lectures will be given, one at 7 o'clock and the other at 8:30 o'clock.

In a communication submitted by Zack W. Van Wagoner advised by telegram that such was not necessary." The adverb "not" was unintentionally omitted.

Ivan Schuster arrived last evening from West Depere, Wis., to spend the summer months at his home. Ivan was a member of the graduating class at St. Norbert's high school.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS RULING

Road Board Not Liable For Compensation in Sid Grace Case

A circuit court judgment in favor of the Board of County Road Commissioners of Schoolcraft county in a case regarding compensation to Sidney Grace, who was injured while in the employ of the county road commission, was affirmed by the state supreme court according to an opinion received here yesterday by the local law firm of Hixson & Herbert, attorneys for the defendants against the Fidelity and Causalty Company of New York. The suit involved a sum of approximately $8,000.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, the plaintiff and appellant in the case, through its attorneys, Derham & Derham, of Iron Mountain, set up a claim that the insurance company was not liable because of failure on the part of the defendant in not giving immediate written notice of the accident as was provided in the policy. The accident to Mr. Grace was said to have occurred on July 6, 1929, and notice was not given to the insurance company until December 24, 1930, the attorneys for the plaintiff stated.

Defense attorneys alleged that the road commission was not informed that the insurance company intended to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice until the suit was actually started. At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, the casualty company, through its attorneys, filed a protest or disclaimer of liability on behalf of the road commission and contested it before the deputy commissioner, and at the same time made no protest against the assumption of the liability by the insurance company.

After the award had been made, Attorney Derham applied for a review of the case before the full board of the Department of Labor and Industry on the ground that no notice of the accident had been given, but later withdrew the application.

The supreme court opinion goes on to state that the road commission, relying on the provision in the policy wherein the insurer agreed to assume all obligations imposed upon the employer by his acceptance of the compensation act so far as the payment of compensation was concerned, and to defend in its name and on its behalf any suits or other proceedings which might be instituted against it on account of injuries to employees, did not employ an attorney in its defense.

"Had plaintiff's counsel at the time of his conversation with Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Christensen, or even after the award was made by the deputy," the opinion states, "notified the road commission of the intention of the plaintiff to rely on the provision in the policy relative to notice, it might, and doubtless would, have employed an attorney and endeavored to protect itself against liability.

"But during all of the time after its attention was called to the claim of the employee for compensation, the plaintiff, by the acts and conduct of its representatives, led the defendant to believe that it had no intention of relying upon the lack of notice as a defense to its liability under the terms of the policy. Upon the facts as stated, the jury were justified in finding that the plaintiff was stopped from insisting upon the breach of the policy on the part of the defendant."

The insurance company had paid Mr. Grace the sum of $1,558 which it was attempting to recover from the county road commission, holding that the commission should also be held liable for the payment of the balance of the award.

At the hearing before the deputy commissioner, Mr. Grace testified that he suffered an injury to his left side and back by being thrown from a road grader.

The case was brought to trial here during the April term of circuit court last year when a jury held that the road commission was not liable. Attorney Roy Derham then appealed the case to the state supreme court with the result that the circuit court judgment was affirmed.

Attorney J. J. Herbert argued the appeal before the supreme court at Lansing a month ago.

Browns Rally In Last Two Frames To Trim Cleaners

After pitching masterful ball for five innings, Milo Jones weakened in the last two frames to enable the Browns to win a 10-3 victory over the Manistique Cleaners in a Manistique diamond ball league game Tuesday evening at the court house grounds. Five runs in the sixth and a similar number in the seventh placed the game in the bag for the Browns after the Cleaners had held a 2-0 advantage for the first five innings.

Jones hurled splendid ball up to the sixth, holding the Browns hitless for the first four frames and scoreless during the first five. Leonard Stoor, star fast baller, settled down after a somewhat shaky start and held the Cleaners to a scingle hit in the last five frames. The Browns outhit the Cleaners 5 to

Tentative Arrangements For State Convention Made This Week

Tentative plans for the Sixtieth Annual convention of the Michigan Firemen's association to be held in Manistique July 16-19 inclusive, jointly with the Sixth Annual meeting of the Fire College, were formed here this week by Charles V. Lane, secretary and director of the Michigan State Fire college, working in conjunction with Charles E. Underwood, local fire chief.

According to the tentative plans all general assemblies will be held in the court room of the court house. Registration of delegates will take place at the fire hall Sunday afternoon and evening, July 15, and the following Monday morning between 7:30 and 10:30 a. m. In addition to the assemblies, drills, and demonstrations, plans call for a memorial service at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 17, at the Zion Lutheran church, with Dr. Glen Blackburn, pastor of the St. Alban's Episcopal church, officiating.

The first general assembly of delegates will take place at the court house Monday, July 16, at 10:30 a. m. when the meeting will be called to order by Chief G. N. Clark, association president. Rev. Blackburn will then offer a short prayer which will be followed by an address of welcome by Mayor Frank Gierke. The response will be made by President Clark on behalf of the association delegates.

Business Meeting Monday

Following roll call, Dean H. B. Dirks, of Michigan State college, dean of the engineering extension division, will give an address and H. B. Correll, deputy insurance commissioner will speak on the topic, "Cooperation Between Firemen and Insurance Companies."

Another general assembly will be held at the court house at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when Chief Roy Mottessherd, of Dearborn, wil speak on "Standardization of Charges Covering Fire Department Services Outside of One's Own Community." Sam Robinson, of Lansing, assistant state fire marshal, will then give an address and Captain Talmadge, also of Lansing, will conclude the afternoon meeting with a talk on "Individual Fireman's Membership and Insurance."

The annual business meeting of the association will be held Monday evening at 7:30 when election of officers will take place, a site decided upon for the 1935 convention, and miscellaneous business matters brought up for discussion.

Work in connection with the Fire College, which will no doubt prove of great interest to the general public, will be held Tuesday, Wednesday forenoon, and Thursday afternoon. Chief Ernest Daunter, of Jackson, will give a talk and demonsration on hose evolution Tuesday morning from 9 to 10:30 o'clock on the court house lawn, while Earl Miller, of Lansing, will give a similar demonstration on first aid immediately following.

In the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock a drill team, not yet elected, will give a demonstration of salvage work, showing how goods can be kept from damage by fire and water. Demonstrations of apparatus and equipment will occupy the remainder of the afternoon. At 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, the delegates will assemble at the fire station to march from there in a body to the Zion Lutheran church where memorial services will be held.

On Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Chief W. H. Mitchell, of St. Joseph, will give a talk and demonstration on ladder evolution, and at 10:15 o'clock the firemen will make an inspection report of the old Westside school building, inspection blanks on which will be turned in at 1 p. m.

Sight Seeing Trip

In the afternoon at 1 o'clock firemen will assemble at the fire station and receive transportation for a sight seeing trip on Wilderness drive including a trip to a civilian conservation corps camp and to the Big Spring. The parties will drive north on M-94 as far as Steuben, thence through the lake district in the vicinity of the Great Northwoods Resort, and then to US-2 via the Thunder Lake road.

The association banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the new gymnasium to be followed by a dance in the old gym.

Members of the association will again convene in general assembly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, July 19, when reports of committees will be heard and R. C. Loughead will deliver an address on "Hydraulics and Fire Streams."

The association will conclude its sessions in the afternoon when several interesting tests and demonstrations will be held, includingf the burning of a building in determining the relative effectiveness of chemical and water in combatting fires. A building has been secured which will be partitioned in the center, each half of the structure being identical in order to arrive at a definite conclusion in the test.

Wives of local firemen are planning several social functions for the entertainment of women who will accompany their husbands to the convention.

I speaking of the merits of the Fire College, Mr. Lane stated that the demonstrations and drills not only make firemen more efficient in fighting fire, but has for its purpose the pointing out of various ways and means by which firemen may safeguard themselves more properly for their dangerous occupation.

It is expected that the convention will attract well over 200 delegates to Manistique.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—Except for oils, metals and scattered issues, rallying power in the stock market played out today.

Although the Wall Street atmosphere seemed clear of a good deal of its recent pessimism, bulls were reluctant to follow the recovery movement until news was more favorable.

Firmness in bonds and most active commodities supported a good undertone in stocks but the rally the past two days had gone far enough to invite profit-taking by traders.

Gains predominated in the list generally at the finish, the average of 90 stocks closing three-tenths of a point higher at 77.4.

Losses of minor fractions were recorded for American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and other key issues.

Trading dwindled as the rally was checked after further modest gains in early trading. Sales on the stock exchange totaled 665,900 shares against 741,160 in the preceding session.

Wide fluctuations were recorded for a few stocks in thin trading. Mexican Petroleum, which rarely trades, jumped 10 points on a small transaction. Norfolk & Western spurted 8 points to 180, within 2 points of the 1934 peak. Santa Fe preferred moved up 2½ points in belated response to declaration of the semi-annual preferred dividend yesterday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 6—Some moisture and much cooler weather contrasting with recent widespread drought and abnormal heat led to material setbacks of grain prices today.

Lowest quotations reached for wheat, 3 cents under the day's top figures, were witnessed at the last after a succession of unusually numerous changes. Northwestern advices indicated likelihood of recovery of crop prospects in some areas, although in other sections of domestic spring wheat territory it was asserted that even under the most favorable circumstances hereafter the crop would be light.

Wheat closed weak, 1½ cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1¼ to 2 1-8 off, oats ½ to 1 cent dwon, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 21 cents.

Corn and oats traders took their cue mainly from the action of wheat. Moisture received was looked upon as of decided benefit to the corn crop.

Provisions were easy, responsive to the course of grain values and more or less ignoring firmness of the hog market.

Curb Market Mixed With Gains, Losses

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 6 (AP)—The curb had a mixed tone at the close today but despite profit taking in some of the recent gainers, a number of shares improved, particularly oils.

Variations in final quotations were mostly within fractional limits. Around mid-session the list was generally higher but scattered offerings appeared near the finish.

Gulf Oil, firm yesterday, advanced 3 1-8 points to close at 63, other petroleum shares showing fractional improvement included Humble Oil, International Petroleum, Standard Oils of Indiana and Ohio.

Electric Bond and Share common eased slightly, but the senior issues were firm. Hiram Walker dipped a point, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass advanced as much. Lake Shore was a shade lower, Swift & Company and Greyhound Corporations closed steady.

Transfers approximated 126,000 shares compared with 131,000 yesterday.

New York, June 6 (AP)—Bonds displayed further firmness today although gains for the most part were modest and there were a sufficient number of scattered losses to temper bullish enthusiasm.

Due to an increased demand for some of the federal issues, the trading volume expanded to $12,521,000, par value, against $10,803,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point to 85.8.

Treasury securities were quiet and rather narrow. There was a run on Home Owners' Loan 4s. This issue accounted for nearly $3,000,000 of a turnover of about $3,900,000 in the federal section. It showed a gain of 2-32nds of a point. Prices of the new 3s and 2 1-8s, traded over the counter on a "when issued" basis, were about unchanged.

Corporations Steady

The majority of prime investment corporation bonds were steady to higher. Such issues as Santa Fe adjustment 4s, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Union Pacific refunding 4s and Pennsylvania general 4¼s edged up to new highs for the year or longer.

Gains of fractions to a point or more were recorded by some issues of Alleghany Corp., American Chain, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Chesapeake Corp., Chicago & North Western, Colorado & Southern, Consolidated Gas, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, International Paper, K. C. Ft. Scott & Memphis, "Soo" Line, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Otis Steel, Southern Pacific, Studebaker, Utilities Power & Light, Vanadium, Wabash and Western Maryland.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

place on her way to town was gone. She dare not keep Con waiting in a snow storm. She had chosen the cemetery for a meeting place because it seemed the place where they would be least likely to encounter anyone whom she knew, but as Donna slipped from her house dress into a dark, heavy wool it occurred to her that, of all places in the world, she had chosen the worst. If she should be seen there with Con the worst construction possible would be given to the affair.

She heard the wheels of the automobile crunching on the hard ground outside, and the noisy chug-chug of the engine. Then Bill whistled. Donna snatched up her coat and hat. With a new desperation she planked the hat on her head and drew on her coat.

Bill helped her into the little car. "Don't stay long," he said, kissing her. "You aren't a crack driver at best and in the snow—"

"Mother hen!" she laughed.

She turned at the bend in the road to wave to him. He was still standing on the porch looking after her, the wind whipping his dark hair and making it stand on end. Something in his posture, as though he had bidden her farewell and was taking a last, yearning look at her, caught at Donna's heart and almost stifled her breathing.

She thought, "Oh, God—suppose it's the last time I'll ever see him! Suppose this foolhardiness of mine should separate us! Suppose God, as a punishment for all the things I've done, should tear him away from me!"

Words that Grandfather Siddal had spoken about intentions being more important than actions seemed trivial now, though in the past she had used them to reassure her failing spirits over and over again. Every step she had taken that had drawn the net of intrigue tighter flashed across her memory.

There had been many opportunities to set herself right with the man she had married, but she had let all of them slip by. Cowardice had made her do it. Donna knew that now. Cowardice and the terrible fear that she might lose Bill's love. Oh, if she could only have understood before! Each step in the angle of subterfuge had led to another. Each step made it harder to turn around and face the truth. And now the very things she had done to save her love might take it away from her!

She drove past the Adams farm house, scarcely conscious that she was passing it. Once the car skidded on the road, now covered with a thin layer of soft, slippery snow that was all the more treacherous because of the heavier coat of ice underneath. The cold wind and the driven snow flakes stung Donna's cheeks. The windshield needed constant wiping. She did not see Lem Holden's little car as they passed at the edge of town, nor hear his cheery greeting, "Hello, Mrs. Siddal!"

If she had, she might have been given the letter that would have spared both Bill and herself the countless hours of agony.

To all lovers of nature now is the time to get out in the open, to ride through country roads or wherever one may wish to go, to see trees arrayed in the different shades of green, the apple blossoms and lilacs all lending a exotic perfume to the air, there is however two things that spoil the beauty and they are mosquitoes, of which there is an abundant supply of wherever one goes, and the hot, dry weather that we've had for a couple of weeks. Local farmers are hoping for rain to start their crops before they dry up altogether.
